NEITHER PARTY WILL LAY HANDS ON BONUS PORK

Much Economy Talk but Little Done.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—For two years the halls of congress have resounded with appeals, demands, predictions and promises of a drastic reduction of the cost of the federal government, which is about four billions of dollars a year, except last year, when depression relief panaceas boosted it to five billions.

Taxpayers are wondering why after all the talk the federal government is still costing about four billions a year. The reason is that while there has been a great deal of vaccination against extravagance it has not taken.

Pension Pork Barrel Intact.

It has been shown that expenditures could be reduced more than 1 billion dollars and the budget balanced without impairing the appropriate functions of the central government. It has been shown that a 452 million dollar saving could be effected by stopping benefits to veterans not incurred in military service. But neither the Republicans nor the Democratis have dared to lay violent hands upon the pension pork barrel. The Republicans have even run away from President Hoover's more moderate proposal to trim 127 millions from veterans' benefits.

Economizing up to date has not advanced beyond cheese paring and the ultimate results of that are in doubt. One house cuts appropriations that the other house restores. There is abundant evidence that neither house is yet economy minded.

Take Look at Record.

"Every time anybody here proposes to cut any governmental expenditures," Senator Clarence C. Dill [Radical Dem., Wash.] told the senate, "we are immediately confronted with a great line of reasons as to why we must not make the particular cut proposed. Everybody has some pet government activity which he believes must be maintained."

If we take a look at the record, as Al Smith would say, we find Senator Dill's statement profusely borne out. Let us look in upon the consideration of the department of agriculture appropriation bill by the house. The item of $65,106 for naval stores investigation is reached. Representative John Taber [Rep., N. Y.] moves to strike it out, saying that "this bureau was organized more than 50 years ago for the purpose of developing barrel heads for turpentine that would not leak. That purpose was accomplished many years ago."

They Rush to Defense.

Thereat the southern Democrats rush to the defense of the handout for the southern pine products industry. Representative James P. Buchanan [Dem., Tex.], chairman of the appropriations subcommittee in charge of the bill, says the bureau has taken the impurities out of rosin and turpentine and improved the color, wherefore it should be allowed to continue "one or two more years till they complete the job."

Representative Harry P. Ransley [Rep., Penn.] calls it "an actual waste of the people's money," remarking "all one has to do is to keep on voting for unnecessary appropriations and heaven only knows what government functioning will cost." Representative Robert A. Green [Dem., Fla.] tells how the government is teaching improved methods of tapping pine trees.

Representative John W. Summers [Rep., Wash.] leaps to the aid of the southerners, arguing that "unless we are going to eliminate everything that is to help the poor farmer all over the United States, then certainly we ought not to eliminate this item."

Item Retained 43 to 35.

A vote is taken. There are only 78 of the 435 representatives on the floor. The item is retained, 43 to 35.

When the item of 35 millions federal aid for highway construction is reached, Representative Carl E. Mapes [Rep., Mich.] objects that "when men are losing their homes, when business men and institutions are going bankrupt because of high taxes, we might well afford" to suspend such appropriations and Mr. Taber moves to reduce the amount to 10 millions.

Representative D. D. Glover [Dem., Ark.] waves such arguments aside with the retort that "the thing that has made our nation great is our public highway building."

There are now only sixty-one members on the floor. On a vote the 35 millions item is retained unimpaired, 48 to 13.

A LADY IS LEFT WITH NOTHING BUT WORRIES

Gustave Moford, who owns a rooming house at 821 North La Salle street, went to the Chicago avenue police station yesterday and in a few well chosen words destroyed the moral reputation of one Scotty Strachan.

"Until Wednesday night," said Moford, "Scotty was a perfect gentleman. I am sorry to say that he brought a woman to the house, and it so near the Moody Bible institute, too."

"Wait," said Moford, "till I finish. A little while ago we heard the woman crying in Scotty's room and talking about the Scotch, real mean. My wife went in. The woman was a little short of clothes. You see, Scotty had gone away with her coat and hat and shoes and stockings and handbag and some other things I can't remember."

"Let your wife lend the lady some clothes and she can come over and charge Scotty with robbery—or was it burglary," said the lieutenant.

IT SEEMS EVELYN HAD GOOD REASON FOR PROTESTING

Mrs. Mary Kappestein, 1936 Bradley place, left her year-old daughter, Evelyn, in her baby buggy yesterday when she went into a store at 3067 Lincoln avenue. When she returned both baby and buggy were gone.

The mother's screams brought clerks and shoppers from nearby stores and a search of the street was started but without results. Mrs. Kappestein went to the Sheffield avenue station to report the "kidnaping" to police. There she found Evelyn, cooing contentedly on the knee of Sergt. George Goldbeck, who has eight children of his own.

The baby was taken to the station by a woman who found her toddling along the sidewalk toward home and crying bitterly. Later police found witnesses who told of seeing a man lift Evelyn from her buggy and then wheel the vehicle away.

Francis X. Bushman Wins $3,000 for Auto Injuries

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 2.—Francis X. Bushman, former motion picture star, was awarded $3,000 damages here tonight by a jury in a $10,000 suit against Walter Hamilton, Windsor music teacher. The action resulted from an automobile collision in which Bushman was injured more than a year ago. The jury was out nine hours.

Woman Slain in Loop Hotel; Hunt Husband

Mrs. Leola Raymun, 35 years old, of the Parkway hotel, was found shot to death last night in a room on the ninth floor of the City Hall Square hotel, at 89 West Randolph street. The police started a search for Robert Raymun, former speakeasy owner, her husband, who left the hotel twelve hours before her body was found.

The couple had been estranged for several weeks and Raymun had been living in the hotel for the past ten days. He was alone until Wednesday evening when Mrs. Raymun joined him, supposedly in the hope of effecting a reconciliation.

Killed by Single Bullet.

A single bullet, fired into the left cheek and imbedded in the brain, caused the death of Mrs. Raymun. The pillow beside her head was powder marked and the body was clad only in a silk slip. It is believed she was killed as she slept.

Police found Raymun formerly was in the speakeasy business at several places in the loop, but was forced out by raids. Also, it was learned, he had been short of money lately and had difficulty in meeting his hotel bill.

A police theory that Mrs. Raymun was killed for the money she carried was supported by circumstantial evidence. Mrs. Raymun's clothing, including a valuable fur coat, and her purse, which had been emptied, were found in the room with the body.

Raymun left the hotel shortly after 8 a. m. yesterday. Police went to several of his usual haunts looking for him. One of these was the café of Norbert Roesel at 230 West Randolph street. Roesel said he was at one time associated in business with the fugitive, but had not seen him recently and had asked him to stay out of the café.

Friend Identifies Body.

Roesel identified the body of the slain woman. "I knew they had been separated for several weeks, he said. "Raymun was bitter against his wife, but I thought they were keeping strictly apart."

A similar statement was made by Harry P. McKee, private investigator. He told the police he had assured the hotel management that Raymun would pay his hotel bill. He added that he also had known of the troubles of the couple.

Mrs. Raymun formerly lived at 533 Wellington avenue, but moved about three months ago to the Parkway hotel. Last August she entered into a partnership with Mrs. Catherine Sherman in a dress shop at 12 Maple street. Mrs. Sherman said that the business had not prospered and that there had been a dissolution early in January.

STEAL $15,000 IN GEMS FROM EDUCATOR'S FLAT

The sixth floor apartment of George N. Northrop, 37 East Schiller street, headmaster of the Chicago Latin School for Boys, 1531 North Dearborn parkway, was entered by burglars some time late yesterday afternoon and jewelry valued at $15,000 was stolen.

A janitor in the building found the door to the apartment forced and notified Mr. Northrop. He hurried home and found his rooms in disorder. The burglars apparently had an expert knowledge of gems, because they took only a number of valuable pieces and disregarded other articles in the apartment, it was said.

Mr. Northrop announced his resignation as headmaster at the school this week after differences of a financial nature had arisen between himself and the board of trustees of the institution. He had occupied his post for six years.

The jewelry taken belonged to Mrs. Northrop. It included a diamond necklace valued at $3,000, a ruby bracelet, a pearl and emerald necklace, and two emerald rings.

5 Cent Haircuts, Shaves in Boston as Price War Rages

Boston, Mass., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—The cut price war of barbers in East Boston raged merrily today. Scores of shaveless men and long haired boys, grasping the opportunity of reduced rates of five cents for haircuts and five cents for shaves, stormed the shops. Police were called to help waiting customers in line.

JUDGE OPENS 13 BIDS TO INSURE ILLINOIS LIFE

Thirteen proposals calling for reorganization of the defunct Illinois Life Insurance company or for reinsurance of its $140,000,000 policies were submitted yesterday to Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson.

Forty lawyers, representing the various bidders, swarmed around the bench as Brig. Gen. Abel Davis, receiver of the company, read his report and handed the judge a 300 page document containing an analysis of the bids as well as of the interests submitting them.

In his report, Gen. Davis placed the bids in three classes, as follows: [1] Bids by seven companies to reinsure under diverse terms; [2] bids by three groups to reorganize with new capital; [3] bids of three other groups to continue the business with no new capital.

Court Continues Hearing.

In accepting the report, Judge Wilkerson continued the case to permit each bidder to examine at leisure the proposals of competitors. Beginning at 10 a. m., next Monday, counsel for each will have fifteen to thirty minutes for oral argument in support of his bid.

Thereafter Judge Wilkerson will announce the court's choice, guided by the recommendation of Gen. Davis but subject to any reasonable objection that may be raised by an unsuccessful bidder or by policyholder committees. As adviser in the case Gen. Davis has retained Edward B. Fackler of the New York firm of Fackler and Breiby, consulting actuaries.

While Gen. Davis declined to forecast, well informed reports last night were that because of various circumstances his recommendation would probably fall upon one of two bids. These are the reorganization plan submitted by James S. Kemper & Co., insurance engineers of 4750 Sheridan road, and the reinsurance contract offered by the Lincoln National Life Insurance company of Fort Wayne, Ind.

Advantages of Two Bids.

The advantage of the Kemper bid, according to the reports, rests in their pledge to put $1,250,000 of cash in capital and surplus for reorganization. The Kemper interests now control five casualty and fire insurance companies, but their plan allows for mutualization of Illinois Life.

The advantage of the Lincoln Life bid is reported to be in the size and stability of the company. In its latest annual report Lincoln National Life shows admitted assets of $84,725,143 and $825,000,000 of insurance in force. Its capital is $2,500,000 and its surplus $3,500,000.

The Kemper Proposal.

1. All death claims arising before during or subsequent to the receivership will be paid in full, including double indemnity.

2. Loan values, cash surrender values, annuities and disability income benefits will be subject to a lien up to 75 per cent, the exact percentage to be determined by the court and the lien to be reduced as assets are liquidated.

3. Although organized as a stock company with paid in capital of $1,000,000 and paid in surplus of $250,000, the stock may be retired and the company be mutualized upon approval of two-thirds of stockholders and the same percentage of policy holders attending a special meeting.

4. The new company will utilize the present Illinois Life office at 1212 Lake Shore drive for at least one year.

The Lincoln National Plan.

1. No cash or other form of payment will be made for the business.

2. All policy claims unpaid prior to the receivership of last Nov. 28 must be assumed by the receiver, not by Lincoln National.

3. All death claims arising during and for five years after the receivership will be paid in full by Lincoln National, including double indemnity.

4. For the first ten years of reinsurance, title to Illinois Life's assets will remain with the receiver, with income to be transferred to Lincoln National for meeting claims, and with cash also to be transferred as frozen assets are liquidated.

5. For the first ten years of rein-

For more than three years John G. Williams, real estate broker at 77 West Washington street, has been seeking a tenant for a four story brick factory building covering more than an acre of ground at 107th street and Ridgeland avenue, in the town of Chicago Ridge.

Mr. Williams holds title to the building by virtue of a foreclosure on a $300,000 mortgage. He has sought industriously for an occupant.

Last week Mr. Williams rejoiced. He lined up a prospect. He described in glowing terms the availability of the huge plant for a number of purposes.

In Good Shape—a Year Ago.

"It is in good condition, also," he declared. "I was out there last year and the structure was in fine shape Only a few windows were broken."

Desiring exact knowledge of the condition of the property, Mr. Williams sent out an appraiser. An hour later he received a telephone call.

"Your factory is gone," reported the appraiser. "The residents out here have taken it apart and carried it away. There just isn't any factory left."

Mr. Williams hurried to the scene and found this report approximately correct.

"All the insides of the building had been taken out," he said last night "Even the roof had been stolen And with the support taken away from the walls one side of the building caved in. When I got there the neighbors were carting this material away."

Gets Warrants for Villagers.

Mr. Williams was irritated, he admitted. He obtained fifty-five warrants from Justice of the Peace Roulo, naming most of the residents of the village, including several town officials. Service of the warrants was begun yesterday, but after five persons had been summoned the others announced they would appear in court today voluntarily. Offers to make restitution also were made, it was said.

The names of those charged in the warrants with larceny of a building or something to that effect, were kept secret by order of Justice Roulo.

"That building wasn't stolen," said President Rucers last night. "It just fell down."

3 WOMEN DEAD, 6 ARE MISSING IN SANITARIUM FIRE

Cleveland, O., Feb. 3 [Friday].—(AP)—At least three women psychopathic patients at Ridgecliff sanitarium in suburban Wickliffe were known to have died and six others were missing in a fire that swept through a cottage adjoining the institution early this morning.

Twenty-four nurses and patients were in the building when the fire broke out, and Fire Captain Robert Parkin of Wickliffe said bodies of some of them could be seen through the flames.

The known missing were Mrs. Lottie Roback, 32; Miss Helen Kovack, 49; Mrs. Agnes Dorrington, 78; Miss Lorane Dean, 76; Mrs. Fannie Loudon, 54; Miss Ethel R. Zipp, 24, and Mrs. Mary Bennett, 73, all of Cleveland or suburbs, and Mrs. Isabel McBride, 80, of New Castle, Pa.

Fire officials said some of those accounted for were found wandering about the grounds far from the cottage. They expressed the hope some of those missing might similarly be located.

FIND CORPORATE FUND DEFICIT OF 8 MILLIONS

Bills Paid in Cash; Police Payless.

Devious channels through which the cash of west park taxpayers traveled, including money spent for lobbying at the state legislature, were shown yesterday in the Rossetter audit, which finally reached the new park commissioners. The audit has been suppressed for three months.

An expert accountant, scanning the balance sheet of the corporate fund, said a true picture of the parks' present financial plight may be obtained by adding the figures, $4,932,977, listed as net taxes receivable by the corporate fund, and the deficit of the corporate fund, $3,183,528, making a total actual deficit of $8,116,505. The taxes owed to this fund are listed as an asset.

Interfund Loans Shown.

Another $5,000,000 is owed in taxes, but this sum is credited to other funds from which the corporate fund [the operating and current expense fund] borrowed. These interfund borrowings are shown in the consolidated balance sheet, which gives a more general view of the financial difficulties confronting the new commissioners who were installed last Monday.

Much is said in the report about the unbusinesslike methods displayed by the former board of commissioners, of which W. R. James was president. The audit contends that the law was violated by the James board in manipulating assessment funds, switching cash from bond and special assessment funds to the pay roll and general expense fund, as well as converting to their own purposes cash collected for pension funds.

To Name Finance Controller.

President Harry Joseph of the new board advised the new commissioners yesterday that the finances are in such condition that it will be some time before the commissioners can spend a dollar. The board adopted his proposal for the employment of a competent person as controller of the finances, a position not in existence in west park administration previously. A resolution was adopted to give the controller general supervision over all future spending.

Commissioner James C. Petrillo was insistent that the public be informed immediately of the financial status of the park board. The audit cost the park board more than $3,200, which has been paid, but only two copies were given to President Joseph. He called the auditing concern of G. W. Rossetter, president of the association of commerce, which made the audit at the instance of the citizens' committee, and was told that only one office copy was left. Seven copies of the audit were made.

Inasmuch as State's Attorney Courtney had asked for a copy on which to base an investigation to determine if any criminality was involved, and Gov. Horner and other officials were asking for a copy, and all the commissioners requested one, President Joseph said it would be necessary to have photostatic copies made, but the park board couldn't afford that expense. THE TRIBUNE agreed to make photostatic copies to be supplied to the officials.

Scan Lobbying Activities.

The item of expense for Attorney Daniel A. Roberts in the cash account led to an inquiry as to what lobbying had been done. Attorney Roberts is the legal counsel for the board and occupied that position under former President James and the late John Dill Robertson, who preceded James as president of the board.

Attorney Roberts said he had been put to considerable expense and loss of other business by having to go to Springfield to advocate passage of two bills, one to authorize a bond issue and the other to authorize a new tax to pay off the bond issue. He displayed an expensively prepared brochure, printed on expensive glossed paper and containing many engravings, which was submitted to the legislature in support of house bills 981 and 982, presented in April, 1931.

He said he left to the board the fixing of his compensation and he showed in the journal of proceedings that on June 25, 1931, the board adopted a resolution allowing him $10,000 additional compensation for losses suffered on account of his attendance at the session of the legislature.

The next time the park board had business in Springfield he refused to go, Attorney Roberts said, and Attorney John F. Tyrrell was sent. Tyrrell's compensation was shown to have been $7,700. On other occasions Attorney George F. Barrett handled legal matters for the board, it was said.

The expenses of former President James for attendance at Springfield and also to and at Washington, D. C., are shown. Charles Mariner, a former state representative, was shown to have received $485 for his services at Springfield.

In the consolidated balance sheet prepared by the Rossetter concern, attention was called to the fact that in the $30,137,756 of assets listed the sum of $9,534,288 of uncollected taxes is listed as an asset. The total value of property, less reserve for depreciation, is given as $19,890,160, book value.

Deducting the taxes carried as an asset but still uncollected, the total assets would be $20,603,468, it was pointed out. Taking the book value of land, buildings, and other property—$19,890,160—from the $20,603,468 assets, $713,308 would remain as assets, an expert accountant said, and this would be on the assumption that the property could be sold for $19,890,160.

Borrowing from Funds Shown.

The audit calls attention to the illegality of borrowing cash levied for a specific purpose or raised from bonds sold for a specific purpose. These borrowings of the west park board were shown to be as follows: from the special assessment fund, $349,770; from the bond and interest fund, $1,315,192; from the public benefit fund, $370,338; from the additional lands bond fund, $103,095; or a total of $2,138,396, exclusive of the amount withheld from pension funds.

The cash payments are shown only to July 31, 1932, and pay roll advances of $45,666 to favored employes were shown, but accountants said the huge deficit could not be traced to the pockets of the park employes as they have had only one pay day in cash during the last eighteen months.

The parks' finances are scattered through seven funds, and only from the corporate fund can salaries and current expenses be paid, it was explained, so a further tracing of the expenditures is awaited, as it was apparent that the $8,116,506 deficit could not be chargeable to payment of wages and salaries.

WOMAN DRIVES HEAD-ON INTO A STREET CAR; DIES

Mrs. Annie Williams, 45 years old, 143 North Kedzie avenue, was fatally injured last night when an automobile she was driving crashed into the front of a moving surface car at Austin avenue and Carpenter street. She died as she was being taken to the county hospital. At the time of the accident, according to witnesses, Mrs. Williams was on the wrong side of the street.

An unidentified woman about 35 years old was possibly fatally injured last night when she was struck at Irving Park boulevard and Spaulding avenue by a car driven by Loring W. Stedman, 4339 Irving Park boulevard. Her skull was fractured and she was taken unconscious to the county hospital. Her wedding ring bore the initials "F. F. to C. F."

Robert H. Seawall Jr., 49 years old, head of a detective agency bearing his name at 7543 Ridge avenue, yesterday was found guilty of leaving the scene of an accident by Municipal Judge Samuel H. Trude. The judge suspended sentence until Feb. 20, to allow S. E. Linton, 832 Argyle street, whose automobile was damaged by Sewall, to collect damages.

Sewall was seized by an Evanston bailiff after his car struck Linton's automobile and overturned it at Sheridan road and Sunnyside avenue. The bailiff, Bert Livingston, witnessed the crash and captured the detective after a chase in Sheridan road.

Miss Madaline Batsis, 25 years old 5115 Kenmore avenue, was killed by an automobile last evening as she was crossing Sheridan road near Catalpa avenue. Police held Walter R. Nelson, 1937 Estes avenue, a plumbing contractor, for the inquest today.

The deaths of Mrs. Williams and Miss Batsis increased the Cook county motor fatalities for 1933 to 80.

ADOPT NEW PLAN FOR WORLD'S FAIR CAR EXTENSION

A new plan submitted by Edward J. Noonan, engineer for the city council railway terminals committee, providing for the extension of Roosevelt road surface cars across South Michigan avenue in time for World's Fair, was adopted by a council sub-committee yesterday.

Ald. James B. Bowler [25th], chairman of the sub-committee, will confer with representatives of the south park board, railroad, fair and surface lines with a view to having each assume a part of the cost of the $188,000 project.

After crossing Michigan avenue at grade the plan calls for a ramp and elevated structure over the Illinois Central railroad tracks, with the cars turning south on the east side of the tracks to a point at the north end of Soldiers' Field stadium.

William A. Dudley, managing director of the Greater Central association, told the committee his organization was opposed to an elevated structure for tracks from Wabash avenue across Michigan avenue. He favored Noonan's plan for the crossing at grade.

FIGURES FROM THE WEST PARK AUDIT

Consolidated Balance Sheet

Following is the consolidated balance sheet of the west park audit, showing, among other things, the listing of uncollected taxes as assets:

FLAMING CROSS IS FOUND IN YARD OF CICERO SCHOOL

A fiery cross, twenty feet high, similar to the symbol used by the Ku Klux Klan, was placed in the athletic field of the Sterling Morton High school in Cicero last night. Kerosene soaked cloth covered the cross and furnished fuel for a blaze which lasted twenty minutes.

Cicero police investigated but could find no one who saw the cross put up. No writing or printed sign was found to indicate the purpose of the bonfire. Police and residents of the suburb, however, considered it a protest of some sort against members of the Morton High school board.

For the last few days taxpayers of Berwyn and Cicero, organized in opposition to the board members, have circulated petitions calling for the resignation of the school board. It is the contention of the taxpayers and civic organizations that the Morton board has mismanaged school affairs.

Test Woman's Sanity After Man Is Found Slain

An inquest into the death of Edward Kalman, 33 years old, 4233 North Francisco avenue, a garage mechanic, who was found shot to death in a room at the Bel-Bay hotel, 3151 North Racine avenue, on Wednesday night, was continued indefinitely yesterday. Mrs. Nora Koven, 23 years old, who was released from an insane asylum recently and who was in the room when police arrived, was sent to the psychopathic hospital for examination after she was unable to give a coherent account of what happened. Police were unable to determine whether Kalman killed himself.

The table below shows that in spite of unpaid workmen and policemen the west parks' board was able to pay in cash certain accounts. The bills were paid subsequent to April 1, 1931.

EXPLORER CALLS MAYAN CULTURE SUPERIOR TO OURS

Einstein could not compare with the mathematicians (nor the ancient Egyptians with the astrologers) who lived in Central America 3,000 to 4,000 years before Christ, Frederick A. Mitchell-Hedges, noted British explorer, said yesterday. Mr. Mitchell-Hedges is on a lecture tour in this country while preparations are being made for his next trip to the seat of ancient Mayan culture some time in March.

For years the explorer has studied traces of the Mayan, Arawak, and Chorotegan civilizations in an almost inaccessible "cradle of mankind" near the Caribbean sea and the republic of Honduras.

"These people were marvelous mathematicians and astrologers," he said. "They worked out a time cycle of 600 billion days more perfect than the Egyptian sothic of 1,460 years. As mathematicians they would put Einstein off the map. Their sculpture, their paintings on stucco, and their mosaics have never been excelled. Science estimates that the development of such a culture must have required 25,000 years.

"Culturally they were as far ahead of us as we excel them technologically," he said.

Mr. Mitchell-Hedges will lecture before the Civic club in Milwaukee today and in Chicago, at the South Shore Country club, on Feb. 28.

NEW COMMITTEES ARE APPOINTED FOR LINCOLN PARK

Permanent committees of the new Lincoln park board were announced yesterday by President A. D. Plamondon at a meeting of the board in the park administration building. The committees, on each of which the first commissioner named will be chairman, are as follows:

Finance, William Schlake, Martin H. Kennelly, Walter J. Cummings; judiciary, G. Bernhard Anderson, Cummings, Kennelly; zoö, Frank Bobrytzke, Anderson, Louis Harrison; boulevard, Kennelly, Schlake, Anderson; landscape gardening, Kennelly, Bobrytzke, Harrison; park extension and shore protection, Cummings, Anderson, Kennelly; small parks and athletics, Harrison, Bobrytzke, Cummings; service and miscellaneous, Cummings, Harrison, Schlake.

Mr. Plamondon withheld appointment of the civil service committee until later. The board elected Frank M. Gordon, treasurer of the old board, to his old position. Mr. Gordon is vice president of the First National bank.

CHICAGO IS CITED IN PLEA TO BOOST FEDERAL RELIEF

R. F. C. Policies Assailed and Defended.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Chicago, with its unpaid school teachers and its Dawes bank, was again put forward today as an exhibit of the need of further federal relief as the senate banking and currency committee listened to testimony for and against the Wagner bill to broaden the relief loaning powers of the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

To defend the corporation's policy, and particularly the $90,000,000 loan to former Vice President Dawes' Central Republic Bank and Trust company of Chicago, came Charles A. Miller, corporation president.

To assail the corporation for its "blindness, deafness, stupidity, and obstinacy" in refusing a loan to pay Chicago's unpaid teachers, came Senator J. Hamilton Lewis [Dem., Ill.].

Termed Brave Action.

"It was one of the bravest and most necessary things ever done in this country," said Mr. Miller of the loan to the Dawes bank.

"They refuse us a loan on the ground that the board of education is not a self-liquidating corporation," proclaimed Senator Lewis, "and while they do so outside their doors a revolt is brewing, unless we use a little common sense."

From the audience in the hearing room came applause for the Illinois senator's eloquence. From Senator Smith Wildman Brookhart, the Iowa radical, came the approving comment:

"If the senator makes one more speech like that I'll certainly welcome him into the radical ranks."

Miller Defends Loan.

President Miller told the committee that "a very frightful thing would have occurred" had the loan to the Dawes bank not been made.

"The fact that the country is proceeding on an even keel today," he said, "is due to the fact that those who made the loan had the courage to do it."

"I understand there will be a loss of from 25 to 30 million dollars on the Dawes loan," interposed Senator Brookhart, acting as chairman of the subcommittee on the Wagner bill.

"That is inconceivable," replied President Miller. "I can't say there will be any loss and certainly not a staggering loss."

Senator Lewis urged the passage of the Wagner bill, which would remove the requirement that construction loans by the R. F. C. be for self-liquidating projects.

Lewis for School Loan.

"I am impatient with the corporation," said Senator Lewis. "They have found a way to avoid every suggested method of providing relief for the Chicago teachers, but they have aided men of large consequence whose conduct deprived them of public confidence."

The relief situation in Chicago and Illinois was critical, President Miller agreed, but he could not admit the possibility of loaning millions of federal money to "finance the entire school system of one of the largest municipalities in the country."

He urged congress to provide an additional 150 million dollars to be used by the R. F. C. for relief loans during the next six months. Within six weeks, he pointed out, Illinois will have used up the 45 millions which is the maximum allowed any one state under the present law.

Caution Policy Defended.

At the same time he hoped that the restrictions of the present law would not be taken off by the Wagner bill. And he defended the policy of caution under which the corporation has passed out relief loans.

"The situation is so serious that any one who wastes a dollar is a traitor to his country," President Miller explained. "A limitation on loans is essential. Everybody in the United States wants to get money from the R. F. C."

DAY IN WASHINGTON

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Senator Robinson [Rep., Ind.] demanded in senate, state department bring home William C. Bullitt, reported talking war debts with foreign statesmen.

Senate adopted amendment to treasury-postoffice supply bill authorizing heads of those departments cut expenditures 5 per cent under appropriations.

Chairman O'Brien of tariff commission opposed before house ways and means committee automatic tariff increases against depreciated currency countries.

President Charles A. Miller of Reconstruction corporation urged before senate committee increased funds for direct relief, and Senator Lewis [Dem., Ill.] charged discrimination in their administration.

House voted $310,000 additional funds for trade commission and rejected amendments to independence offices' measure to eliminate farm board funds.

CHARITIES GIVEN $370,000 IN WILL OF MRS. KELSEY

Mrs. Virginia Hartley Kelsey of the Auditorium hotel left bequests of approximately $370,000 to charitable institutions it was disclosed yesterday when her will disposing of her $500,000 estate was admitted to probate.

Mrs. Kelsey left her estate in trust. From the income she bequeathed $1,000 a month to her husband, gave an annuity of $4,000 to a niece, Mary Seely Clark of Carrollton, Ill., and divided another $6,000 annuity among other nieces and nephews. To Earl W. Porter Mrs. Kelsey bequeathed $1,000. Upon the death of Kelsey the sum of $80,000 will be given outright to Miss Clark.

The sum of $150,000 is set aside at the termination of the trust for the construction of a hospital at Carrollton, to be known as the Thomas Boyd Memorial hospital. If the hospital is not built within five years after the termination of the trust the money will be divided equally among the Protestant churches of Carrollton. The remainder of the principal will go to the Chicago American Red Cross, the Old People's home, the Chicago Home for Incurables, and the United Charities.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Another $23,000,000 of federal money was advanced to California by the Reconstruction Finance corporation today—this time for the construction of a power transmission line from Boulder dam to Los Angeles.

The latest federal loan to the western state joins a previous forty millions advanced to finance California's program for supplying its southern communities with light and water from the federal government's 160 million dollar development at Boulder Cañon, Colo. The forty millions was granted by the corporation as its first self-liquidating loan, to finance construction of the Boulder dam-Los Angeles aqueduct.

For Bridge Construction.

Today's 23 millions likewise joins $14½ millions already granted to California for construction of the proposed bridge across the bay between San Francisco and Oakland, and another $2,350,000 advanced to the city of San Diego for a water works.

It brings the total thus far advanced by the federal government for self-liquidating construction projects in California to $126,550,000, or approximately three-fourths of all the money advanced to all states for construction projects. Records of the corporation show that $171,108,350 has thus far been advanced, so that California has received 74 per cent of the total, or $44,558,350 more than all other states combined.

Today's loan was made to the Los Angeles department of power and water in the exact amount of $22,806,000. It is to be repaid over a period of ten years, the corporation announced, and it will bear interest at five per cent.

Give Jobs to 1,200 Men.

The transmission line will carry electric energy to Los Angeles and suburban communities which the federal government has agreed to sell the city from its power development station at Boulder dam. The corporation stated that the power is expected to be available at the dam on July 1, 1935.

In making the advance today the corporation stated that 1,200 men would be given employment directly on the project for two and a half years, while 3,400 were expected to find employment elsewhere in supplying materials.

The forty million dollar advance for the aqueduct has been the subject of court action by Los Angeles taxpayers seeking to restrain the finance corporation from making the money available. They have protested that assumption of such a debt materially will increase their taxes. It was understood today that sponsors of the power line project are anticipating similar action in connection with the 23 millions loaned today.

TIMID BANDITS SHAKE WITH FEAR, BUT OBTAIN $300

Two armed and nervous robbers entered the office of the Citizens Loan company, 811 West 63d street, last night and took $300.

The men were so nervous they stammered and their hands holding the revolvers were shaking as they gave orders to Leonard Langer, 9212 South Ada street, the manager, and six others who were in the office to lie on the floor. One robber stood guard over the prisoners while his companion took the money. They both then ran out.

Two Negro robbers took $50 in cash, a wrist watch, and a diamond ring from Miss Janice Collins, 5129 Harper avenue, cashier in the Standard laundry, 1818 South Wabash avenue. Six drivers outside the office were unaware of the robbery.

BAIN IS JAILED; SHERIFF TO KEEP HIM IN CUSTODY

John Bain, under sentence of one to five years in the penitentiary for conspiracy in connection with the collapse of the twelve Bain banks, was arrested yesterday afternoon and placed in the county jail. The action was taken on information that the convicted banker planned to leave the United States.

Bain, at liberty in $10,000 bond, had been granted a stay of mittimus to allow time to perfect an appeal. The stay, granted by Judge John M. O'Connor after the conspiracy trial last August, expired yesterday afternoon.

Arrested at His Home.

Bain was seized at his home at 8544 Pleasant street and taken to the county jail. After a hearing before Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court the state agreed to allow Bain to renew his bond today. Under the agreement between the state and the defense Bain is to remain in custody of a deputy sheriff despite the fact that he will be allowed his freedom on bond. The arrangement will continue during the seven days necessary to get the case before a higher court.

The arrest was made by Lieut. Frank Johnson on orders of State's Attorney Courtney. Bain, who was chatting with his wife and two sons when the policeman appeared to arrest him, accompanied Lieut. Johnson without protest.

Charges "Double Cross."

A short time after the arrest of Bain and his arrival at the county jail Defense Attorney Harry Olson appeared in the state's attorney's office and declared that he had been "double crossed." He said that Prosecutor Edwin J. Raber had agreed not to press the mittimus for 10 days in order to allow the defense to get the case into a higher court.

He repeated the charge before Judge Prystalski after Assistant State's Attorneys Raber and Grover Niemeyer had appeared for the court hearing.

"We appeared before Judge O'Connor Tuesday," Attorney Olson told the court, "and Mr. Raber agreed to allow us 10 days to finish our work on the appeal. I believe your honor entered the order on the request of Judge O'Connor."

Reports Plan to Leave U. S.

The prosecutors admitted that the arrangement had been made, but said the present action had been taken on new information.

"We received information that the defendant was preparing to leave the country," Prosecutor Raber said. "We were told that he had a passport."

"Certainly," Attorney Olson interrupted, "he has a passport. It expired in May of 1932."

Prosecutor Raber said that he had received information that the passport had been renewed and immediately conferred with United States Attorney Dwight Green. He was told, the prosecutor said, that application for renewal had been made and the matter carried no further.

Prosecutor Raber pointed out that it would be possible to renew the passport in Washington without the knowledge of Chicago federal officials. For this reason, he said, the arrest order had been issued.

"We do not agree with Attorney Olson that an agreement has been violated," Attorney Niemeyer said. "Matters have arisen that made necessary the arrest of Bain."

Tells Plan for Bond.

He then outlined the plan for Bain to post bond and to remain in custody of a deputy.

"Mr. Bain will be here," Attorney Olson said. "There has been a lot of talk about his plan to go to Scotland, but it's just talk. If he wanted to run away, he couldn't run farther than Joliet."

Attorney Olson said that the extra time for the appeal was necessary because of the time required to abstract 11,000 pages of testimony and make photostatic copies of 3,000 exhibits in the trial. Judge Prystalski approved the agreement and Bain was placed in a cell to await the completion of the bond arrangement today.

Father Tells of Beatrice Kirk's Wardrobe at Hearing

BEATRICE KIRK'S WARDROBE IS TOO BIG, FATHER SAYS

Loop Manufacturer Is Witness in Suit.

Walter R. Kirk, millionaire soap manufacturer, believes his daughter, Beatrice, has "too many clothes," even though she values her entire wardrobe at only $98. He so testified yesterday at a second hearing of her voluntary bankruptcy suit before Referee Garfield Charles. Mr. Kirk was listed as the principal creditor in the suit, filed by Miss Kirk on Dec. 24. He was named as creditor for $9,000.

Other creditors are Herman Goldberg, Kenosha horse dealer, who claims $2,000 from Miss Kirk as the price of a horse she bought from him, and Harry Owens of Wadsworth, who claims $800 for maintenance of the horse.

She Lists Her Wardrobe.

Miss Kirk said the following wardrobe list includes the only clothing of value she possesses:

2 riding habits	$10
4 evening gowns	15
4 street dresses	10
4 cloth coats	20
8 hats	8
3 pairs of shoes	5
Miscellaneous	10
1 trunk	10
4 small suitcases	10
Total	$98

Attorney Frank Leonard, representing Mr. Goldberg, questioned Mr. Kirk at length concerning his daughter's possessions. "Hasn't your daughter more clothes than the items she listed in her petition?" he asked.

"I don't know," replied Kirk. "I don't go into her wardrobe. If she has as much as she has listed I think she has too many."

Father Doesn't Know Her Age.

At a previous hearing Miss Kirk testified she had sold her father a watch for $100 and a ring for $50. Referring to this transaction and a bill of sale which Miss Kirk said she signed at the time, Attorney Leonard asked Mr. Kirk his daughter's age.

"I don't know offhand," Mr. Kirk replied. "I could get the information for you from my office files." The question, however, was settled a few minutes later by Miss Kirk's mother, Mrs. Maude Hamilton Kirk, who testified that her daughter was 20 years old last Dec. 27.

Q.—What did you pay your daughter for the jewelry? A.—I paid her $100 for the watch and $50 for the ring, but their actual cash value is now only $10.

Questioned About Bet.

Earlier Attorney Leonard had asked Miss Kirk about a $1,000 loan from her father and a $1,000 bet she made last fall. She said she couldn't remember the loan and had not collected on the bet. "I don't remember what it was about," she said.

CHARGES ACTRESS AND BOY FRIEND STIRRED UP 'RIOT'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Feb. 2.—Lily Damita, film actress, and her millionaire companion, Sydney A. Smith, a New York broker, have been ordered to stay in Cuba. The Audiencia court is considering whether charges of disorderly conduct filed against them by the National casino merit prosecution.

Detectives are investigating a so-called riot at the casino Sunday night for which the management charges Miss Damita and Smith were responsible. Casino officials assert that the actress and her companion threw bottles and glasses in all directions in their efforts to drive away Minnie Pearson, an ex-Follies girl, whom they earlier had invited to their table.

Later, according to the officials Miss Damita charged Miss Pearson with flirting with and trying to steal her sweetheart. Smith sided with Miss Damita and in the ensuing melee, it was related, Miss Pearson's dress was torn off.

FOUND UNCONSCIOUS; DIES.

UNAWARE OF HER MARRIAGE, SHE GETS ANNULMENT

With an air of wide eyed innocence, Mrs. Evelyn Cushing Schultz, winner of a New York beauty contest last year, told Superior Judge James J. Kelly yesterday all that she knew about her marriage on Feb. 7, 1932, to one Hallett Schultz. The judge annuled the marriage.

What Mrs. Schultz knew about her own wedding was very little. She found out the next day, by looking at the marriage certificate, that the ceremony had taken place in Waukegan. She testified that she had attended a party and didn't remember the wedding. Another witness told Judge Kelly that she was intoxicated.

"I had met Mr. Schultz two weeks before," Mrs. Schultz said, "and on the night of Feb. 6 we went to dinner at a café."

Drank Much, She Says.

"Very much," she replied, "and then we went to a party around the corner. I don't know where the party was—somewhere in Chicago, I suppose."

"Were you possessed of your normal faculties?" asked her lawyer.

"Certainly not," she replied. "I vaguely remember going out for air, and then driving somewhere."

"Did you consent to the marriage?" asked Judge Kelly.

"Certainly not," she said. "My mother told me about it the next morning. I don't even know who our witnesses were. One was a cab driver, I think. I know we were married in Waukegan because the marriage certificate said so. We never lived together."

Tells of Newlyweds' Return.

Mrs. Lillian Bushnell, 2600 North Kimball avenue, with whom Mrs. Schultz lives, testified that the bride was intoxicated on the night of the wedding, and described the return of the newlyweds from Waukegan.

"After they returned," said Mrs. Bushnell, "Schultz began stuttering something about being married, but I took Evelyn home in a taxicab and wouldn't let him in."

Mrs. Schultz was named co-respondent in a divorce bill filed last November in the Superior court by Mrs. Sophie Weiss against Theodore Weiss, a Kenosha café owner. Mrs. Weiss charged at that time that Mrs. Schultz was living with Weiss in Kenosha.

115 POUND WIFE'S BEATINGS WIN PUTMAN DECREE

Byron Putman, electrical engineer, cornet player, and bible class teacher, will be given a divorce on grounds of cruelty from his wife, Mrs. Adelaide Putman of Wheaton, according to an announcement yesterday at the end of a day in Judge William J. Fulton's Du Page county court, which was featured by Putman's testimony concerning his unhappy married life for the past two years.

Mrs. Putman's crossbill for separate maintenance will be dropped, it was indicated, and Putman will pay her $1,200 at the rate of $50 a month. She will also sign over her share in their Wheaton home and their personal property will be divided.

Story Entertains Crowd.

All the semi-humorous details which have been aired in Du Page county courts in the last few months were repeated in the husband's testimony today. He told of his wife's resentment at his cornet playing, which caused her to beat him over the head with a bedroom slipper, and he admitted installing electrical alarms in their home which enabled him to keep watch on his wife's comings and goings.

Putman, a large man with a serious countenance, told his story seriously despite the chuckles and grins in the courtroom. He was doleful as he described his wife's cruelty. He weighs about 185 pounds and she about 115 pounds.

"It was on Dec. 5, 1931, that she first beat me," he said. "We had a quarrel over money. She came at me, flailing me with her fists. Then she grabbed a book and struck me over the head with it seven times. My glasses were broken and I received severe contusions."

Beaten with "Noble Experiment."

"Is this the book?" asked Attorney Samuel Howe, bringing to light a paper-covered work entitled: "The Noble Experiment." It was published by the "Alcohol Information Committee." Putman is an ardent dry.

"That is it," testified the Bible class teacher.

He went on to describe the distressing scene on June 26, 1932, when Mrs. Putman assaulted him for playing the cornet.

"I got out my cornet and started playing a sacred piece," the husband testified. "It was 'The Sweet Bye and Bye.' My wife came rushing in and began pounding the base notes on the piano.

Tells of Slipper Beating.

"'You'll never learn to play the cornet,' she told me. Then she turned on the radio as loud as it would play. She picked up her skirts and said: 'That's what I think about you!' I grabbed her, but I tripped and fell. She pulled off her slipper and began striking me. I took the slipper from her, but she pulled off her other slipper and began beating me over the head with it until the blood began streaming down my face."

Putman said he called the police and a neighbor, Arthur Voight, to protect him. He had Voight take some motion pictures of him and produced the film in court. A well worn satin bedroom slipper, which Putman identified as the weapon used by his wife, was also introduced into evidence.

Under cross-examination, Putman was asked if he did not know that his cornet playing would annoy his wife.

"Well, it was a sacred piece I was playing," he replied.

Electric Clock Times Wife.

He then described his tapping of the wires to their home and his employment of a stenographer to take down all the telephone conversations of his wife. He also told of an electrical device attached to the front door of their home which stopped a clock when the door was opened so that he would know at what time his wife got in at night.

James B. Putman, the husband's brother, was another witness who said he had witnessed the incident when Mrs. Putman struck her husband with a book. He added another bit of evidence tending to describe Mrs. Putman's pugnacity.

"I was reading a book when she came in with a fly swatter," he said. "She started flicking at my sox with it, and I told her to stop. She didn't, and my sox were pulled down, so I pulled her stockings down, too."

Voight, the neighbor, said he was called to the Putman home on the day of the cornet playing incident and saw blood streaming from a cut in Putman's head. A physician testified he treated the cut.

Agreement Halts Hearing.

At this point attorneys for both sides conferred and then announced that an agreement for the $1,200 settlement had been reached and Putman would be allowed to get his divorce decree by default. The case was continued to Feb. 12, when the decree probably will be signed, it was said.

At a hearing last July before a jury in a justice of the peace court in Wheaton Mrs. Putman was acquitted on charges of assault and battery preferred by her husband.

WOMAN, 85, DIES OF BURNS.

Mrs. Mary Franklin, 85 years old, 1419 West Adams street, died of burns at the county hospital last night. Neighbors said she fell asleep while smoking a cigaret.

2 PUBLIC ENEMIES SEEKING HOLD IN POULTRY UNION

James Adducci and William Bioff, who lost their taxi dance hall racket some months ago when the halls were driven out of Chicago, were revealed last night as having attempted to force their way into the Chicago Poultry Handlers' union.

The two gangsters, who appear on the new public enemy list of the police department, were arrested yesterday at Union avenue and Washington boulavard and taken to the detective bureau where they refused to answer questions. They were held for arraignment today.

ROOSEVELT FOR DIXIE PROJECT TO CREATE JOBS

In Doubt About Method of Financing Work.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Warm Springs, Ga., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—The problem of financing the "great national experiment" announced today by President Elect Roosevelt, which contemplates turning the valley of the Tennessee river into a laboratory of economic research, was left for future solution in Mr. Roosevelt's discussion of his plan.

The President elect showed his hope of proving, within the 640,000 square miles of the Tennessee valley, that national planning can decrease idleness, decentralize industry, bring the boon of cheap power to dwellers of city and farm, halt flood damage and preserve American forests to posterity.

If the project were set up in its entirety, Mr. Roosevelt said, employment would be created for 200,000 men.

Hopes to Extend Plan.

And if success should crown his efforts in this valley, and the Tennessee valley folk be lifted from economic disarray, the President elect declared his purpose to apply the same plan to other American watersheds. Thus, in the years to come, Mr. Roosevelt hopes to lead all the nation into his economic Utopia.

The President elect declared that the project ought to pay itself out some day, but when he was asked the source of the funds required for the plan to save the forests, build reservoirs, dams, and power plants, eliminate marginal farm loans and reclaim the rich silt bottom lands of flood times, he showed that he had not yet solved this problem.

He indicated that the condition of the federal treasury, the status of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, the credit position of the government, the balancing of the budget all entered into the financing picture. A large portion of the work, he said, would be bondable, although he was not clear whether he thought bonds could be sold on the security of timber lands, power developments, and the other tangible assets included in the project.

States Would Share Cost.

The President elect said the state and local governments would come in for a share of the financing, but he had not solved any definite plan in this respect.

As to how much the project would cost, in its entirety or in part, Mr Roosevelt likewise had no information He made it plain that the plan was in a formative stage, and he stated that he proposed, immediately after coming into the presidency, to bring engineers of the war, interior, agriculture, and other departments to work on the preparation of an exhaustive survey covering all features of the plan.

The valley of the Tennessee is most suitable for the experiment, Mr. Roosevelt declared, because it presents the simplest and clearest features, from the viewpoint of agriculture, forestry, flood control, and power development, of any of the American watersheds, and because already the government has a large investment in the valley—power development at Muscle Shoals, Ala.

The project calls for development of flood control basins, beginning at Cove creek dam on the Clinch river, to increase the power developed at Muscle Shoals by 2,000,000 or more horsepower.

Reforestation Proposed.

The steps to be taken in the project, as given by Mr. Roosevelt, begin with reforestation and afforestation. This work, he said, under department of agriculture figures, ought to create employment for 50,000 to 75,000 men, and the President elect declared such an operation to be a "bankable" one. The money spent in saving old forests and creating new ones will be repaid in years to come by the sale of the merchantable timber, and, indicating the necessity for work of this kind, the President elect asserted that at present the American nation is using between three and four times as much timber as is being added to our forests.

Then Mr. Roosevelt's plan proposed the creation of flood control basins to hold back water for the double purpose of preventing floods and allowing a full flow of water for power in low water periods. He foresaw the development of 2 to 3 million horse power if all the water of the Tennessee were controlled.

The President elect conceded that at present the population of the valley could nowhere near use that amount of power, but he declared that eventually power will be brought to every farm in the district at low cost.

Withholds Cabinet Names.

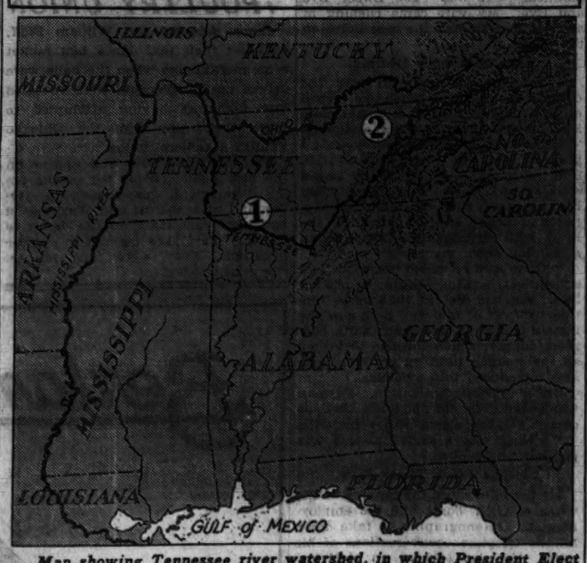
Mr. Roosevelt announced tonight that he will not make public the names of any of the men or women who will serve in his cabinet until the night of March 2 or the morning of March 3, just prior to his inauguration on March 4. He said the list of the cabinet, as well as a list of appointments to important posts on the Reconstruction Finance corporation and other federal commissions, would be made after his arrival in Washington.

The President elect leaves tomorrow evening for Jacksonville, where he will set sail on Vincent Astor's fast yacht, the Nourmahal, on a week's hideaway cruise. During that week, Mr. Roosevelt said today, he will attempt to decide upon many of his appointments, and upon his return to New York City he will notify the ones chosen.

Dunham Is Visitor.

Robert Dunham of Chicago, mentioned for ambassador to Germany, stopped for a visit with Mr. Roosevelt today. Another visitor was Frederick Prince, Boston capitalist, interested in the railroad problem. Robert W. Bingham, Louisville publisher, believed to hold the inside track for the ambassadorship to England, will be a caller tomorrow.

ROOSEVELT EXPERIMENT SITE



Map showing Tennessee river watershed, in which President Elect Roosevelt plans a "national economic experiment" to develop occupation for 200,000, decentralize industry, provide cheap power, halt flood damage and preserve forests. Mr. Roosevelt's plans center about Cove Creek (2) on the Clinch river, a tributary of the Tennessee. Muscle Shoals (1) an earlier economic experiment, also is on the Tennessee.

SENATOR WANTS U. S. TO RECALL A 'DEBT ENVOY'

Charge He Is Representing Roosevelt Denied.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—(AP)—A demand that the state department reach out and bring home William C. Bullitt, American, who has been reported talking war debts with foreign statesmen, was made in the senate today, but it ended in good humored banter.

Senator Robinson [Ind., Rep.] read newspaper stories relating how the one time representative abroad of Woodrow Wilson was calling on foreign statesmen and discussing debts in a way that indicated he spoke authoritatively. Stories that Bullitt represented President Elect Roosevelt were denied by the latter some time ago.

Want Him Arrested.

If Bullitt did not represent any one but himself, Robinson said, he should be arrested for violating the Logan act, prohibiting an American citizen from holding intercourse with foreign governments without express authorization from the United States. Penalty for violation is $5,000 or three years imprisonment.

Democratic leader Robinson, of Arkansas, who has clashed repeatedly with the Indiana Robinson on war debts, said no credence could be attached to the Bullitt stories. He said he had investigated the incident and found Bullitt had no authority to represent Mr. Roosevelt and that the President elect's statement that he did not, "should be accepted without question."

The Democratic chieftain also denied again a statement attributed to Bullitt that Mr. Roosevelt favored an 80 per cent cut in the British debt.

Speaks for Roosevelt.

"I can not ask the senator from Indiana to accept my statement about the matter," he said, "but I repeat that there is not one word of truth in the statement as to the attitude of the President elect."

After declaring Bullitt had been "repudiated in every way," the Arkansas senator told a story about a man who, in introducing the late Senator Joseph W. Bailey of Texas, had a habit of saying, "who is Joseph W. Bailey," and then drifting off into a speech.

The man repeated the question, "who is Joseph W. Bailey" a third time in one speech, Robinson said, whereupon "an old gentleman in the rear of the audience rose and said, 'I'll bite. Who in the hell is Joseph W. Bailey?'".

He Makes Same Retort.

As laughter swept the chamber, Robinson added: "I make the same retort to the question of my friend, the senator from Indiana: Who is W. C. Bullitt?"

"I do not suppose he could be Col. House in disguise, could he?" asked Senator Glenn [Rep., Ill.].

"If so," Robinson of Arkansas replied, "the senator will please excuse me and President Elect Roosevelt for any responsibility for Col. House."

Senator Logan [Dem., Ky.], remarked he wanted to "protect" the Indiana senator and suggested that a cablegram be sent to Bullitt requesting that he discontinue his activities and that Mr. Roosevelt be notified of the action.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Marquis Henri de la Falaise, French citizen and husband of Constance Bennett, was called to offices of the federal immigration authorities engaged in a drive against film colony aliens, it was learned today. The marquis, who has been working as film director and supervisor of foreign language movies at Radio and M. G. He and Miss Bennett will sail from San Pedro harbor Monday aboard the Disterdyk, a Dutch freighter, as passengers booked to France.

GIRL MISSING FOR FIVE DAYS IS FOUND SLAIN

Ransom Note Delivered at Family Home.

Massapequa, Long Island, N. Y., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—The body of Miss Mary Ellen O'Connor, a 16 year old schoolgirl, who disappeared last Friday after leaving her home in Rockaway Park to visit a friend, was found in a pile of underbrush here this afternoon by a woodcutter. It had been on the spot at least three days.

Torn turf, condition of the girl's clothing, scraps of apparel clinging to tree branches, and skull fracture indicated she had been murdered. Her nails were cracked as if she had clawed at her attacker.

An autopsy disclosed that the girl had died of two blows on the head with a hammer or similar instrument. There was no evidence that she had been raped.

Letter Demands Ransom.

A letter demanding $1,000 ransom for the girl was delivered to the O'Connor home shortly after the body was found, but it was discounted by the authorities as probably the work of a "crank." A fingerprint the note bore as a signature is being checked with criminal records. The note ordered that the sum, in bills of small denomination, be delievered to the home of a friend of the slain girl and kept there until further instructions were received.

James J. O'Connor, the girl's father, identified the body after recognizing clothing and a graduation ring. His daughter was graduated from St. Francis de Sales academy and won a scholarship in Bishop McDonnell High school, Brooklyn, where she was a pupil.

The father, a big man, nodded his head and said brokenly:

Woodsman Finds Body.

Alfred Abnenman, ax in hand, was walking up a dirt path in the woods when he saw the figure in the brush Later detectives found the girl's hat one of her pumps, and one of her stockings.

The police believe Miss O'Connor was alive when she entered the woods and consider it likely that she was brought there in an automobile.

The girl's mother said she had a dream last night that indicated her daughter had met with misfortune. "I knew something had happened to her," the mother sobbed. "In that dream I saw Mary. She was calling to me for help. It woke me up."

When the girl left home Friday she was on her way to the home of Miss Virginia Fitzhenry, a chum, in Floral Park. She was last seen alive on a Long Island train.

More than a score of detectives and other officers were working on the case tonight.

HITLER OPENS WAR ON REDS; HOMES RAIDED

Police Jail Suspects in Wave of Rioting.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 2.—Adolf Hitler, Germany's Fascist chancellor, swung upon the communists today. Police, acting upon his orders, swooped down upon all communist meeting places, raided the homes of suspected Moscow followers, and thrust into jail all who were suspected of participating in the series of riots which followed Hitler's accession to power four days ago.

Four more persons, however, were killed in disorders today, bringing the death toll for the four days to about twenty. The fatalities occurred at Duisberg, where a woman was shot by a stray bullet, Gondlesheim, Altona, and Berlin.

Because of today's bloodshed, another order went out tonight which suppressed all open air meetings by the Reds in Prussia.

Will Attempt to Ban Reds.

Although no official declaration has been made, it is persistently reported that Hitler will attempt to prevent communists from sitting in the next reichstag to be elected on March 5, if he finds such a step necessary to insure a parliamentary majority for his government.

In further defiance of communism, 5,000 National Socialist storm troopers marched in review tonight before Prince August Wilhelm, the fourth son of former Kaiser Wilhelm, and Count Wolf Heinrich von Helldorf, their Berlin chieftains. They paraded through the communist district, where on Monday a policeman and a Nazi trooper were shot to death.

Pedestrians were halted and searched by police armed with carbines and householders were warned to keep within their homes and stay away from windows. Before the house from which the fatal shot were fired, Nazi troop No. 33, whose member was killed, stopped and lighted torches. As the other troops marched by the death spot they dipped their flags.

Searchlights Flash on Houses.

With searchlights mounted on auto buses flashing back and forth across the streets, the Nazis marched through the district for more than an hour. There were no disorders.

Today's police action against the communists was accompanied by considerable oratory by Hitler in the same direction.

"There can be no middle course in Germany," the chancellor told foreign newspaper correspondents. "Either the Red flag of bolshevism will be hoisted soon or Germany will find herself again."

In his first address to the nation as chancellor last night, Hitler also had vigorously denounced the communists. He warned that one year of bolshevism would destroy the nation even more than 14 years of Marxism.

Renews Plea for Chance.

Today he renewed his plea to the nation to give him four years in which to carry out his program.

"The other side had things their own way for 14 years," he told the newspaper men. "Look at the result. Now give us four years, the legal period of a reichstag. Then let the country sit in judgment. Let them crucify me or do anything else if at the end of four years we have not succeeded.

"It is impossible to put a ship on the right course in a moment. I ask four years. Remember, I'm tenacious. My nerves are strong. If I were not determined, I should not be here now."

Appeals to World Press.

Last night Hitler, touching upon his program, asserted that if given four years in power he would save the farmer and provide work for the laborer. Today he said:

"If I had wanted to make a campaign speech last night, I could have told them that by the middle of March, unemployment would have been wiped out and by May the farmer would be back on his feet. You didn't hear me say that. I'm more honest than most of my opponents. I wouldn't make that kind of promise.

"I want to appeal to the press of the world not to form premature judgments on the events that are taking place. Please judge Germany's new government by its deeds, and take its deeds as a whole, not as isolated incidents.

Insists He Wants Peace.

"I have been represented as making bloodthirsty, firebrand speeches against foreign countries. Gentlemen, I never made a firebrand speech. Anybody who knows war as I know it knows what a tremendous waste of strength it is. Nobody wants peace more than I do and more than the German people do."

But, he reminded his newspaper audience, Germany insists on equality with other nations of the world.

"My first concern naturally is Germany," he said.

Hitler Nazis today officially opened the reichstag campaign. The chancellor summoned his lieutenants and told them to utilize all channels of propaganda.

Urges Vigorous Offensive.

"Don't give the opposition time to begin," he said. "We must maintain a vigorous offensive. Hail, the coming Germany!"

The government, in connection with the elections, is preparing a decree to eliminate smaller parties from participating in the campaign. The decree provides that only parties possessing 60,000 signatures on their petitions will be permitted to enter the race. At the present 500 signatures are required.

Throughout the nation, Hitler's rule is becoming more evident with Nazis and a small sprinkling of Nationalists receiving the key positions. In Berlin negotiations are underway to replace the Nationalist chief of police with Count von Helldorff. This appointment would give the Nazi storm troop leader absolute control of the capital.

Suspends Police Officers.

Capt. Hermann Goering, Nazi minister of the interior, who is suspending policemen right and left for interfering with Hitlerite demonstrations in recent months, is displaying great activity.

As commissar of aviation, he today promised to "free German aviation of the last fetters imposed by the Versailles treaty and to build up an aviation system strong enough to protect the safety of the country."

Meanwhile, the Catholic Centrist party has sent a protest to President Paul von Hindenburg pointing out that the reasons he gave for dissolving the reichstag did not correspond to the facts. The dissolution decree said "it is impossible to form a majority capable of governing." The Centrists stress that the dissolution decree was signed before negotiations on the possibility of obtaining a majority in the reichstag were completed. The Bavarian Peoples' party filed a similar protest. Hitler needed the support of the 70 Centrist members of the reichstag to obtain a majority.

Hardwick, 757 12th street, Wilmette. A license had been obtained on Wednesday and the couple suddenly decided at a party to be married immediately. The mother of the bride said there had been no parental objection. Geiger is a graduate of Dartmouth.

GANGS BATTLE WITH MACHINE GUNS IN STREET

One Wounded as Touhy Ambush Fails.

Two automobile loads of gangsters, stalking each other with machine guns and deadly intent, met yesterday afternoon at Harlem and North avenues and fought a sharp battle.

The occupants of one car, thanks to armor plate and the bullet proof glass that cased them, escaped injury. The vehicle itself was crippled by bullets fired into its tires and radiator and had to be abandoned soon afterward by its occupants. The police recovered it.

One of three men in the second car, which was unarmored, was reported to have been seriously wounded. He and his companions escaped, however, after fighting a second battle with two River Forest policemen who attempted to arrest them.

Wears Woman's Hat.

The driver of the armored car, who wore a woman's hat and short fur coat, is believed by the police to have been James [Fur] Sammons, paroled convict, killer and public enemy. Investigators are also sure that his opponents were members of the Touhy gang, which controls the beer and alcohol business in several western suburbs and in the northwest section of Cook county.

As the battle was reported later by witnesses, the Touhy element had parked at the intersection of the two roads. At this point Chicago, Oak Park, River Forest, and Elmwood Park boundary lines meet. Soon after their arrival the armored car appeared from the north in Harlem avenue.

As it went past the machine gunners in the parked car opened fire. Apparently they knew of the armor plate, as their bullets were directed at tires and radiator. Almost immediately the fire was returned from a submachine gun poked out of one of the windows of the armored car.

Gunman Falls Wounded.

Their bullets, according to witnesses, struck one of the men in the parked car and he fell upon the running board. He was dragged back into the car by his companions. These were aided by the occupants of another car parked beside them.

Slowly the big armored machine crept south, and turned east into Oak Park at Le Moyne parkway, one block south of North avenue. Back at the corner the wounded man and his companions turned their car and also headed south, possibly with the intention of following the other gangsters.

But as they started away River Forest Policemen Oliver Schultz and Robert Carr, approaching from the south, saw their machine guns and pursued them. The pursuers, after being fired on, lost their quarry in Elmwood Park.

Seize Woman's Car.

Meanwhile the armored car, near Marion street and Le Moyne parkway in Oak Park, forced an automobile to the curb. In this automobile were Mrs. Margaret Hanley, 1224 North Oak Park avenue, Oak Park; Mrs. Harriet Foss, her sister, and a small boy. Mrs. Hanley is the wife of William Hanley, business agent of the Commission Wagon Drivers union.

From the armored car leaped the three men. The man with the woman's hat and fur coat, which he wore with a pair of blue trousers, thrust a machine gun at the sisters and the little boy, drove away in the commandeered auto, leaving their own useless car behind.

Tracing the ownership of the armored machine, Lieut. Harry Wilson of the Oak Park police found that it was built for Ben Costello, candy manufacturer of Chicago Heights. He said he had sold it to a William Perry of Blue Island. Perry could not be found.

[Copyright: 1933: By the Associated Press.]

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Feb. 2.—Gen. Augusto Sandino, Nicaraguan rebel leader who has been carrying on a long and sanguinary conflict against the government, announced after a surprise conference at the presidential palace tonight that "peace is now a fact."

The picturesque general, who had been in revolt since 1927, came here by airplane from his mountain headquarters and will return by the same method tomorrow. Tonight he slept in the presidential mansion.

Sandino's outbursts of banditry were chiefly responsible for the presence of United States marines in Nicaragua in recent years and for the consequent "intervention" issue which was fought so bitterly in the senate for many months.

With the country calmed, and with a new president inaugurated, the last marine left Nicaragua early last month. Sandino, forgetting that it was lawlessness inspired by him which kept the marines here so long, opined tonight that "Nicaragua entered a new era when the last United States marine departed from our soil."

"Our fight is finished," he declared. "This enables all Nicaraguans to embrace each other fraternally and to be worthy of the moral respect of the whole world now that we have proved and will continue to prove that we are capable of governing ourselves alone. Peace is now a fact."

The general said that he had absolute control over all his officers and men. He foresaw no trouble when he returns and orders them to lay down their arms.

Will Aid President.

"In case some unforeseen objection is raised by my soldiers and they continue the rebellion I have placed myself at the orders of President Sacasa and will aid him in forcing them to follow my example," he declared. "Peace is agreed on, and I ask for nothing personally."

The consensus in high government circles was that Gen. Sandino meant what he said. An official spokesman asserted that much good was expected from the general's surprise visit. The details of peace conditions have not been officially divulged.

Dr. Pedro José Zepeda, who for years served as Sandino's agent in Mexico City and came here as the general's delegate in the peace conference, said that this was "a great day for Nicaragua."

Sandino came to the capital dressed picturesquely in gabardine trousers, a blue jacket, high boots, wore a red handkerchief around his neck, and carried an automatic pistol and field glasses.

HORNER IN LAST PLEA TO SETTLE MINERS' STRIFE

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Climax to Gov. Horner's efforts to reconcile the two coal mining unions of Illinois probably will be written Saturday.

"Each side," he said at the close of a long conference today that dragged into the evening, "has presented written proposals of what it is willing to do. I'm going to make one last effort to bring them into harmony Saturday."

Spokesmen for the United Mine Workers and the Progressive Mine Workers declined to say to which of Gov. Horner's terms of peace they had acceded, but there is a doubt in the minds of all observers that an agreement can be reached.

The only appointment announced by Gov. Horner during the day was that of W. Emery Lancaster of Quincy as a member of the civil service commission. He and Harry Kramer of East St. Louis, the minority under the recent Republican administration, are expected to assume control of merit board affairs. Kramer is slated for the chairmanship. Lancaster is an old time "regular" Democrat who has been a delegate to several national conventions. He is a lawyer.

2 EXPERTS GIVE VIEWS ON COUNTY TAX PROBLEMS

224 Millions Past Due from Other Years.

Two views of Cook county's gigantic problem of tax delinquecy were made public yesterday. The first, embodied in the testimony of County Attorney Hayden N. Bell in the sanitary district lake diversion case was touched with optimism.

The second survey of the situation came in the form of a report by George Hagenauer, auditor for County Treasurer McDonough, of the amount of taxes collected under the levies for 1928, 1929, and 1930. Mr. Hagenauer let his figures speak for themselves. Even if collections continue at the present rate, which is rather unlikely, it will take more than two years to bring collections up to the 90 per cent level on which various local governments have based their budgets.

Resumes Taxpaying Habit.

As the attorney who has to date defeated every attack made in court upon the validity of the county's tax levies, Attorney Bell is perhaps the best qualified man in Chicago to discuss the collections of taxes from the purely legal standpoint. He told Edward F. McClennen, master in chancery for the United States Supreme court, who is hearing the plea of six lake states that the sanitary district be placed in receivership for failure to comply with the Supreme court mandate in the lake level case, that in his opinion Cook county taxpayers are resuming the habit of paying their taxes.

Mr. Bell described the various suits which attacked the validity of the tax levies and the drive to collect taxes started last fall after the United States Supreme court had refused to review the Bistor case, embodying the objections advanced by the so-called tax strikers. He told of the adverse effect of real estate foreclosures on tax collections, and charged that more than $30,000,000 is being held in escrow for eventual payment of disputed tax bills, which funds, he said, should be turned over to the county immediately.

Old Taxes Paid Slowly.

Mr. Bell stated that when the tax collection drive was started about Nov. 20, a few weeks after the Supreme court ruling in the Bistor case, uncollected taxes amounted to 249 millions. The report released by Mr. Hagenauer showed that up to Jan. 31 approximately 25 millions of these taxes had been collected.

On Dec. 1 Mr. Hagenauer found that the total of uncollected 1928, 1929, and 1930 taxes on the county treasurer's books amounted to $235,898,675. On Feb. 1, two months later, this total had been reduced by tax payments totaling $11,845,851. This was an average of $1,300,000 in payments each week, and at this rate of payment it would require 112 weeks, more than two years, to bring the total of unpaid taxes down to $77,000,000, the 10 per cent of the total levies which budget makers expect to lose normally in the process of tax collection.

Lose Faith in Tax Strikers.

There is no assurance, however, that back tax collections wil keep coming in at the present rate. While, in Mr. Bell's opinion, taxpayers who have the money to meet their bills are losing their faith in the ability of the so-called tax strike organizations to obtain reductions and are coming in with their payments, economic conditions prevent other thousands of taxpayers who would pay if they only had the money from doing so.

Furthermore, bills on the 1931 levy will start going out next week and the penalty date on the first installment of real estate taxes on that levy is March 1. In addition to meeting their back tax bills, property owners now have to meet the problem of current bills, which for many of them will be just as high as the 1930 bills which reflected the whoopee era of tax spending.

Tax "Strikers" Call Meeting.

The Association of Real Estate Taxpayers, which has fought against the payment of taxes from 1928 to 1930, will have a general meeting in the Coliseum on Feb. 14 to discuss the adoption of a policy to be followed in regard to 1931 taxes.

A decision to call the meeting was adopted at a session of the association directors yesterday. George W. Reinecke, member of the governing board, said that it was their opinion the full membership of 30,000 should be given an opportunity of telling what they wanted done about the new tax roll.

"We have no set policy on 1931 taxes," he said. "This does not mean that we are abandoning our efforts. We are just going to let everybody have his say."

POLICE, FIREMEN VISIT WARRANT SALES OFFICES

Representatives of associations of police and firemen yesterday visited the office of the Dewey citizens' committee to inquire as to the progress which is being made in the campaign to sell 1932 tax anticipation warrants to provide pay for city, school, and county employés.

The committee up to today had sold $10,099,500 out of the $42,000,000 worth of warrants that it is offering to large property owners for use in paying taxes, and as investments.

William Welsh, vice chairman of the sales committee, told the delegation that the committee realizes the need for obtaining money for pay rolls, and declared that the committee is proceeding as fast as possible with its sales efforts.

The second permits confessors to commute or reduce visits to Rome basilicas necessary for obtaining indulgence, and the third regards as pious works, prayers by prisoners, the sick, aged and workmen who are unable to come to Rome.

TAX COMMISSION HOLDS ITS FIRST CHICAGO MEETING

Leaves to "Listen In" at Washington Parley.

Chairman Scott W. Lucas and his colleagues on the new state tax commission, Prof. Simeon E. Leland and Barnet Hodes, held their first Chicago meeting yesterday, then departed for Washington, where today and tomorrow they will attend the interstate conference of legislators, a national organization advocating uniform tax laws.

This conference, Mr. Leland said yesterday, has the approval of President Elect Roosevelt. It is headed by William B. Belknap of Goshen, Ky. The Illinois commission was invited to the meeting, but Chairman Lucas said that the members are making the trip purely to "listen in" and have no program to present.

Seek to Increase Revenue.

At their business session here the commissioners decided to investigate the possibilities of legislation by which their body could increase state revenue. They also took up the matter of reorganization of the commission.

Ten of the commission's 25 employés have already been cut off the pay roll, in line with Gov. Horner's pledge of economy in government. Further reductions may be made, it was said. The 57th general assembly gave the commission a biennial appropriation of $232,800, of which the largest item was $100,000 for assessment and investigation. It is possible that this sum will be cut when the appropriation requests for the next biennium are considered. The salary and wages item was $87,800.

Chairman Is Lawyer.

Chairman Lucas lives at Havana, Ill., where he has practiced law. He is 40 years old, is six feet four inches in height, and told reporters who called upon him yesterday that he was "just a big boy from the country." He is a graduate of Illinois Wesleyan university at Bloomington and served two terms as state's attorney of Mason county. He is well known to the American Legion, having been state commander in 1925 and from 1927 to 1931 was national judge advocate.

Prof. Leland is a member of the economics department of the University of Chicago. He is regarded as an expert on tax problems as well as an authority on local and state government.

Mr. Hodes is alderman of the Seventh ward and has served one term in the city council. Before this he was in the real estate business. During Gov. Horner's primary and election campaigns, Hodes was one of his advisers.

More 1932 Dividends Cut than During Previous Year

New York, Feb. 2.—The Standard Statistics company reports 2,768 unfavorable dividend changes for the year 1932, as compared with 2,274 for 1931. Dividends decreased numbered 1,251 last year, against 977 in 1931, while 1,517 payments were omitted, compared with 1,297 omissions during the previous year. There were 559 favorable changes against 1,010 in the earlier period. January's record was 135 unfavorable actions, twenty fewer than in December.

BOASTS ABILITY TO FIX TAXES; IS HELD FOR FRAUD

Harry Rogers of the Halliburton hotel, 6954 Greenview avenue, alleged operator of a tax fixing racket, will be arraigned today in the Felony court on a charge of operating a confidence game.

He was arrested yesterday afternoon in the offices of the Butler Motor Company, Inc., 2457 South Michigan avenue, after he had accepted $450 in marked money as advance payment for his alleged efforts to obtain a tax reduction.

Raymond W. Winkenwerder, secretary of the company, who made the complaint, said Rogers appeared a week ago, representing himself as a war veteran, and seeking to sell magazine subscriptions.

The talk drifted to taxes, Winkenwerder said, and Rogers offered, in return for a consideration, to have the assessed valuation on a building which the company owns at 25th street and Michigan avenue reduced from $53,000, the 1930 figure, to $29,000.

Winkenwerder said he met Rogers in the county building Wednesday by appointment and was shown the tax books on which the assessed valuation had been reduced to $29,000. Later Winkenwerder said he learned that the new valuation represented the normal reduction in valuations made by the county and that Rogers had nothing to do with it.

BREAK WINDOW; STEAL DRESSES.

A young woman escaped with an armful of dresses from the Marjorie Letts Woman's Apparel shop, 122 East Delaware place, after her male companion had broken the front window, with an iron bar, early yesterday.

ABORTION of Colds

(with lemon juice)

Do you sometimes get colds that hang-on for days? That's because the remedy used does not drive the cold symptoms from the system. Try cold abortion and you'll find these stubborn colds broken up and gone within a few hours. To abort a cold, squeeze two full-sized lemons in a glass of very hot water, to be taken preferably at bedtime. Two hours before, start taking a tablet of Pape's Cold Compound each hour. After the third tablet take the lemon juice and hot water without sugar, and go to bed, well-covered. Sound sleep will follow, and the cold will be aborted by morning. The lemon juice treatment never fails, but you must have the Cold Compound to clear the head, dry the nasal passages, and allay any fever. Any druggist has Pape's Cold Compound; it is perfectly safe, and a tablet will check a cold at any time.

BOGAN ATTACKS REPORT ON IDLE SCHOOL SPACE

Only 388 Vacant Rooms, Not 829, He Says.

Supt. William J. Bogan made use of an educator's definition yesterday to deny the report of the citizens' committee on public expenditures that there are 829 vacant rooms in Chicago's elementary schools. According to Supt. Bogan, the vacant rooms number only 388.

The definition the superintendent used was contained in the $100,000 survey of the schools, made public last June by Dr. George D. Strayer of Teachers' college, Columbia university.

"Surplus in the elementary schools," said Dr. Strayer, "is measured by the number of vacant or unused rooms of standard classroom size. A room is not counted vacant if it is used (1) as a branch of another school; (2) as the office of a district superintendent or supervisor; or (3) as much as 40 per cent of the time for science, music, art instruction, or if it is used by doctors and nurses, or for corrective work, project room, or adult classes."

"Used for Special Purposes."

According to Mr. Bogan's figures, 308 rooms were used for the special purposes. He also charged that the citizens' committee counted 307 portables as vacant rooms. Mr. Bogan did not make a detailed accounting to show the difference between his figures and those of the citizens' committee.

This has been denied by representatives of the citizens' committee, who contend that there is a net excess of suitable classrooms of "829 over the number of rooms required as home rooms by regular, kindergarten, and special divisions and the rooms used by junior and senior high school branches."

The report of the citizens' committee declared that some of the rooms are used for activities which take pupils away from the regular home room of the division part of the day and some are not used at any time for any purpose. Many of the excess rooms are due to the transfer of 7th and 8th grade pupils to junior high schools.

Enrollment Remains Stationary.

The citizens' committee called attention to the fact that 68,220 seats have been provided—at a huge cost—in the elementary schools since 1924, although the enrollment for the first eight grades has remained stationary. From 1924 through 1930 the school system expended $87,672,252 on new buildings. During the same period there was a marked decrease, due to the declining birth rate, of the number of pupils to be taught in the lower grades.

The peak of the first grade enrollment in Chicago was passed in 1924. In 1925 the second grade pupils started to decrease in number, and a year later the third grade registered a decrease. The progressive decrease is gradually moving into the higher grades.

With fewer pupils to educate in the future, the Stayer survey recommended "the extension of education into new fields." As an example Dr. Strayer and his associates proposed "the extension of the public school system downward to include pre-kindergarten children and upward to include vastly increased adult education."

Bogan's Report on Seats.

In Mr. Bogan's report on the findings of his staff concerning the vacant rooms he declared that elementary school facilities recommended or built [including those under construction] in the last four years total only 3,358 seats. He said 36,252 elementary school building seats were recommended and built in the preceding four years. This was before Mr. Bogan became superintendent.

Figures on second term enrolments made public by the superintendent's office gave the elementary school population as 328,009, a decrease of 4,584 pupils from February of last year.

School officials and members of the school board will meet this morning with representatives of the Chicago office of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to discuss the proposed loan of $15,000,000 to pay back salaries of school employés. Among those who will appear are James A. Hemingway, president of the board, Trustees Orville J. Taylor and Joseph P. Savage, and School Attorney Thomas V. Sullivan.

Under the plan the corporation would lend the $15,000,000 direct to the Metropolitan Trust company, which would offer board of education tax anticipation warrants as collateral.

MASTER GORMAN CALLED ON FOR ADVICE ON FEES

Show He Got $75,642 from 19 Cases.

Masters of chancery were asked yesterday to present suggestions to aid the special committee of the chancellors of the Circuit and Superior courts. The committee, composed of Superior Judges Denis E. Sullivan and William J. Lindsay and Circuit Judges Harry Fisher and Hugo Friend, is investigating mortgage foreclosures with a view of curbing excessive fees and other abuses of receivership.

Among the masters called upon for advice is George E. Gorman, member of the law firm of Crowe, Gorman & Savage. The first six months of 1932 brought Master Gorman 65 cases involving property valued at $2,685,037, according to a recent report on masters which appeared in the Illinois Law Review. In the same period Frank H. Bicek, now a Circuit judge, was given 151 cases, but they involved only $997,189.

Fees Average $3,981 a Case.

In the report, prepared by Homer F. Carey, John W. Brabner-Smith, and David V. Landsen of Northwestern university, Master Gorman was listed as having heard 19 cases, each involving property valued at more than $100,000. These cases alone gave Mr. Gorman $75,642 in total fees or an average of $3,981 a case. Six other masters in the Circuit court heard 101 cases in the $100,000 class and received fees of $148,475—an average of $1,470 a case.

The report pointed out that final figures on the fees in cases of the $100,000 bracket were not available as all the cases have not been closed. It also stated that all cases in the bracket were not included.

The study listed Gorman as having had 188 cases in 1930, 213 in 1931, and 232 up to Sept. 1, 1932. At an average fee of $600 in each case, it was estimated these would return $379,000.

Park Board Attorney.

Mr. Gorman is attorney for the south park board at a salary of $10,000 a year, which has been cut to $8,000 under a retrenchment program. His law firm represents the receivers of six closed banks. In attorneys' fees they have collected $15,000 from the Citizens' State bank of Melrose Park, $14,790 from the Lansing State bank, $68,000 from the Garfield State bank, $13,450 from the Melrose Park State bank, and $10,000 from the Phillip State Bank and Trust company. No fees have been collected from the sixth bank, the Devon Trust and Savings bank.

Mr. Gorman is now hearing charges that the $105,000 attorneys' fees requested by Judah, Reichman, Trumbull & Cox in the Noel State bank receivership are grossly excessive.

Mr. Gorman last night refused to discuss his fees.

His legal partners are Robert E. Crowe, former state's attorney, and Joseph P. Savage, member of the school board. Mr. Gorman was first assistant under Crowe and Savage was an assistant state's attorney under him.

Edwards, Comedian, Makes Payment to Former Wife

Cliff Edwards, vaudeville and movie comedian, yesterday made a $500 payment on his alimony arrears to his former wife, Mrs. Getrude Ryrholm, 5941 North Mango avenue, and on the doctor bills of his son, Clifton Jr., 13 years old, who lost his feet when he was run over by a train eighteen months ago. The arrears and bills together amount to $6,000. Edwards agreed to pay the balance as soon as possible and Judge James J. Kelly, before whom he appeared, dissolved a writ of ne exeat which Mrs. Ryrholm had obtained.

SENATE VOTES 48 MILLION CUT IN NEW BUDGET

Calls on Postal, Treasury Departments to Act.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—A $48,000,000 stride toward government economy was taken by the senate today when it adopted an amendment authorizing the postmaster general and secretary of the treasury in Mr. Roosevelt's incoming cabinet to cut 5 per cent from the costs of their respective departments.

The amendment was proposed as part of the Democratic program to assist their coming control of the government to a budget somewhere near a balance.

The author of the amendment was Senator Sam Bratton [Dem., N. M.], member of the special economy committee and one of the leaders in the move to prevent what the Democrats are fully aware would be a most inauspicious start to their four years in power—that is, a raise in taxes.

Republicans Aid Move.

Republican senators gave generous help to their colleagues across the aisle, adding 23 votes to the Democrats' 37, which, plus the single Farmer-Labor vote, gave the amendment a total of 51 in the affirmative.

On the negative side 14 Republicans, many of them radicals, and 10 Democrats, cast a total of 24 votes.

The amendment, Senator Bratton promised, would be but the first of a series to be proposed to every bill appropriating departmental funds for the fiscal year 1934.

Sees 130 Million Saving.

A total of more than 130 millions will be saved if all the amendments should be agreed to, the New Mexico senator explained.

Not so satified were Democratic leaders when Senator Hiram Johnson, California radical, won suspension of the rules by a vote of 54 to 20 to propose an amendment requiring government purchases to be confined to goods of American production and manufacture unless such limitation should be inimical to the public interest or run to an unreasonable cost.

The final vote on the adoption of the amendment was postponed until tomorrow, but the debate drew from Senator David I. Walsh [Dem., Mass.] a statement, dismaying to some of his party colleagues, that in spots the Smoot-Hawley tariff was not high enough.

Recites High Tariff Tale.

Reciting a tale of high tariffs set up by foreign countries against the importation of American goods, the Massachusetts Democrat declared:

"Being a Democrat does not necessarily mean that we must be for low tariffs. Unless the Democratic party realizes that present economic conditions call for a new attitude concerning the tariff we are likely to be involved in serious difficulties."

The fight on the Bratton 5 per cent amendment was long drawn and hard fought, the opposition insisting that the cut would—and should not—mean further decreases in the salaries of federal employés.

Slowly the opposition was beaten down. Opponents charged that 5 per cent on the whole bill might mean a 10 to 15 per cent of appropriations affecting personnel because of the many fixed charges due to contracts and leases. It was explained that with fixed charges set aside the cut would mean approximately 7½ per cent on the remainder.

The total of the treasury and post-office appropriations for 1934 was $961,416,597, as the bill passed the house. On that basis, the cut will mean that the heads of the two departments must make economies totaling $48,070,830.

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION HAS $311,416 BOOST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—In order to complete current investigations, including inquiry into the Insull collapse, the house voted today to add $311,416 to the 1934 appropriation for the federal trade commission.

The action raises the total for the trade agency from $510,000, recommended by the committee, to $821,416. The boosted figure is still $285,184 below the budget estimate and $645,084 under the total appropriated for the current fiscal year.

The amount finally allotted will not permit the trade agency to begin extensive new investigations it had prepared to undertake on July 1, 1933. An amendment raising the committee's recommendation to $1,000,000 to initiate the new inquiries was defeated on the ground that the necessary money can be appropriated at the special session if the new administration desires it.

Texans Oppose Commission.

Representatives Mervin Jones [Dem., Tex.] and Wright Patman [Dem., Tex.] took the position that the commission should be abolished but they corralled only a handful of supporting votes. Mr. Jones thought the commission's past investigations "almost worthless" and that the same results could have been obtained more quickly and at less expense by congressional committees.

Representative F. H. La Guardia [Radical, N. Y.], a champion of generous appropriations for the trade agency, answered the Texans by asserting that senate investigations of the stock market, which, he said, had "accomplished nothing," proved the inability of congressional committees to deal with business practices as satisfactorily as a commission devoted to that task exclusively.

Alleges Business Dishonesty.

"We are in an epidemic of business dishonesty," the New Yorker asserted, "and yet it is proposed here to stifle the work of the only agency we have that is trained to gather information for remedial legislation. Without that information congress is powerless to act."

Representative Clifton A. Woodrum [Dem., Va.], chairman of the subcommittee in charge of the bill, said the trade comission funds had been reduced too sharply, but pointed out that the next congress could provide funds for new investigations if the administration deemed them advisable. He observed that "another body" [the senate] has been in the habit of ordering the trade commission to make certain investigations "without providing the wherewithal."

START U. S. AUTO TOUR TO LAUGH DEPRESSION OFF

Starting from the Alpha Delta Phi club, they will go to Miami and back, then on throughout the west, in an effort to "balance the human interest budget."

The four are former State Senator James MacFarlane of West Virginia, Maj. Charles Brinkerhoff of Spanish war fame, Judge Pierce Reynolds, former justice of the peace of Kingston, Pa., and "Count" Joseph Dubreuil of Yonkers, and their outfit consists of a coupe and a trailer.

Signs on the trailer advertise Senator MacFarlane as a ventriloquist and humorist, Maj. Brinkerhoff as "the musical duce," Count Dubreuil as an international statesman and orator, and Judge Reynolds as the original technocrat and the last man of the machine age. The major plays eight musical instruments.

The trailer's name is the "Mysteria."

These men hope to help cure the depression by making people laugh, by improving morale. They financed the venture themselves, will sell nothing and advertise nothing.

Their act will consist of musical features by the major, ventriloquistic feats with the assistance of two ventriloquist dummies by the senator, a little fancy spellbinding by the count and the judge, and some movies.

In addition they will present eight playlets making fun of prominent figures in American life.

DOUKHOBORS FLY ACROSS U. S. TO INTERCEPT CHIEF

Three leaders of the Doukhobor commune in British Columbia were flying across the United States last night to intercept their president, Peter Verigin Jr., who is to be deported to Russia on a boat sailing from Halifax tomorrow. He is under sentence of death in Russia. Verigin is to surrender the presidency of the commune to one of the three if they reach him before the boat sails.

One branch of the Doukhobors is composed of religious fanatics whose parades in the nude forced Canadian authorities to exile them to an island in the Pacific ocean. That branch contains about seven hundred members. The commune headed by Verigin is incorporated as the Christian Commune of Universal Brotherhood and contains 6,000 members. The Doukhobor religious sect contains about 10,000 members.

Flying to Halifax.

Peter Makaroff, K. C., of Saskatoon, Sask., attorney for Verigin, and S. F. Reibin, Verigin's secretary during his stay at the Prince Albert jail, arrived in Chicago last night after flying from Winnipeg, Man., and departed at midnight on a United Air Lines plane for New York. They planned to fly to Boston this morning and charter a plane there to reach Halifax.

J. P. Shukin, vice president of the commune, was flying from the west coast. Makaroff and Reibin expected to meet him here last night, but he was delayed. Shukin was slated to receive the presidency of the commune from Verigin, who was on a train due to reach Halifax this afternoon. Makaroff, Reibin and Shukin received permission from Canadian authorities to see Verigin in Halifax, Makaroff said.

Verigin faces execution if he returns to Russia, Makaroff said, because when he left there 10 years ago to found the commune in British Columbia, he agreed never to return. There are about 15,600 members of the Doukhobor sect still living in Russia who have been denied permission to enter Canada as agricultural colonists.

Held on an Island.

Makaroff declared the fanatic Doukhobors are held prisoner on Piers island, near Victoria, B. C., which contains about 200 acres and sixteen frame dwellings. They were incarcerated because of their custom of parading in the nude in protest against rulings of the government. The parades led to pitched battles with police in which both men and women participated. The last large protest parade was held last May, when 500 nude demonstrators were jailed after a riot in which police used fire hose and itching powder to disperse them.

The parade was in protest against the sentencing of Verigin to three years in the penitentiary for perjury the same charge on which he is being deported after serving a term of eighteen months. His supporters have charged that the case was framed by the government.

Extend Grand Jury Term for War Risk Claim Quiz

Service of the January United States grand jury was extended for thirty days by Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward yesterday, at the request of District Attorney Dwight H. Green. It was indicated the additional time was wanted for investigation of fraud in war risk cases. The investigation is the outgrowth of a suit in which Judge John P. Barnes dismissed the petition of veteran for compensation, and cited him for contempt on the ground of perjury.

Michigan Girls Abandon Their Hike to Hollywood

Two girls from St. Joseph, Mich., who set out last Saturday to hitch hike to the Hollywood movie colony, unwillingly turned back yesterday at Sandwich, Ill., and went home with a policeman their parents had sent after them. They are Ruth Stein, 15 years old, and Aileen McAfee, 17 years old. A motorcycle policeman took them into custody Wednesday at Sandwich and they were held in jail there overnight at the request of their relatives.

TRIBUNE POLICY PAYS $11,250 FOR WOMAN'S DEATH

Ex-Chicagoan Fatally Hurt in Bus Accident.

A check for $11,250 yesterday was given to James E. Hesse, 538 North Morton avenue, Okmulgee, Okla., beneficiary under a Federal Life Insurance company policy obtained through THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

Premiums totaling only $8.75 had been paid on the policy which was one of the regular $7,500 travel accident insurance policies, applications for which appear daily in this newspaper and which cost only $1.25 a year.

Makes Son Beneficiary.

Mrs. Gatella Hesse, formerly of 4740 Woodlawn avenue, then employed as a bookkeeper by the National Bank of Woodlawn, obtained the policy some years ago and made her son, James, the beneficiary. She moved to Oklahoma City, Okla., recently. Last Nov. 27 she was injured when a Southern-Kansas Stage Line bus went into a ditch two miles east of Okemah, on U. S. highway 226. She died Dec. 9, 1932, as a result of the injuries she received.

The $11,250 paid her son represents the $7,500 principal sum under the policy and $3,750 in accumulations. Under the terms of the policy, during the first five years, the value of all specific indemnities increases 10 per cent each year the policy is renewed.

Son Thanks Company.

Mr. Hesse wrote a letter to the Federal Life Insurance company which read as follows:

"I wish to express my full appreciation to you for the prompt and courteous manner that your Oklahoma City manager, E. L. Poindexter, handled a claim for my mother, Mrs. Gatella H Hesse, for $11,250. The total premiums paid amounted to $8.75. This policy was obtained through THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and I would gladly recommend the Federal Life Insurance company to any one interested in insurance. I would not be without this protection."

Kills Self; Apologizes to Wife for Lack of Luxuries

Apparently despondent because he was unable to provide his wife with luxuries, George A. Papur, 29 years old, 4020 West Monroe street, shot and killed himself yesterday in the rear of his confectionery at 2541 West Van Buren street. He had written a note to his wife, Anna, 26 years old, expressing regret that he had not been a better provider.

Eugene Romeo, 45 years old, 931 North Marion street, Oak Park, a sculptor, started to drive from his home to his studio at 1028 West Van Buren street yesterday. In the 2700 block on Warren boulevard a second car crowded him to the curb and Romeo drove onto the sidewalk to avoid a collision.

The automobile knocked down a tree and hit a concrete porch at 2718 Warren boulevard. It moved through the debris, sheared off a set of wooden steps at 2716, crashed through more steps at 2714, and came to rest amid a third wooden porch at 2712.

"Yes," agreed Romeo, "both tires are flat."

VLACHOS TOLD IN CABLEGRAM HE'S DISMISSED

State's Attorney Courtney announced yesterday that he had discharged by cablegram Assistant State's Attorney Andrew J. Vlachos, who aided in the unsuccessful attempt to extradite Samuel Insull. When the extradition hearing was decided against the state, Charles Bellows, also an assistant prosecutor, who accompanied Vlachos, returned to the United States. Vlachos, who speaks Greek, remained in Athens at the request of Secretary of State Stimson.

"I cabled Vlachos yesterday and informed him of the discharge," State's Attorney Courtney said. "I have received no reports from him and am acting in accordance with the county economy plan. He will be allowed transportation expenses home."

State's Attorney Courtney also announced that Assistant State's Attorney Thomas Johnson and Russell Root had been removed from the pay roll.

JUDGE OPENS 13 BIDS TO REINSURE ILLINOIS LIFE CO.

Wilkerson to Announce Choice Next Week.

surance, title to Illinois Life assets will remain with the receiver, except as assets are transformed into cash which, with current income, will be transferred to Lincoln National for the reduction of liens on Illinois Life reserves.

5. If liens are retired at the ten year period, policy contracts will continue in full force and, if liens remain, Lincoln Life will exchange all policies encumbered by the lien for policies free of lien in Lincoln Life.

6. While Lincoln National Life's obligations to pay death claims in full shall cease after five years, it may continue such payments in full in the ensuing five years if in its judgment such payments may be safely made. No reduction shall be made merely to profit Lincoln National however.

Other Offers Made.

Among other offers submitted were the following:

Illinois Bankers Life of Monmouth Ill. Offers no cash for business. Death claims, cash surrender and loan values to be paid subject to a lien said lien to be reduced as assets are liquidated. Agrees to retain Illinois Life's agency force as a going concern.

Life and Casualty of Chicago. No cash for business. A 100 per cent lien on reserves for loan and cash surrender values. Death claims, paid up and extended policies, and annuities shall be subject to contingent liens.

Old Line Life of Milwaukee. The actuary described this plan as neither a lien plan nor a profit sharing plan. As assets of Illinois Life are liquidated they shall be transferred to Old Line Life for the purchase either of paid up or endowment insurance in the amount the transfer justifies.

Other bidders are Continental Life of St. Louis, Central Life Assurance society of Des Moines, Missouri National Life of St. Louis, a policyholders' reorganization committee headed by J. Abrahamson, and another policyholders' committee headed by James C. Crume. Attorneys Rosenberh, Corlett and Toomin submitted a reorganization plan on behalf of an unnamed client, and Arthur Stedry Hansen, self-styled financial engineer, submitted an independent reorganization plan.

A group of eleven fraternal insurance societies submitted a plan for consolidated reinsurance of Illinois Life by themselves. Societies in the group are Catholic Order of Foresters, Concordia Mutual Benefit league, Chicago Fraternal Life association, Women's Catholic Order of Foresters, Western Catholic union, Sons of St. George Mutual Benefit and Aid society, Ancient Order of Hibernians Ladies' auxiliary, and North American Union Life Assurance association.

The former owners of the Illinois Life, 80 year old James W. Stevens, chairman of the board, and his two sons, Raymond W. and Ernest J. Stevens, all indicted for conspiracy to defraud the company, surrendered to the sheriff yesterday and posted bonds of $25,000 each.

Question Bond Deposit.

A question was raised as to the surety behind the bonds, which were underwritten by the United States Fidelity and Guarantee company. When the bond forms were shown to Assistant State's Attorney A. C. De Witt, with addenda indicating the Stevenses had deposited $75,000 in Liberty bonds as surety, Mr. De Witt immediately demanded the serial number of the Liberty bonds.

It was his suspicion, he later admitted, that the Liberty bonds might have come out of the company the Stevenses were accused of wrecking. Advised of De Witt's objection, the Stevens attorney, Patrick J. Lucey, former attorney general, hastened to confer with First Assistant State's Attorney Grover C. Niemeyer, who ordered the bonds approved without further parley.

Approached by newspaper men, Ernest Stevens raised a fist and threatened to "knock the block off any photographer who snapped his picture." Raymond Stevens was less bellicose, issuing a statement of which some portions were later denied.

"The whole situation is caused by a general deflation in values," he said. "I had a talk the other day with Gen. Davis and with Charles G. Dawes, who agreed with me. If the policy holders will hold on for four or five years everything will work out right."

Queried by the Associated Press on this statement, Gen. Davis said he could only repeat the statement previously made to Judge Wilkerson, namely, that the troubles of the Illinois Life arose mainly from the freezing of $13,000,000 of its assets in the Stevens and La Salle hotels, of which Ernest Stevens was president.

Mr. Stevens was also quoted as saying that the indictments were "all poppycock and would all be washed out when the case is heard." He later denied making the statement.

WILKERSON REMOVES STEVENS AS HOTEL LA SALLE MANAGER

Ernest J. Stevens, relieved of his duties as manager of the Hotel La Salle yesterday because of his indictment for embezzlement, will be succeeded by a man who once worked in the hotel as head waiter.

On recommendation of Thurlow G. Essington, La Salle hotel receiver, Federal Judge Wilkerson named Theodore De Witt, manager of the Hotel Hollenden in Cleveland, to replace Stevens.

De Witt will come to the La Salle at $1,250 a month under a contract specifying that he devote at least four days a week to his new job.

De Witt was head waiter in the La Salle before he went to Cleveland. He was managing steward at the Union club of Cleveland when federal agents traced a cargo of liquor to the club. De Witt pleaded guilty to possession and sale, served a term in Atlanta, and returned to Cleveland to become manager of the Hollenden. He is now vice president, director, and part owner also.

MRS. ANDERSON'S COURT ACCOUNT GAINS $500 MORE

The Canada Life Assurance company yesterday deposited another $500 in the disputed account of Alma Newton Anderson, widow, whose $500,000 damage suit against Ernest R. Graham, well known architect, recently was dismissed in the Superior court. The fund, now amounting to $2,400, is being held by the United States District court pending settlement of the claims by litigants.

According to petitions filed in the suit Mrs. Anderson had a $500 a month income from an annuity with the insurance company. Against this income she made assignments of more than three times the income value. The insurance company filed suit for instructions as to the disposition of the money and deposited the monthly payments with the court.

Both Mrs. Anderson and Edwin Markham, aged poet, claim the full amount. With the filing of yesterday's monthly settlement the insurance company asked that court costs and attorneys' fees be taken from the sum held by the court.

Mrs. Anne Cudahy Glenn Files Suit for Divorce

San Diego, Cal., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Mrs. Anne Cudahy Glenn, member of the Chicago packing family, filed suit for divorce here today charging Raymond Glenn with extreme cruelty. Mrs. Glenn, a resident of Coronado, asked custody of their child, Raymond Jr., aged 4. She charged her husband flew into violent rages and called her names. The two were married in Los Angeles in 1926 and separated last October.

New Chairman to Make Other Economies.

Economies effected by Chairman Benjamin F. Lindheimer of the Illinois commerce commission, through a 30 per cent cut in the number of employés and salary reductions for those remaining, have already sliced $201,460 from the commission's annual pay roll, an analysis disclosed yesterday.

Additional savings may be made, Mr. Lindheimer said yesterday, when he has had an opportunity to examine pending dockets and the duties of the remaining employés.

"I told the department heads of the commission," he explained, "that I wanted them to recommend reductions which would not only cut the working staff to the bone but would actually cripple us a little. Gov. Horner's platform was so clear on the necessity of paring down expenses of government that it has to be done."

Staff Is Cut One-Third.

Early this week, Lindheimer ordered 57 employés of the commission removed from the pay roll, thus cutting his staff about one-third.

The biennial appropriation for the commission, as passed by the general assembly in 1931, was $1,234,780, of which $979,480 was set aside for salaries and wages. Lindheimer has saved $162,540 by discharging the 57 employés and $38,920 by cutting the pay of the remaining 100—a total of $201,460.

Among those fired were four of the six assistant commissioners. Lindheimer said yesterday that he does not at present contemplate filling their posts. The secretary of the commission and four private secretaries were also relieved. The latter will not be replaced, the chairman added.

Engineers Are Discharged.

Engineers, assistant engineers, investigators, stenographers, examiners and other employés were discharged in the sweeping order. In making the appropriation for the next biennium, however, it was believed likely that some other items, in addition to salaries and wages, would be given close attention.

The 1931 budget continued these items, among others, which might be pared down: travel expenses, $116,000; repairs and equipment, $17,500; office expenses, $57,000, and valuations and investigations, $40,000.

Beginning next week, Mr. Lindheimer expects to spend most of his time in Springfield. A number of important utility rate reduction cases are pending before the commission.

DEPOSITORS GET REPORT ON BILLS OF CLOSED BANK

With cash on hand of $40,855, the Prudential State Savings bank must meet bills payable totaling $390,000, as of Dec. 31, before payments can be made to depositors. This was explained by the state auditor's office yesterday in answer to inquiries of depositors. It was announced that the receiver had made total collections of $130,796 and that it was necessary to take a loss of $30,302 in converting the assets. A total of $89,940 of the collections has been disbursed, of which amount $76,893 went to the Reconstruction Finance corporation and the First National bank, holders of bills payable on loans made prior to the closing of the Prudential.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 2.—[Special.]—To save his wife and children from the attack of a man, apparently insane, who had a 5 inch knife in his hand, Dr. Andrew Porracco, 35, of Brooklyn, cut off his own escape into his apartment today and locked himself and the maniac in his office.

Twenty minutes later, when the office had been wrecked and both men injured, the doctor grabbed a revolver from his desk and fired two shots at his assailant, who was fleeing. The ex-patient, Frank Blandino, 33, was arrested a few minutes later on the street by two patrolmen.

Dr. Porracco had treated Blandino for two months for a nervous disorder. Shortly before 10 a. m. today Blandino walked into the office from the stairway leading to the street. He closed the door and stood in front of it. The only other door led to the doctor's apartment, there were his wife, Anna, and their two young children.

Blandino replied: "I have come to kill you, doctor."

The doctor tried to soothe him, but Blandino drew a knife. The doctor sprang to the door leading to his apartment and locked it. The free-for-all and the maniac's flight followed.

PAIN DEADENED CHEST COLDS LOOSENED WITHOUT DRUGS

Get quick relief from neuralgia pain, sciatica pain, neuritis pain, rheumatic pain, lame back, stiff neck, headache, strains and chest colds by rubbing plenty of Baume Bengué (pronounced Ben-Gay) on the spot. It doesn't blister or stain. Rub it in till it sinks down and soothes the pain or breaks up the chest cold. Take no drugs, for any drug that is powerful enough to "deaden" pain or loosen a chest cold may not be good for you.

But beware of imitations. Ask your druggist for Baume Bengué by name (called "Ben-Gay" in English). There are many analgesic balms, mostly cheap imitations of Ben-Gay made out of synthetic drugs. That is why they are cheap. That is also why they are ineffective. Insist on Ben-Gay and you will get real results.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL SYSTEM
COURTESY EFFICIENT SERVICE THE WAY

Consider the Railroads —as Purchasers

Almost every product that is made in this country has a substantial market in the railroads.

A few years ago this market for American products amounted to $1,389,000,000 a year. In 1932 it had shrunk to $441,500,000. All of us know and most of us have felt the effect of that shrinkage.

There are two things everybody can do to aid in the restoration of this great American market.

One is to use railway service for every transportation need the railroads can supply.

The other is to demand an end to the unfair competition that is helping to destroy the purchasing power of the railroads.

Barefooted and swathed in bandages, Edward Sistecky, 26 years old, former football and baseball star at St. Viator's college, yesterday left the Bridewell hospital as a federal prisoner to be arraigned on a charge of violating the prohibition laws.

Sistecky was arrested by prohibition agents on Jan. 18 after they had raided a still at 3339 West 66th place. The agents said he, with some hoodlums, tried to hijack the still.

There were varying stories as to how Sistecky received injuries so serious that for eight days of his stay in the Bridwell he was unconscious. His nose was broken, there were two deep cuts in his forehead, deep cuts on his scalp, his eyes were blackened, and his body was badly bruised.

Deny Prisoner Was Beaten.

Prohibition agents denied that they or the police had beaten the prisoner, but Sistecky said other inmates of the hospital had told him that the police beat him when he was taken there unconscious and delirious. The dry agents said he was injured when he fell from a speeding car in which the hijackers were riding. William L. Connors, a prohibition agent, was shot in the leg in the affray.

According to Sistecky his trouble was a result of trying to help his employer. Since his graduation from college in 1928, he said, he has been doing odd jobs. Recently he was employed as a decorator and was working on a decorating job in a saloon at 8548 Green Bay avenue the night of the raid.

Michael La Pota, owner of the saloon, told him hijackers were raiding a still owned by La Pota's father and asked for help in driving them off. The still was in a bungalow at the 66th place address. William Kolb, who was a rookie policeman, has admitted part ownership in the still.

Sistecky testified that as soon as he arrived at the still and discovered that the raiders were government agents he leaped from the automobile and was thrown to the pavement. That, he said, was the last he remembered.

Sent Out Without Shoes.

No one seemed to know who was responsible for the discharge of the prisoner from the Bridewell hospital without shoes or socks. Hospital attaches told him he had no shoes when he was brought in. The prohibition agents knew nothing of the matter. Sistecky said he distinctly remembered having a pair of almost new shoes when he was arrested.

When he was taken to the federal building for arraignment deputy marshals found a pair of shoes for him. Some of the stenographers procured needles and thread and sewed the rips in his clothing.

Then Deputy Marshal Steve Cusack told United States Commissioner Walker that he had known Sistecky for ten years and had umpired ball games in which Sistecky had played while in college. The commissioner continued the hearing to Feb. 14 and held Sistecky in bonds of $2,000. Cusack said he would procure a lawyer for the prisoner and would notify his parents, truck farmers in Oak Lawn, who had remained in ignorance of their son's whereabouts for the last week.

BRITISH DUKE IS SENTENCED TO 42 DAYS IN PRISON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MARGATE, England, Feb. 2.—The duke of Manchester was committed to prison today for 42 days on a judgment summons issued by the North Forelands Hotels, Ltd. Sentence was pronounced by Judge Clements in the Kent county court. The court also fined the duke $50 for his failure to appear in court on a subpoena. It was testified that the summons was served at a London hotel, but the duke said in London that he had never heard of it.

"I have received no word of a summons against me," the duke is quoted as saying. "An American friend told me of receiving a summons concerning a hotel bill. Friends incurred the bill when I was ill four years ago. I forwarded it to them and understood the payment had been made."

The duke of Manchester was married to Miss Kathleen Dawes, formerly an actress in England, at Greenwich, Conn., in December, 1931. A divorce obtained by the previous duchess of Manchester had become final ten days before the marriage.

JAPAN TO FIGHT AGAINST LOSS OF MANDATE ISLES

Navy Insists Possessions in Pacific Be Held.

TOKIO, Feb. 1.—(AP)—It became apperent today from newspaper comment and unofficial discussions that Japan, faced with the prospect of possible withdrawal from the league of nations on account of the Manchurian dispute, was determined to retain islands which they hold in the Pacific ocean under league mandate.

Admiral Osumi, minister of the navy, declined to answer direct questions as to whether Japan would retain the islands in event of withdrawal from the league, but navy circles were insistent that they be held.

Refer to "Secret Session."

The islands are located between the Philippines and the United States and are important in the Japanese navy's plans for domination of the western Pacific.

Japanese newspapers published several anonymous official arguments which justified retention of the islands. Some of the papers said that Yasyua Uchida, foreign minister, had told a secret session of the diet that "possession" of the islands would not be affected by withdrawal from the league.

The newspaper Nichi-Nichi quoted arguments by the foreign office that a mandate was not necessarily reserved to league members only, pointing to the offer of an Armenian mandate to the United States.

Called "Spoils of War."

An anonymous spokesman said that the influence of President Wilson after the world war "made it impossible to call things by their real names," coinciding with arguments credited to both the foreign and navy offices that the mandated islands actually represented Japan's spoils from the war.

Japanese Repulse Chinese.

PEIPING, China, Feb. 2.—(AP)—New battles between Japanese and Chinese for the control of Jehol province were revealed in an official bulletin issued today at north China headquarters here.

The bulletin said Chinese volunteer forces attacked Japanese troops yesterday and last night at Siucheng, were repulsed by artillery fire and airplanes, and then launched an attack at Chiumenkow, twelve miles north of Shanhaikwan. The hostilities, latest dispatches said, were continuing.

Chiumenkow, "the Pass of the Nine Gates," has been the scene of several Chinese attacks during the last week, all of which the Japanese report they have turned back. The Japanese occupied the city in the Great Wall of China early in January about the time Shanhaikwan also was taken over.

Meanwhile foreign advices were that Japanese troops in large numbers were being moved southward on the Manchurian railway from Mukden, leading to the belief that an important offensive against Jehol is planned. The Japanese intend to annex Jehol to Manchukuo.

New Conciliation Move.

GENEVA, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Yosuke Matsuoka, Japanese spokesman, visited league headquarters today to talk of further possibilities of conciliation of the Manchurian dispute, but this move failed to weaken the belief prevailing in official quarters that the league assembly is preparing a condemnation of the Japanese Manchurian policy. Whether such condemnation would be the preface to Japan's withdrawal from the league is a much debated subject.

The nature of recommendations concerning the dispute which are yet to be drafted will, according to the Japanese, determine that nation's course as regarding continuance in participation in the league.

JAPAN'S ENVOY HAILS U.S. AS BETTER FRIEND; BLAME FOR RUSSIA

New York, Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Katsuji Debuchi, Japanese ambassador, told the State Chamber of Commerce today that "of all the western nations, America will derive the greatest benefit from the economic regeneration of Manchuria."

"More than once," he said, "the relations between our two countries have experienced some certain strain, but each time we have emerged better friends. There is no reason to doubt that we will again emerge better friends."

Since the Russo-Japanese war, he said, Japan has "sacrificed 100,000 lives and 2,000,000,000 yen in checking Russian encroachments upon Manchuria."

The state of Manchukuo, he added, would insure an open door in Manchuria and "America will benefit by Manchuria's economic regeneration." For "it is a matter for mutual congratulation that there are no conflicting economic interests between the United States and Japan."

"The exports of our two countries are largely noncompetitive," he asserted, "and Japanese agencies assist in important ways in the sale of American goods in China. My only wish is that our American friends will understand the stern realities with which we are faced in insuring our national security in the much troubled far east, especially in the regions contiguous to our own territory."

U. S. TREASURY'S DEFICIT BILLION AND 272 MILLION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—The federal government was 1 billion 272 million in debt on the current fiscal year when the seventh month of the year closed, on Jan. 31, the treasury department announced today.

The deficit was dangerously close to 1 billion 645 million, the total which Secretary of the Treasury Mills has said it would not reach until the fiscal year closes on June 30. Nevertheless, treasury experts today stood by their previous estimate, pointing out that on March 15 the first income taxes under the new high rates will flow into the treasury and check the deficit's rise.

WARN OF DANGER IN DEPRECIATED CURRENCY BILLS

Peril Gold Standard, Say Tariff Board Officials.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 3.—[Special.]—Republican views on the problem of depreciated currency legislation widened still farther today as high officials of the federal tariff commission voiced strenuous opposition to the proposals said to be sanctioned by President Hoover and gave but flimsy support to the plan attributed to Secretary of the Treasury Mills.

Chairman Robert L. O'Brien of the tariff board told the house ways and means committee that adoption of either the Crowther or Hill bills designed to make the tariff effective against imports from countries with depreciated currencies would threaten the maintenance of the gold standard by the United States.

Vote on Bill Feb. 13.

"If you want an embargo against imports into the United States," said Mr. O'Brien, "go ahead and adopt it. If you want to stop all imports of foreign goods why not be honest about it? Those who vote to discharge this committee from consideration of this legislation are voting for our going off the gold standard."

Representative John C. Schafer [Rep., Wis.], with the sanction of Republican leaders in the house, was recently successful in getting the necessary 145 signers to a petition to bring the Crowther depreciated currency bill to the floor for a vote on Feb. 13. House Republicans, in conference, adopted a resolution advocating passage of such a legislation at this session.

Would Increase Tariff.

The Crowther bill, as would the Democratic Hill bill, provides for a general increase in the tariffs on goods imported from countries with depreciated currency levels. As opposed to this method of procedure, Secretary Mills has declared himself in favor of the plan embodied in the Hawley bill—namely: the increasing of duties on individual commodities after an investigation by the tariff commission.

It was to the latter plan that Mr. O'Brien gave some support today But his testimony was directed principally to an attack on the Crowther and Hill bills, passage of which, he declared, would be tantamount to admitting that there are advantages in being off the gold standard.

Mr. O'Brien's position also was supported by Thomas W. Page, vice chairman of the tariff commission.

Urges Remonetization of Silver.

Senator Key Pittman [Dem., Nev.] told the house committee on coinage, weights, and measures today that the remonetization of silver would neither expand the currency abnormally nor impair the gold standard. Instead, he asserted, it would provide a new basis for trade with the east and with South America, in that it would restore the purchasing power of nations on a silver basis.

The Nevada senator denied that its remonetization would exert a tremendous inflationary effect on world currency.

Mr. Pittman's testimony was given before the house committee in connection with the so-called Pittman-McKeown silver bill, now under consideration. The measure provides for federal purchase of silver witi certificates backed by the purchased silver.

The concern of two TRIBUNE readers for the welfare of needy children in the public schools is expressed in the messages which accompanied their gifts to the Hungry School Children's fund yesterday.

WELFARE FUND'S TRADES DIVISION NEAR ITS GOAL

The Chicago Woman's Aid increased its gifts to the Emergency Welfare fund to $4,100 yesterday. Among other contributors were the faculty and staff of the colleges of medicine, dentistry, and pharmacy of the University of Illinois, who increased their pledges to $1,863.

Among the commercial contributors were the Chicago Daily News employés, who pledged $14,401, which was matched by the company itself. Employés of the Diamond T Motor Car company subscribed $1,000 and employés of S. W. Straus and Co. gave $2,000.

Yesterday's pledges and gifts brought the trades division of the campaign to within $350,000 of its $5,000,000 goal. The remainder of the $7,500,000 fund sought to maintain the private welfare agencies of the city will be raised from other sources.

E. B. McLean Sued for $7,000 by Hotel in Paris

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—(AP)—A suit was brought today in District of Columbia Supreme court against Edward B. McLean, former publisher of the Washington Post, for payment of notes for $7,360 to the Hotel George V of Paris. Attorneys for the hotel complained that since the notes, renewable every ninety days, had been given last April and May, there had been no renewals and that payment had been refused. McLean recently was reported ill at the American hospital in Paris.

Doctor Answers Night Call; Is Robbed of $50

Answering a telephone call requesting his medical services, Dr. V. F. Torczynski, 5522 South Troy street, was lured to 4129 South Artesian avenue late last night, where he was robbed of $50 and his watch by two men.

BERLIN REJECTS FRENCH SCHEME TO SLASH ARMS

Security Thesis Scored by Germany's Delegate.

GENEVA, Feb. 2.—(AP)—The world disarmament conference today began its second year with a striking exhibition of a disagreement between France and Germany over the essential conditions for realization of a genuine reduction of the world's fighting forces.

Taking up the French plan, the delegates heard Count Rudolf Nadolny, spokesman for the German chancellor, Adolf Hitler, flatly reject a fundamental principle of this scheme, namely, that disarmament must go arm in arm with the establishment of additional guarantees for international security.

After asserting that the league of nations' covenant had pledged the nations to a progressive disarmament as the best way of maintaining peace and guaranteeing security of all states, Count Nadolny expressed regret that the French plan did not contain concrete proposals for genuine qualitative or quantitative disarmament and that it provided no means for a limitation of war material.

Stresses Arms Limitation.

"The indispensable and urgent task of this conference," he said, "consists in establishing to what limit it will go in reducing specifically offensive arms."

He added: "It is evident that disarmament must be realized immediately on a basis of guarantees created by the league covenant itself, and that disarmament must not be subordinated to the creation of new security guarantees of juridical or political character. That was the state of affairs when we had only the covenant. Since then we have added the pact of Paris, the Locarno pact, the world court optional clause, and other pledges of security."

While discussing his claim that the French plan suggests no definite scheme for quantitative disarmament, the German delegate said it was necessary "to proceed without delay to execution of the Hoover plan." This plan proposes a one-third reduction in all armaments.

Italy Also Finds Fault.

Italy, too, found fault with the French proposal, Baron Pompeo Aloisi casting doubt upon the efficacy of a European continental security agreement. He thought that any understanding for peace required the full participation of the United States and Great Britain. Furthermore he said that any measures against war would be ineffective unless guarantees against economic aggression were included.

The French plan was explained by Rene Massigli. The United States was represented by Hugh S. Gibson, while Maxim Litvinoff attended as the Russian representative. The debate will be continued tomorrow afternoon.

NITTI IN COURT; GIVES $10,000 BOND IN ASSAULT CASE

Frank Nitti, Capone gang leader, appeared yesterday before Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court and scheduled bond of $10,000 on a charge of assault to kill Detective Harry Lang. His aunt, Mrs. Grace D'Allesio, who scheduled property at 120c Macalister place, Vincenzo Soudieri, and Domino Tufino, were signers on the bond.

Nitti was indicted last week on the assault charge that grew out of the shooting of Detective Lang during a raid on the gangster's loop headquarters.

Nitti, who was shot three times by the raiders, hobbled into court leaning heavily on a cane. He was accompanied by his attorney, Rocco De Stefano, and his father-in-law and physician, Dr. Gaetano Ronge. The attorney said he was ready for immediate trial.

French Swallow British Yarn U. S. Will Cancel War Debts

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 2.—The French press was stuffed today with examples of how British propaganda is being used by French interests, either unconsciously or deliberatly, to make the French public believe that the United States will consent to a complete cancellation of war debts.

Statements made by Neville Chamberlain, British chancellor of the exchequer, yesterday to American newspaper correspondents were featured prominently and the afternoon L'Intransigeant in a front page editorial concluded that his words "prove that the policy of Britain is linked with ours on this capital point."

Says Refusal Pleased.

L'Intransigeant said Chamberlain's statements also prove that France was right in refusing to make the Dec. 15 payment of $19,261,432 to the United States.

"Far from being irritated at us because of the refusal to pay," continued the editorial, "our neighbors on the other side of the channel are delighted."

A still more interesting example showing the collusion between the French official agency, Havas, and the British Reuter's, which was recently revealed by THE TRIBUNE, appears in the form of a short Havas news dispatch credited to the Warm Springs [Ga.] correspondent of Reuter's. As it originally appeared this morning the dispatch said:

"It is announced that President Elect Roosevelt and Senator Cordell Hull have worked out a plan for lowering world tariff barriers and for stabilizing currencies in return for concessions on war debts."

Published "Added Details."

This relatively innocuous dispath, which apparently erred only in presenting the news as a fact instead of an unofficial report, gave way later in the day to dispatches stating that Mr. Roosevelt had cabled a plan for complete cancellation. They appeared in this form in the afternoon Temps, Liberte and other papers with additional details that Mr. Roosevelt has discussed the plan with Prof. Raymond Moley, one of his advisers, and Walter Lippman, New York writer.

They added further that since Mr. Roosevelt realized that lowering of the tariff and currency stabilization could only be accomplished through long diplomatic negotiations, he is ready to call a moratorium for an indeterminate period.

Let Cat Out of Bag.

It was the conservative Journal des Debats which let the cat out of the bag. Under a London date line it printed the following Havas message in its news columns:

"The Reuter's agency says its telegram from Warm Springs, Ga., regarding a Roosevelt plan [published in a Havas bulletin at 6 o'clock] should read as follows:

"'It is announced that President Elect Roosevelt and Senator Hull have drafted a plan for lowering world tariff barriers and stabilizing currencies in exchange for the cancellation of war debts [not concessions on war debts].'"

Perusal of leading British papers this morning failed to show any trace of the Reuter message in either form, although it may have been in the obscurer sheets. By a strange coincidence the more independent French papers did not run the Havas-Reuter's item, although all subscribe to the Havas service, while the papers which did publish it are chiefly those having close financial connections with Havas.

Pierre Denpyer of the Petit Parisien, one of the few French correspondents in America and regarded as a highly reliable journalist, evidently crowded the Reuter "fake" out of his paper with a long message which did not mention cancellation. The dispatch concluded that Mr. Roosevelt has every reason to go slow in urging even mild revision on congress. He asserted, too, that the American public will not consent to any modification of the debt agreements without getting tangible economic concessions in return.

Lindsay in London Monday.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 2.—Sir Ronald Lindsay, British ambassador to the United States, will arrive in London on Monday and will present President Elect Roosevelt's views on the war debt situation to the British cabinet at once. A cabinet committee, headed by Prime Minister MacDonald, will consider arrangements for the negotiations with the American government. MacDonald today accepted an invitation to preside at the world economic conference on the condition that the conference be held in London.

Diet Didn't Do This!

Every child's stomach, liver, and bowels need stimulating at times, but give children something you know all about.

Follow the advice of that famous family physician who gave the world Syrup Pepsin. Stimulate the body's vital organs. Dr. Caldwell's prescription of pure pepsin, active senna, and fresh herbs is a mild stimulant that keeps the system from getting sluggish.

If your youngsters don't do well at school, don't play as hard or eat as well as other children do, begin this evening with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. This gentle stimulant will soon right things! The bowels will move with better regularity and thoroughness. There won't be so many sick spells or colds. You'll find it just as wonderful for adults, too, in larger spoonfuls!

Get some Syrup Pepsin; protect your household from those bilious days, frequent headaches, and that sluggish state of half-health that means the bowels need stimulating. Keep this preparation in the home to use instead of harsh cathartics that cause chronic constipation if taken too often. You can always get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at any drug store; they have it all ready in big bottles.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

FEDERAL INSANITY ITEMIZED.

Arthur Henning's story of Thursday morning showed in specific itemized detail how a total of over one billion dollars can be taken out of the federal budget by stopping various federal activities for which no justification can be found. The items are evidence of federal bureaucracy gone insane under the stimulation of thousands of hobbyists. They represent the extension of the general welfare clause of the constitution to its extreme lunacy.

The inquisitive citizen who wonders how his federal government ever grew to the size it has may satisfy his curiosity if he will examine Mr. Henning's list, item by item. No such creature as is represented by this schedule of expenditures ever was contemplated by any one who had a part in the creation of the American form of government.

It may be useless, but is nevertheless interesting, to consider what would have been the present state of the American nation if its thirteen states, plus Vermont, had occupied the complete territory to be contained thereafter in the American union. The extraneous activities of the federal congress got their start in the management of public domain and territories outside the boundary lines of the states which won their independence and formed themselves into a nation. The territories were wards of the federal government and it, not satisfied with being guardian of territory not organized for local sovereignty, gradually extended its paternalism over the entire country, which now knows that unless it can reduce the stature and activities of the federal bureaucracy it must be flattened out under the dead weight of centralization.

PROTECTION FROM DEFECTIVES.

It is good news for the community that a group of specialists in mental diseases, lawyers, and judges have drafted a bill to give better protection to the public from dangerous defectives. The main object of the measure, says one of its proponents, Dr. Hoffman, director of the Criminal court behavior clinic, is the permanent confinement of dangerous defectives in a walled institution. Recent atrocities by offenders of this type, at large for one reason or another, in spite of past offenses, have emphasized the urgent need for better means of restraint, and the committee which has drawn the bill is as competent as could be formed. Its proposals as summarized in the news report seem to us deserving of favorable action by the legislature, and it is to be hoped that action will not be unnecessarily delayed. Suggestions are offered for the use of an existing building so that it will not be necessary to appropriate any new funds in substantial amount nor to wait for a new building. As soon as the legislature approves the proposed plans they can be put in operation.

Downstate is interested in this reform as well as Chicago and we hope its enlightened citizens as well as our own, represented by the legal and medical fraternities and civic organizations, will promptly interest themselves in this legislation and let their support be known at Springfield. The lives of many innocent people will be saved by it and a condition which is discreditable to Illinois as a civilized community will be ended.

JUNGLE LAW IN ECONOMICS.

When the United States and Canada concluded that their attempts at reciprocity were doomed to failure and consequently entered upon their retaliatory tariff policies a great many American industrial plants established branch factories in the dominion. It is estimated that there were a thousand such and that the capital invested was about a billion five hundred million dollars. This, of course, had an immediate effect upon Canadian economy. It transferred employment from the United States to Canada, it fattened the Canadian pay roll, and it brought a great deal of money into Canadian circulation.

What the American industrialist sought was escape from the Canadian customs duties and a preference in the British empire market. Production in Canada was one of assembling and finishing rather than the complete process, but the method served the purpose although it hurt American industry. Now the British board of trade has issued an order that imperial preference requires in the production of goods a minimum of 50 per cent of empire material and labor. The former requirements which the American Canadian factories were meeting was 25 per cent. In consequence of this order, American industry in Canada is preparing to do one of two things, either to move back into the United States or to jump the ocean to the heart of the market desired, which is in Great Britain.

The moral need not be pressed, although its elements are fairly apparent. The modern economic rule is one of the jungle. It is one of pursuit and escape. Legislation proposes and man's instinct for self-preservation disposes. The black panther gets wind of his prey but his prey gets wind of him. He leaps for his victim and his victim leaps for a tree.

SICK IS QUITE CORRECT.

Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, speaking to the American Newspaper Correspondents' association in London, said he was sure the American people were sick of hearing so much about the debts and, if so, he was inclined to be in complete agreement with them.

In a way, Mr. Chamberlain is quite right. The American people for the most part are sick of hearing what they have been hearing for the last ten years about these obligations. It must be said that Mr. Chamberlain, in discussing debts, continued to say more of what has so wearied the people of the creditor nation. It is that nothing can be done to satisfy these unimpeachable claims except to forget them. The creditors are quite justified in being sick of hearing that the notes they hold represent nothing but their own moral turpitude and their complete lack of common sense. It may be predicted that in the end the world itself will be made sick by a doctrine which utterly repudiates the right of the creditor to collect anything for the goods he has produced for other people and services he has rendered them.

If Mr. Chamberlain and other British debtors think that credit can be sustained in international relations by such a policy they surely have been reading history only to satisfy their desire to pass the buck.

HELPING THE RAILROADS.

Walker D. Hines, who was director general of the railroads during the wartime experiment in government operation, has been discussing with the President elect what ought to be done to help rail transport. Two of his suggestions any student of the railroads' plight, not a socialist, will support.

Mr. Hines says that the government should lower the through coast-to-coast freight rates to permit the roads to meet the competition through the canal. He cites the fact that fruit shipment now constitutes 40 per cent of the rail shipments from coast to coast, whereas before the war it was only 13 per cent. The percentage increase is because other shipments have fallen off, not because fruit shipments have gained.

Mr. Hines also recommends that large appropriations for inland waterway development be stopped, pointing to the fact that the transport system of the country has now facilities for handling more traffic than can be got, even in normal good times. The folly of spending more public money and increasing the destructive burden of public debt in creating unnecessary new facilities is double edged. Mr. Hines will have the support of thinking men in his protest against huge expenditure upon the St. Lawrence seaway for the real purpose of developing more water power. The completion of the gulf waterway, already paid for and ready for service, will give new facilities to a region hitherto handicapped by congressional policy and by commission regulation which has shut it off from the use of the canal, although it paid its full share towards its cost.

But with Mr. Hines' proposal for the federal regulation of interstate motor coach and truck transport he takes leave of good sense. What interstate traffic needs is not more regulation, but less. The interest of the nation is not in the entanglement of the new transport agencies in the system which has strangled the railroads, but the extrication of the latter. There should be an equalizing of rail and motor transport upward, not downward; an equality of freedom from destructive restraints, not the extension of slavery. The experience of the railroads with federal regulation of rates and operation should make it impossible to extend it to the new agencies in whose vigorous development under fair and constructive conditions the whole country is interested. The sane policy is to free and support the railroads, not to strangle motor transport.

A MENACE TO LIFE.

A woman was killed and three persons were injured the other day when a coping was blown to the sidewalk from a two story building on West Roosevelt road. This accident was avoidable. All such copings are inherently dangerous and should have been forbidden years ago by the city's building code. The new code ought to outlaw them, and meanwhile the city's building department, which has no new building to supervise, can go to work condemning these dangerous constructions wherever they are found.

Editorial of the Day

[New York Evening Post.]

Contrary to what might have been supposed there has been no general increase, during the depression, of cases of mental illness sufficiently serious to require hospital treatment. There have been, however, many departures from average mental health, shown in sullenness, sensitiveness to fancied slights, hopelessness, mental depression ranging from ordinary spells of the "blues" to melancholia, and frantic pursuit of social, religious, or political philosophies which promise relief or escape from mental distress. Fortune tellers, spiritualistic mediums, and other exponents of the occult have reaped a harvest from persons like these. Such are the findings of Dr. George K. Pratt in a report entitled "Morale: The Mental Hygiene of Unemployment," to be issued by the national committee for mental hygiene.

One of the most difficult problems presented by the depression is that of the maladjustment of those who in the post-war years of prosperity became known as the "new rich." Having a meager capacity for developing cultural resources within themselves and being emotionally immature, they simply bought their satisfactions, attaining a fair degree of gratification on a material and frequently childish level. When reduction of income made it difficult or impossible to buy these satisfactions they had little to fall back on in the shape of what might be termed a psychological cushion and consequently have been suffering from emotional as well as economic poverty.

An especially interesting suggestion for anybody who has to do with a person of this kind is that he give such person a chance to "talk it out." The process relieves emotional tension. "For a social worker or relief investigator to deliberately cultivate the habit of being a good listener," says Dr. Pratt, "may prove to be half the battle in maintaining a client's morale and mental health." The suggestion applies also to persons in groups. Freedom of speech for disappointed and resentful men and women is a safety valve of more than usual importance at a time like this. Even more important is work of some kind, almost any kind, "as long as it presents a reasonably definite task." For mental illness is the worst illness of all.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THE DUKE OF GUISE, pretender to the French throne, has issued a manifesto from Belgium telling the French people that they can see for themselves the impotence of a republic and asks them to declare for a restoration of a monarchy. The duke is willing to give up tea parties in Brussels where he leads the life of Riley to become king of France. It is further reported that an honest woodchopper of Doorn in Holland, Bill Hohenzollern by name, is quite willing with the help of Herr Hitler to return to Germany as kaiser. This changing world. Once the republic, the rule of the people, was supposed to be the absolute zenith in a country's happiness. Kings had their heads carefully taken off close up behind the ears or else were given the bum's rush. Now there seems in many quarters some dissatisfaction with the rule of the people and a disposition to give the kings their old jobs back again. Maybe after all that two bucks we loaned a Russian duke quite some time ago may come back some day.

AND IF WE DO GET AROUND to the point where there is a movement for a king in America we wish to go hurriedly on record as opposing Mr. Garner. Nor would we be in favor of Charley Curtis, for that would mean Dolly Gann for queen and Queen Dolly would start cutting heads off her social rivals. Which, if performed during a formal dinner, right after the soup, for instance, would liven up those somewhat dreary affairs considerably. But we just can't believe we could ever say "Yes, your royal highness," to Dolly without snickering. Then off with our head, and we'd hate to die right now when there's so much going on in the world. Bill Borah might be a good king, but he would be always making speeches and if he were king we'd have to applaud and cheer in the right place instead of yawning as we do now. Mr. Hoover we can't see as king, and besides he'd be fishing all the time instead of riding around in the great golden coach of state with his crown and ermine cloak and giving us common people a good show. Mr. Roosevelt is in direct line for the kingship if we ever decided to have one, but he would probably rather be dictator, the job that goes with the king business nowadays. Al Smith couldn't be king because of the same reason. If the king and dictator jobs were combined Al might take it, but that isn't the way things are running nowadays. There has to be a king, but he's just the yes man for the dictator and Al could never do that.

THE BOY.

I was walking all alone
When a boy burst through the corn
With nothing but his sneakers and
A pair of khaki trousers on;
Elbow raised he stopped to stare,
And smiled, and shoved back his bright hair,
And as he lingered breathless there
The world seemed fresh begun
With meadows not yet rained upon
And still unrolling hills and skies
And one young creature in whose eyes

DOROTHY ALDIS.

A CANADIAN STATESMAN up in Montreal has a brand new cure for the depression. He says to fire all young women who are holding business jobs. But if the gals don't draw down their pay envelopes then what's going to become of the lipstick makers, the chewing gum people, the eyebrow tweezer manufacturers, the rouge and face powder makers, the beach pajama dress makers and the vanity box salesmen? No, sir, this thing is too complicated to dispose of in any offhand way like that.

A Kansas Lecture on Pure English.

In informal conversation we may say . . . 'between you and me." . . . But we expect the editors of the legislative reports to see that our language appears as pure English and undefiled in the record.

THE DUKE OF MANCHESTER has been ordered to jail for forty-two days for nonpayment of a hotel bill. But they can't find him. Wonder if the duke was the one who stopped us on Rush street yesterday and asked us if we could oblige him with the small sum of twenty-five cents. It might have been the duke because he wore pearl colored spats. No, that would be a marquis.

WANTED, SOME FEROCIOUS DRAGONS

I go riding every night
On a steed of snowy white
Seeking dragons, three and four,
To place near my castle door.
As it is, the path is clear,
Not a single knight comes near.
I must make me hard to get,
Fiery monsters shall beset
My doorstep and I will sigh
And weep if any prince rides by.
That will tempt the lads, I guess,
To help a lady in distress.
Surely no knight could resist
Slaying dragons for a kiss.
Surely no prince could ignore
Dragons at a lady's door.
Now if I only can discover

ELECTRIC HEATING.

THERE is a place for electric heating. At this time its principal use is in "taking the edge off," as it is termed. During the morning hour, devoted to the baby's daily bath and toilet, the rule is that the heat from the central plant is low. The day is warming up and the occupants of houses are engaged in tasks that make heat, and the janitor takes advantage of these facts to save a little on the coal bill. The house is always cold around nine in the morning.

The nursery temperature is too low for the baby while he is being bathed and dressed. In consequence, the electric heater is placed in the nursery and turned on for half an hour. Or such a heater is used to bring the bathroom up to the comfort level. Or the head of the family must get up and dress in the very early morning. Elderly people not infrequently add to their comfort by having an electric heater near the bed, and rolling over and turning on the heat about fifteen minutes before they put the feet on a cold floor.

These are the present uses of electric heating and, as such, the method is justified in spite of its considerable cost.

Electric heating is the one method of heat production within the room itself that does not consume oxygen and produce carbonic acid and other gases within the inclosure. This is because the equivalent of the heat is produced in a central plant. It is carried to the inclosure by wires instead of pipes and ducts, but it is not changed into heat until it arrives at the point of use. It is, therefore, in a sense a fire within the room, but without the drawbacks of cold floors, drafts, smoke, ashes, and gases.

We should remember that air in contact with a hot core burns to produce some carbonic acid and if conditions are right for it there may be some carbon monoxide. The proposal for twentieth century practice is what is called panel heating. In this method there are neither fires, stoves, coils nor cores within the room. The heating is located in the partitions and under the floors. These heat the walls and floors, and thus the air is indirectly heated. Electricity is one of the methods used in this panel heating.

Any hidden source of heat is liable to cause fires, as experience with roof fires from chimney leaks attests. This is one danger of panel heating by electricity that will need to be planned against.

TALKING IN SLEEP.

R. F. B. writes: My sister, 35 years old and single, mumbles and talks in her sleep practically all night. Her health is perfect and she claims to be thoroughly rested on getting up in the morning. I have noticed that she reads herself to sleep.

She dismisses the subject lightly, saying she has the habit of holding her breath just like her father used to do. He lived to be 90, and I never heard him talk in his sleep. Sister works pretty hard at her profession, music teaching, choir leading, and orchestra leading. She lives alone, so that these nocturnal sounds become apparent only when she goes visiting.

REPLY.

Your sister is not at ease with the world. Because of this her dreams are disturbed. Change the tenor of her thourhts and she would stop talking in her sleep. Probably you are powerless. Probably she is safe.

ALIEN DEPORTATION.

Chicago, Jan. 30.—[Friend of the People.]—A man came to this country illegally in May, 1924. He has never been in trouble in any way and has been married to an American born citizen since February, 1929. He has worked steadily since coming here. Is there any way he can ever become a naturalized citizen? Is he under the deportation act? If he should be deported is there any way his wife could get him back? What steps would she have to take? S. M.

It would appear that the man mentioned, if an alien, is probably not deportable from the United States. However, he cannot under present laws become eligible to naturalization unless and until he departs from the United States and effects a subsequent reëntry into this country in a lawful manner.

If he should be deported he could not reenter the United States in any event until at least one year after deportation and then only in case permission is obtained from the secretary of labor for him to reapply for admission to the United States.

If, however, the man departs from the United States without deportation proceedings having been instituted against him he may apply to an American consul in the country to which he departs for an immigration visa, which would enable him to apply for admission to this country for permanent residence as soon as the visa could be obtained. K. I. ZIMMERMAN, Acting District Director of Immigration.

COMMISSION ON SALES.

Chicago, Jan. 31.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I was working for a firm which has gone bankrupt. I was on a commission basis only. While working there I closed a deal for which the customer paid only part of the commission. He kept promising to pay until finally the firm went bankrupt. I need this money very badly. Inasmuch as the customer really owed the money to the firm and the firm owed commission to me, how can I collect this? The customer can pay because he is in business and has plenty of money. The owners of the firm have no money to enter suit. M. M. M.

Your chances of establishing a direct claim against the customer would seem good enough to warrant going over all of your facts in a personal interview with an attorney.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 3, 1917.

WASHINGTON.—The chief advisers of the President tonight are of the opinion that diplomatic relations with Germany will be severed unless Berlin recedes and gives new assurances to safeguard the lives of Americans in the maritime war zones. President Wilson put in a full day wrestling with the problems presented by the combination of the German proclamation of ruthless warfare and of his threat to break diplomatic intercourse with Berlin if Germany should fail to observe the rules of maritime warfare he enunciated. After a two hour session of the cabinet, a two hour talk with Senator Stone, and an exchange of views with sixteen Democratic senators, the President retired to his study with three courses of action under consideration. These are: Immediate severance of diplomatic relations with Berlin by recalling Ambassador Gerard and handing passports to Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador postponement of action until an overt act is committed, such as the sinking of an American ship or any merchant man carrying Americans; or transmission to Berlin of the ultimatum prepared yesterday warning Germany that if it carries out the announced program of ruthless warfare the United States will be compelled to break diplomatic relations. One development today served to give a more optimistic tinge to the situation. This was the announcement by Count von Bernstorff that he has been authorized by his government to arrange for the passage of any American passenger ship, without contraband, through the lane of safety to Falmouth prescribed for one ship a week of the American line in Germany's new orders to its submarine commanders.

WASHINGTON.—That Japan is taking advantage of the menace of war between the United States and Germany to wrest concessions from the American government by threats thinly veiled in the opinion of many officials. The administration has been thrown into a state of excitement by the sudden action of Mr. Sato, the Japanese ambassador, in presenting an insistent request that steps be taken to prevent the enactment of alien land legislation by the Oregon and Idaho legislatures. Mr. Wilson issued instructions to placate the Japanese government by all means in the power of the administration. The leaders in the Idaho legislature consented to kill the bill, which already has passed the lower house of the state legislature, dispatches from Boise said. It was learned that the Oregon leaders have agreed to delay action on the bill pending decision of the present international trouble.

LONDON.—The food ministry has issued a public appeal to the nation to limit the consumption of bread to four pounds, of meat to two and one-half pounds, and of sugar to three-quarters of a pound weekly, per head. The food controller says that after consideration of available stocks and the probable need of future supplies, the situation requires that heads of families should endeavor to limit household consumption to this basis.

WAR SUMMARY. — Berlin reports the repulse of British attacks at several points on the French front. Paris says German efforts in Belgium failed. Petrograd reports that German troops were driven out of trenches they entered near Brzezany. Artillery engagements are reported at almost all points on the Italian front. Quiet prevailed on the other war fronts.

CROMWELL, Ia.—At least five and probably more persons were killed here last night when passenger train No. 12, Chicago bound, on the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railway was derailed and rolled down a forty foot embankment. A broken rail in a switch, due to the extreme cold, it is thought, caused the accident. Five passenger coaches were derailed.

RAILROAD VS. AUTOMOBILE.

Chicago, Jan. 30.—The leading editorial in the morning TRIBUNE of Jan. 21, 1933, is a direct attack upon railroad companies and their management because of their archaic equipment and methods of operation and their alleged failure to develop, as their competitors have done, improved methods and machinery for transportation.

If we admit for the sake of the argument [though I would not otherwise admit it] that the assertions of the editorial are true, the following questions will immediately present themselves:

Whose is the fault and where should the blame be placed?

Should the blame be vested not on the railroads but on a paternalistic, ill administered government?

For the last forty years the railroads have been subjected to government regulation and management, growing more and more oppressive almost with each successive year.

Railroads have been taxed to furnish cheap facilities for their competitors.

Whenever their earnings have seemed unreasonably high to demagogic politicians their revenues have been diminished by a compulsory reduction in rates.

The hours of work of their employés have been prescribed by law and the rate of wages has by law been made almost static.

By reason of the foregoing facts and by reason of the further fact that such so-called excess profits, if any, as do result from improvement in efficiency and service are immediately seized by government and called "recapture," does it not follow that they have been deprived of substantially every incentive which influences business men to improve service and introduce economies?

Comparison in the editorial is made between railroad and automobile development. But suppose, for example, the General Motors company had been taxed to furnish better facilities to its competitors to enable such competitors to compete more successfully with it.

Suppose whenever, as the result of economy, efficiency, and invention, it had been enabled to lower costs and increase profits, such profits had been immediately destroyed by government through a statutory reduction of its prices.

Suppose that, notwithstanding such statutory interference with its earnings, it had in any particular year or years made a profit in excess of 5 per cent, it had been subjected to the penalties of an absurd "recapture clause."

Suppose the hours of work of its laborers had been regulated by law and the wages which they received had been made almost impossible of adjustment to changed economic conditions.

In other words, suppose that the General Motors company, its officials, and its board of directors had found themselves in such a rigid legal vise that incentive was destroyed and ambition was dulled, what do you think would have become of the automobile industry?

RALPH M. SHAW.

MAYBE THEY'LL SUE US.

Chicago, Jan. 23.—Your recent article about 1400 Sheridan road and the Shoreland hotel I hope is the opening gun in a campaign which you intend to wage against the exorbitant legal charges being made by attorneys, receivers and masters in chancery, etc., in the many foreclosures now pending.

I hope you intend to uncover all of the muck. But dare you?

THE TRIBUNE has the guts; is, in fact, the only paper in Chicago that could successfully remove the smug righteousness of some of the honored members of the bar, and show the greed beneath. But, dare you do this because the firm of attorneys representing you also has its feet in the trough? Probably already you have been told to soft pedal.

E. FLANNERY.

A PARADE OF THE TAX CONSCIOUS.

Chicago, Feb. 1.—Here is an idea suggested by the recent French taxpayers' demonstrations and the spontaneous "preparedness parades" of 1915 [or was it 1916]: Why not a "taxpayers' parade"? First Sunday afternoon in April, when people are usually tax conscious. No floats, no autos, no music—just taxpayers afoot, men and women, ward by ward, town by town. Only by some such dramatic demonstration can public sentiment be aroused and tax relief secured. Half the people love to parade and the other half to watch. Let's take advantage of this instinct to give the politicians a real picture of public sentiment. It can be done and you can do it.

There is a civic or business men's association in every district which will take hold under your leadership and coördination, and the idea may spread and soon have a state and national influence as well as local. ROBERT H. MURRAY.

THE JOHNSTON MYERS RELIEF.

Chicago, Feb. 1.—Our reports show that we have given away over 160,000 good, substantial meals during the month of January. The cost per meal has not been more than 3½ cents. Our support comes as you know entirely from the voluntary gifts of the people.

JOHNSTON MYERS.

MORE TO COME.

Davenport, Ia., Jan. 22.—Please permit me to express my appreciation of your color reproductions of paintings in this morning's TRIBUNE. The color reproduction seems to me to be the acme of perfection.

I studied the Cossack picture for at least twenty minutes before turning to Mr. Bennett's article. Never having seen the original, I feel that you have added to my education, especially as I have been much interested in the Cossack history of that period.

THE SENATORIAL SCANDAL SHEET.

Chicago, Jan. 29.—Recently a United States senator, in a radio speech, said that high taxes, after all, was the fault of the people, with increasing demands upon the government. This, to a certain extent, may be true, but he overlooks the 470 million dollar underground garage built by and for the use of senators and without the approval of the taxpayer. To this may be added the $8,000 per year tonsorial bill, the luxurious lounging rooms—and probably much more that we know nothing about—by and for the senators and without the approval of Mr. Taxpayer. I wonder how far one of these senators would get in private business if he conducted it in such fashion.

AUTO LEADERS JOIN CAMPAIGN TO CURB THEFTS

Legislative Program Gets Their Indorsement.

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Automobiles stolen, 80; recovered, 57; stripped, 13 (from police records for twenty-four hours ending at midnight Wednesday).

Court cases—Edward Mondrowski, and Leo Hachacz, burglary of a garage; Sheldon O'Neil, Norbert Hurry, Joseph Kazha, and John Huggins, larceny of automobiles, held to the grand jury; Edward Crossen, 6 months in house of correction for tampering with a car, before Judge Harold O'Connell. Charles Lewis and William Hanzal, larceny of automobiles, held to the grand jury; Sam Richman, tampering with an automobile, 6 months probation, before Judge John Gutknecht.

BY HAL FOUST.

As the 33d National Automobile show was approaching its final curtain on Saturday night, a success in attendance and sales, leaders of the industry joined yesterday with the Chicago Motor club, Chicago crime commission and other civic agencies in a campaign for legislation to reduce car thefts.

Following weeks of work by Mayor Cermak, Gov. Horner, President Charles M. Hayes of the Motor club, H. T. Hollingshead, and Director Henry Barrett Chamberlin of the crime commission, an anti-theft bill is now ready for submission to the Illinois legislature.

"Illinois for years has been the dumping ground for cars stolen in other states as well as a harvest field for thieves operating here," said Mr. Hollingshead, president of the Chicago Nash Sales company, and a spokesman for Chicago dealers. "This has been so because we lacked the uniform certificate of title law.

"It has been easy for theft rings all over the middle west to dispose of stolen cars here because Illinois license plates can be obtained without any adequate check upon ownership. Innocent buyers have been victimized, unwittingly purchasing stolen property.

"Chicago motorists, even those fortunate enough to escape the thieves, have suffered by having to pay excessive insurance rates.

"The proposed anti-theft act, patterned after laws that have proved successful in Michigan, Indiana, Wisconsin, Missouri, and other states, provides for a system of accurate records of vehicle description and ownership. It provides for ready identification of every car operating in the state and thereby for the quick recovery of stolen cars. It would operate through the license bureau of the secretary of state's office.

"The law can be expected to reduce insurance rates by 30 per cent by curbing thefts and also to stabilize the used car market."

AUTO SHOW NOTES

Perhaps the most slammed doors at the motor show are those on a four door De Soto sedan which omits the conventional center pillars. Incidentally, Roy Peed, general sales manager, said yesterday that retail sales to date are greater than for the entire New York Automobile show.

N. C. Wolfe, president of Wolfe Bodies, Inc., said that his passenger car trailers, "Silver Domes," are being purchased by traveling salesmen to display their samples, as well as by tourists for camping out.

SCIENCE LEARNS TOBACCO CAUSES DISEASE OF LEGS

New York, Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Hypersensitiveness to tobacco on the part of a small percentage of the population was reported tonight as the principal cause of a certain disease of the blood vessels, technically known as thrombo-anglitis obliterans, at a symposium on "recent studies on the effects of tobacco in man," held at the New York Academy of Medicine.

The symposium was completed with discussions by Drs. Harlow Brooks, Robert H. Halsey, and Lewis A. Conner.

The disease is typified by a change in the blood vessels, usually those of the legs, which eventually leads to the dying off of the tissues and necessary amputation. It has been known for many years that it had some relation to tobacco, though its exact cause was unknown.

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Feb. 2.—(AP)—A plane flown by Pilot Robert Reeve, with Ole Hay of Nome and his wife and two children as passengers, was overdue two days tonight on a flight from McGrath to Kaltag, in western Alaska. Pilot Matt Nieminen cruised northward from McGrath today, but saw no signs of the plane. They had emergency food supplies and snowshoes aboard. The temperature was 10 below in that area today. The Hay family, old residents of Nome, was returning from Seattle and had taken the plane at Seward last Sunday.

GREAT RUSH FOR NEW "JOB LIST" AT WASHINGTON

Eager for Public Health Service Positions.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—The Democratic "job list," which is being sold by the government printing office at the rate of several thousand daily, for a price of 40 cents delivered anywhere in the United States, is being studied more assiduously by members of congress these days than any other publication in recent years.

The congressional interest, it seems, lies chiefly in one section of the book devoted to the public health service commissioned personnel; nearly all the comment one hears from representatives concerns that section. It shows the base rate of pay for public health service officers, the amount of longevity pay, rental and subsistence allowances.

Greedy Eyes on List.

Greedy eyes are cast over the list, and Democrats anticipate a veritable horde of applications when the next administration takes charge. And they must all come from responsible professional physicians and surgeons.

Here and there today a representative would admit that he had already received applications from "Ole Doc So-and-So, back home." The doctoring business "back home" is dull.

The reason for the interest is simple. The public health service is 134 years old, and since 1889 the personnel has been on a commissioned basis comparable to that of the army. Longevity pay is added to the base pay, and, in addition, officers are allowed rental and subsistence.

Stationed at Capital.

For instance, there are eight assistant surgeons general stationed in Washington. Their relative army rank is that of colonel, and the highest base pay is $4,000 a year; but to this is added $2,000 longevity pay, $820.40 rental allowance, and $379.60 for subsistence, a total of $7,200 per year.

A surgeon in Boston, whose army rating would be a major, is shown drawing base pay of $3,500; his longevity allowance is $1,750; rental, $1,296, and subsistence $569.40, a total yearly allowance of $7,115.40.

There are about 380 such positions throughout the country, and a few in foreign countries.

BONFILS, DENVER PUBLISHER, DIES OF AN INFECTION

Successful as Exponent of Personal Journalism.

Denver, Colo., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Frederick G. Bonfils, publisher of the Denver Post and one of the nation's remaining exponents of personal journalism, died at his home here today after an illness of one week. He was 72.

Attending physicians said complications resulting from an ear infection were responsible for his death. It is believed the poison from his ear worked its way into the brain and that he did not have sufficient resistance to throw off the toxic influence.

Bonfils died as he had lived—fighting. Physicians said he put all the tremendous energy which enabled him to develop the Post into one of the successful newspapers of the world into his fight against death.

Bought for $12,500.

Thirty-eight years ago Bonfils and the late Harry H. Tammen bought the Post for $12,500 when it was barely able to continue printing. Through their personal leadership the paper became outstanding in the entire west.

Bonfils was born in Troy, Mo., the son of Eugene Napoleon Bonfils and Henrietta Lewis Bonfils. His great-grandfather was born in Corsica and was said to have been a blood relative of Napoleon.

At the age of 16 he entered the United States Military academy at West Point, and while there met Belle Barton of Peekskill, N. Y., who later became his wife. He first entered business in Kansas City, Mo., later going to Oklahoma. In 1895, in Denver, he joined Tammen, who died in 1924. At one time they owned the Sells-Floto circus.

Had Creed of Fighter.

Bonfils was a fighter, who held the creed that a good fight lost was better than a poor fight won. Once he was shot by a man whose anger his paper had aroused.

Shortly before his death Bonfils was taken into the Catholic church by Father McMenamin of the Immaculate Conception cathedral here.

Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon. Surviving are two brothers, Thomas and Charles, the latter of the Post editorial staff; his widow, two daughters, Helen Bonfils and Mrs. May Berryman, and two sisters, Mrs. Etta Walker of Fort Humphreys, Va., and Mrs. Nellie Barber of Los Angeles.

Bonfils' fortune was estimated at from ten to forty million dollars.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—(AP)—The body of John Galsworthy, British novelist and playwright who died Tuesday at the age of 65, will be cremated tomorrow at Woking after a private ceremony. It was requested that there be no flowers, but friends who had intended to send floral offerings were asked to make a like contribution to the prince of Wales fund for the idle. Announcement will be made later regarding a memorial service for the 1932 Nobel prize winner.

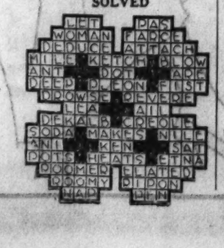
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



HAROLD TEEN—THE CONFERENCE IS OVER

BAR ACTS TO TAKE COURT ELECTIONS OUT OF POLITICS

Seeks Members' Support of 2 Changes.

The Chicago Bar association will poll its membership on two proposed legislative changes designed to eliminate politics in the selection of state and municipal court judges. The referendum is urged in a report of the organization's committee on candidates released yesterday.

Lawyers will vote on a proposition to place the names of all candidates for the bench on a nonpartisan ballot, and a proposal to hold all judicial elections on the first Monday in June. If the measures are supported by attorneys the legislature will be asked to amend existing laws. Leaders in the movement are confident the bar will indorse the program.

Politicians Pick Nominees.

Authors of the plan say the present system of election gives the voter nothing more than a choice between candidates presented by the party organizations. They defined the present system as appointive rather than elective, with the power of appointment in the hands of politicians who do not properly appraise the fitness and qualifications of candidates for judicial service.

Under the plan candidates would obtain places on the ballot by petitions instead of being selected by political leaders. It is suggested that the names of the candidates be rotated so that no candidate or group of candidates would have the first positions on all ballots.

At present all the judges of the Circuit court and one judge of the Superior court are elected at a separate judicial election in June. Other judges of the Superior court, the Municipal court, and the judge of the County and Probate courts are elected in November. The moving forward of these elections, the report said, would take judicial elections out of partisan contests for city, state and national offices and eliminate the frequent defeat of able judges when their parties are caught in landslides.

Bar Primary in Ten Days.

The committee, headed by Amos C. Miller, postponed consideration of methods of selecting a better judiciary through changes in the constitution, because but one article of the constitution can be amended at a time and amendments concerning revenue apportionment and other subjects are competing for priority.

The proposed changes will be placed on the ballot of the bar primary of judicial candidates. This primary is to be held within ten days. The association is to release shortly a study of the qualifications of the 20 Circuit and one Superior judge, whose terms expire soon.

MacChesney Fee Attacked at Stormy Hearing.

A petition to halt the sale of the 1400 Lake Shore Drive building in a foreclosure proceeding was denied yesterday by Circuit Judge Joseph Burke. The judge told a group of intervening bondholders who charged that the default of $3,724,000 in bonds, the foreclosure and the proposed sale were all part of a general scheme to defraud them, to present their objections when he issues a court order approving the sale which is to be held today.

During a stormy hearing preceding the judge's ruling, Attorney Alexander Wolf representing the bondholders, Miss Helen Sussman, 519 Aldine street, and Valeria Reich, charged that any foreclosure decree would be fraudulent and not binding since the conspiracy had been called to the attention of the court.

Attorney Wolf charged that the Chicago Title and Trust company as trustee had failed to protect the bondholders. He asserted that the building would never have been placed in foreclosure if the trustee had acted to collect outstanding debts owed the corporation. He alleged that exorbitant fees had been approved for Nathan William MacChesney, the trustee's attorney, and for the receiver, Chester Davis, trust officer for the corporation which is trustee.

$97,000 for MacChesney.

The fees amounting to $97,000 for MacChesney, $45,000 for Davis, and $10,000 for the trustee, have already been approved as a lien on the proceeds of the sale ahead of the claims of the bondholders, the lawyer added.

Attorney Wolf was seeking a court order restraining the master-in-chancery from holding the sale, and asking for the removal of the trustee and a reconsideration of the fees granted in the foreclosure action.

Opposing him in court yesterday was Charles E. McGuire, representing the chairman of the bondholders' committee who is MacChesney. With McguIre was Richard Condon, counsel for the tenant owner's protective committee for the building. McGuire asserted that the active bondholders' committee represented 96 per cent of the bondholders. He said that holders of $3,276,000 in bonds had deposited them with his committee and that the owners of an additional $300,000 worth of bonds were agreeable to the committee's plan of action.

Bill Owed by Agent.

Attorney Wolf replied that one debt owed to the building corporation by the Schiller Street Building association which acted as agent for more than half the building was enough to have paid off the $185,000 in default in November, 1930. He said that the building association had collected $136,000 in rents and had accumulated debts of $360,000 "for special assessments" from the building corporation.

"These circumstances alone were enough to have avoided the defaults," Attorney Wolf stated. "For over six months after the default the trustee, the title and trust company, did nothing until they came into court and filed this foreclosure bill. Then they charged a fee of $10,000—for doing nothing. They authorized MacChesney's fees of $97,000. They selected their own trust officer, Chester Davis, as receiver.

"Does he manage the building? No. He hires some one else, and then he sticks in a bill of $30,000. He is asking $15,000."

The lawyer charged that the bondholders' committee had sent out a letter telling their members that the foreclosure sale would occur some time in March. He charged that the committee was "lulling the bondholders into a sense of security while planning to bid in on the sale tomorrow."

Get Insurance Loan.

McGuire replied that when the letter was written it had appeared to the committee that it would be impossible to bid at the February sale. Since that time, he explained, an eastern insurance company had agreed to loan the committee funds with which to bid. He admitted that the committee planned to bid at the sale today.

Attorney Condon then declared that he had opposed the fees which were asked by the trustee, by MacChesney, and the receiver, but that the court had approved them over his objections.

Judge Burke ended the hearing by announcing that it would be improper to halt the sale. He said that the remedy for the bondholders was to file an objection to the court approval of the sale.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water oil laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C M Co

Miss Elizabeth M'Cormick Gives Illustrated Lecture on Costumes

Needlework and Textile Guild Enjoys Vivid Story of Hunting Relics in Europe.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THERE wasn't a more enthusiastic person in the audience yesterday at the Needlework and Textile Guild meeting at the Art institute than Robert Hall McCormick.

The only man in attendance, he came to hear his sister, Miss Elizabeth Day McCormick, tell an illustrated story about the personal effects of the French Kings Louis and the Italian Medicis she has gathered as the result of her extended residence abroad.

Miss McCormick, an officer of the Needlwork Guild, has spoken to the members before of the "sable," the "verre de Nevers," and the dresses and hats that she collects, but it was the unanimous opinion of all that she had never before given as brilliant or interesting a lecture as yesterday's.

She tied a Directoire bonnet over the smart black turban she was wearing and told how she had hunted it out in Marseilles. She wrapped a red brocade coat around her shoulders and then explained that it once belonged to a Venetian senator; and then she held up a pair of boots 300 years old that sold for $100 in Paris and were valued at $175 in New York.

Human Appeal in Old Costumes.

"It's the charm and human appeal," explained Miss McCormick with her usual enthusiasm when questioned about her hobby. "In every relic there seems to be a shadow of the former grandeur of the departed owner.

"There are many happy hunting grounds for these old costumes," she continued, "but Cannes is one of the best. The villagers there have revived one of their favorite old fêtes the last few years and have pulled out of their attics the dresses and cloaks their mothers and grandmothers once wore. There are a few who will part with them."

Most of the costumes that Miss McCormick used for exhibit yesterday afternoon are the result of her trip last year. Only a few weeks ago they arrived at the Art institute.

And now Miss McCormick is planning to leave Chicago again in March to search out even more of the personal belongings of ancient royalty.

"A perfectly splendid collection of English costumes is awaiting me in London," she told the members of the guild. "In 1928 when I joined Mrs. Chauncey B. Borland and Mrs. Potter Palmer in London they suggested that Robert Allerton might buy these costumes for the institute. I fairly lost my mind, for I wanted them so badly myself. They didn't know this. But fortunately Mr. Allerton decided they weren't old enough for him, so I bought them later at a terrific price. I'm paying for them in installments and when the last is paid they're coming over here to the institute. Depressions are hard on collectors, but they should be here next year."

Daughters Preside at Tea Tables.

Mrs. Borland, president of the guild, introduced Miss McCormick yesterday. Contrary to custom—daughters of the members wearing gardenias that were the gift of Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson Jr., presided at the tea table spread with a Portuguese cloth and Florentine candelabra brought back by Miss McCormick.

Miss Geraldine Swift and Miss Florence Crane poured tea first, then Miss Mary Reed and Miss Jean Schweppe, and still later Miss Eleanor McCormick and Miss Barbara Wendell.

In the audience were Mrs. Potter Palmer, smartly dressed in black; Mrs. Frank Hibbard, Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed, Mrs. Hubert Burnham wearing royal purple velvet, Mrs. Gustavus Swift, Mrs. Walter Ayer, sister of Miss McCormick; Miss Marie Rozet, Miss

A Job a Day

Every little improvement we give our home right now helps us—and the other fellow, too.

It is a practical way of safe guarding ones clothes, to give some particularly suitable closet a lining of aromatic cedar and in this way make it moth repellent. It is nice to have enough closets in the home, a place for everything and everything in its place, but it is still nicer having a closet in which moths do not care to linger. If you have such a piece of work done now you will have the closet all ready and waiting when you are ready in the spring to put away your heavy clothes and blankets. Be sure and have the doors of such a closet absolutely tight—the tighter the better.

Good Morning!

What's in a name? Plenty! At least plenty in the name of George Arliss to cause movie lovers to clap on their bonnets and hie them wherever his latest film is housed. They may not throw said bonnets into the air over the vehicle, but they're always ready to do it for the performer. Well, while "The King's Vacation" is by no means another "Disraeli," it is a program picture of charm and worth.

The king [of a mythical kingdom] is, of course, Mr. Arliss. He's a king who hates bloodshed and who, rather than face a revolution, abdicates his throne; an incurably democratic king who understands and sympathizes with those who would overthrow the royalists. An enjoyable scene is that in which he converses with the boy who has sent a bullet winging in his direction, and orders the youth's execution postponed indefinitely. I don't know the name of the young fellow who plays the revolutionist—but he's a swell actor, too. Marvelously mobile, sensitive face!

King Phillip and the woman who had been his queen for eighteen years decide that the former should go back to the wife and daughter who were his before a couple of deaths made him successor to the throne and politics decreed that he take to wife a woman of royal blood.

Naïvely imagining that gathering up the dropped stitches of the past will be easy and delightful, Philip returns to the scenes of other days. If you've ever attempted anything of the kind you know the hopelessness of such an andeavor. The discarded garments of long ago invariably fall to pieces in the fingers of the present. So——

Our hero finds his once sweet, domestic wife a social climber who has abandoned the cottage of his dreams for the palace of an ex-royalist; his little daughter grown and engaged to a young inventor who does not in the least please her ambitious mother and the life in which both move far and away more swank and complicated than was even that in the royal circles where the king had moved with such impatience and boredom.

Have you guessed where, at last, the ex-monarch finds rest for the head grown so weary of a crown and a lot of other things? If not, try!—bearing in mind that often the grass closest home is far, far greener than that lamped through the haze of distance and imaginings.

Mr. Arliss gives a characteristically suave, intuitive, balanced and beautifully humorous performance. Mrs. Arliss is utterly charming as Queen Wilhelmina. Marjorie Gateson is perfect as the wife of pre-king days, and all other rôles are played with intelligence. Able direction, smooth lines and nice staging contribute further to the picture's pleasurableness.

See you tomorrow!

The Trousers Question Gets Hearing Today

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Of course you've listened to the tirades about the trousered menace that are being freely offered by disconcerted males as well as protesting females, and if you are a compromising soul you'll probably decide to wear these trousers for your lounging hours and beach wear. For a while the trouser excitement rather lagged indoors as well as out of doors. Frilly feminine ladies welcomed hostess and tea gowns with much fervor . . . unchanging gals who valued comfort, smartness, and a certain swagger nonchalance, bought lounging pajamas every time they shopped. Some rebellious designer presented beach frocks, to replace the breezy, floppy beach pajamas and most of us will have a grand time trying out the skirt affairs versus the colorful pajamas that can start a riot on any beach.

However you feel about this subject, you will enjoy seeing some new lounging pajamas in one collection. They are glorified masculine affairs that should please the most capricious movie star. One Chicago shop has a collection of these smooth tailored silks that will make pajama history. Knockout looking numbers with swanky skin fitting trousers finished with a wide turned-up cuff and a fitted waistline without a single wrinkle. Two new blouse tops are available, a short sleeved tuck-in with matching colored silk frogs in the front and a small masculine turnover collar. The matching trousers have two small pockets plastered flat on each hip.

The other style blouse is a typical middy blouse, with long sleeves, a slipover model with the middy folded over the hips . . . the matching trousers button over the hips, sailor suit fashion, and are made slim and well tailored, with contrasting dark buttons to accent.

You can find the one piece pajamas made in the same simple manner with smoothly fitted hiplines and blouse tops with short or long sleeves. The colors and color combinations are stunning . . . particularly, the old gold silk trousers with a chartreuse green tinted blouse. Another color contrast that will make you gasp is a duet composed of sapphire blue trousers and a scarlet blouse or you can reverse the scheme and wear scarlet trousers with a blue blouse, or a gold blouse over apple green trousers.

These new pajamas are spectacular lounging models, but wait till you see them out on the beach or on the tennis courts. They are quite the best looking things the weary shopper has located in weeks.

In addition to the very alluring and modest price tags that flutter from the hangers, these pajamas are excellent buys because you can choose long enveloping masculine coats of the same silk crêpe . . . a practical purchase for the gal who travels, or needs an extra negligee.

You can select a matching color to exactly harmonize with your pajamas or you can find a contrasting color that is eye filling and infinitely good looking. The coats look like dressing gowns, have a wide tie sash, two good sized pockets and a rolling, long, slenderizing collar, and have the same reasonable price tags that you find on the pajamas.

Miss Narcissa Swift Will Edit New Liberal Journal

Miss Narcissa Swift, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alden B. Swift of 209 Lake Shore drive, is about to become an editor and publisher. Yesterday she revealed her plans for the publication of "Polity," a weekly journal of liberal opinion that is to make its appearance about March 20. Miss Swift is supported in her new literary effort by Arthur M. Barnhart and Nathaniel Samuels, both Harvard graduates and both students of politics. "We feel," Miss Swift said, "that there is need for a liberal journal, not radical, not socialist, not communistic, but one that will revitalize democracy."

Metropolitan Is in Crisis Over Finances.

New York, Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Reorganization of the Metropolitan Opera, with Chicago help and a split season between the cities, is being considered by the board of governors, it was revealed tonight.

Louis Eckstein, chief backer of Chicago's open air opera in Ravinia, who is also a director of the Metropolitan, is advocating the merger idea as a solution of financial difficulties which have brought a crisis in New York.

Mr. Eckstein, it is said, already has been in conference with Edward Ziegler, assistant general manager, and Earl Lewis, secretary of the Metropolitan. It is reported some progress has been made in this direction, although the directors are considering other plans, as well.

Some of the Metropolitan directors are understood to feel that the load is proving too much for New York alone to bear. With the collapse of opera in Chicago, following the crash of the Insull fortune, it is asserted here that the two cities might combine on a basis which would perpetuate opera on a sound basis.

The Metropolitan faces a deficit this season of $350,000, despite a 50 per cent cut in the budget. Tacit admission of the seriousness of the problem was made by Paul D. Cravath, chairman of the board of the Metropolitan Opera association. He refused, however, to discuss the difficulties and prospects in detail. Asked whether the company would be able to carry on another season, Mr. Cravath replied:

"I hope so, but I don't think I care to add anything to that statement."

Another plan would have the Metropolitan Opera association scrapped to make way for a small company, to be composed exclusively of American singers, who would emphasize the work of American composers and librettists.

ODD FELLOWS' CROSS

BY NANCY CABOT.

The "Odd Fellows Cross" probably was first stitched in a quilt block by the wife of a member of the brotherhood; that it was designed as an honor to the lodge cannot be denied. Whose wife created it and where she lived, however, still is a mystery to collectors and historians. The color scheme, of course, should be blue and white if your husband is a loyal Odd Fellow, though other combinations will make quite as attractive a quilt.

For a pattern of the "Odd Fellows Cross" design, send 5 cents in stamps or coin to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune; or call at Tribune Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street.

Novelty Gets First Hearing at Symphony

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Being about to leave for a brief midwinter vacation in Arizona, Mr. Stock is signalizing his last concerts with the Chicago Symphony by several notable deeds. One of these last night was the first performance of a novelty. Another was the revival of one of the most charming works of all those that have been written in the modern idiom.

The novelty is a piano concerto by Bernard Dieter of Chicago, in which Rudolph Reuter, also of Chicago, was last night, and will be again this afternoon, the soloist. In most respects it faithfully follows the modern trend. It is a considerably modified sonata-form in one movement with a slight pause in the middle.

A good part of it works out as a study in dissonances rather skillfully done, though much of its interest is a matter of workmanship rather than of rhapsodic invention. But it is not the only composition wherein the marks of construction are more evident than the outlines of the work. It is written for a virtuoso soloist, and Mr. Reuter acquitted himself admirably in its performance.

He made considerably more of an impression later in the program, chiefly because Liszt's Spanish Rhapsody, which appeared in the second half of the program, is considerably more tuneful a work. With Mr. Reuter's brilliant performance and Mr. Stock's unfailing sense of orchestral dance rhythms the performance was a good bit of a triumph.

The revival, to which reference was made above, was Jacques Ibert's "Escales," translated "Ports of Call." There are three in the course of the cruise—Palermo, Tunis-Nefta, and Valencia—each illustrated by a scene in tone of its own, each founded upon its own popular theme, and swinging from winsomeness to fervor and back again. Altogether it is a composition of great fascination.

The overture was Sinigaglia's "Le Baruffs Chiozzotte" and the symphony Dvorak's second, both pleasant observances if not rising to great heights. In Dvorak in particular there is an enormous difference between this symphony and the "New World" which he wrote later.

Arts and Industries Open Design Contest to Stimulate Trade

A project to stimulate business by new designs of products and packages was formulated yesterday with the announcement of a nation-wide contest by the Association of Arts and Industries. Artists and designers will compete for three cash prizes, as yet unannounced. The meeting was held in the offices of the Illinois Manufacturers' association. More than 200 companies of the middle west are cooperating in the plan.

According to Col. William Nelson Pelouze, president of the Association of Arts and Industries, the prizes will be awarded on practicability of manufacture and artistic standpoint. Twenty judges will be chosen, 10 of them architects and designers and 10 business men.

It was brought out at the meeting that many products lack an artistic appeal, especially to women. Products must also be artistically packaged, it was said. The competition will include designs of all manufactured products.

Besides Col. Pelouze, who acted as chairman of the meeting, others who attended are Thomas S. Hammond, George W. Rossetter, Alfred Decker, and Paul Schulze.

Finishes Twelve Years at One Studio.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 2.—Ramon Novarro, like John Gilbert, is winding up a long tenure as star at the MGM studio. Novarro's present film, "Man of the Nile," is the last of his contract. When it is completed the Mexican star will have finished 12 years under contract at one studio, one of the longest spans in Hollywood's history.

Novarro has completed arrangements to sing for two weeks at the Empire theater in Paris after his picture is completed. The Paris tour will be arranged for spring or early summer, whenever agreeable to the actor.

Novarro was a film find of Rex Ingram and Ferdinand Pinney Earle, and started his climb up the ladder of fame in 1922. At present he gets more fan mail than any other male actor on his lot, and has the greatest international popularity of all of them. His international popularity, lumping the returns from European and Latin-American countries with the United States, rates about as great as Garbo's—perhaps greater at this time, for Garbo's exclusiveness and months off the screen have begun to put her on the declining curve.

James Cagney, movie star, who went on two "one man strikes" for upward adjustment of his salary at Warner Brothers', today voluntarily took a reduction in his salary under his new five year contract, according to announcement from the studio When Cagney made his newest wage agreement at the studio he was raised from $1,400 to $1,750 a week.

Lois Weber, one of the three women who attained success as film directors—the other two being Dorothy Arzner, now busy at Paramount, and Dorothy Davenport (Mrs. Wallace Reid)—is returning to active film work in a new capacity. She has been engaged by Universal to interview and test eligible actresses. Miss Weber is known as the "discoverer" of Ella Hall, Mary Mackiarin, Cleo Ridgeley, Claire Windsor, and Billie Dove.

Miss Weber is the canny person who gave Claire Windsor her professional name when the blonde beauty, then a newcomer, tried to crash the gates under the name of Ola Cronk. Once an actress in New York, Miss Weber entered films in 1912 and worked at the old Gaumont studio. One of the films she directed was Pavlowa's "Blind Girl."

She married Capt. Harry Gantz in 1926, when her personal fortune from her movie earnings and Hollywood real estate ventures had ascended near the million mark, and retired from pictures until her return from a recent world cruise. Universal hopes to profit by her ability to pick out promising talent for new stars.

Ginger Rogers has joined the growing corps of former contract players who are moving with the flow and ebb of production around the independent studios. She and Lyle Talbot are playing leads in M. H. Hoffman's "A Shriek in the Night."

TAFFY PULLING CONTEST QUIETS NOISY HOUSEHOLD

Try It When Children Are Too Energetic.

BY BETTY BROWNING.

Now is the time for all good aunts to come to the aid of the younger generation. Dark, chilly winter afternoons have a way of passing very slowly, especially on days when there is no school. By this time probably the last of the Christmas games have lost their novelty and there doesn't seem to be a single exciting thing left to do.

Or perhaps the things which the children think up to do by themselves are a little too exciting—like the "nutty, nutty camping party" invented by four 9 year olds who on rainy afternoons literally moved camp from floor to floor, taking up furniture and carrying it along or turning it over as they went, shrieking the while at the top of their lungs.

Where Good Aunt Comes In.

Such an outlet for youthful energies, while it may be psychologically wholesome, is a bit too hard on the mother of the family. At a time like this the good aunt should drop in, collect the boys and girls, herd them into the kitchen, and get them started at pulling taffy.

Fudge making has relieved the strain of many an afternoon indoors, of course, but it cannot be compared with pulling taffy. Not that fudge is to be belittled, for that simple formula, "two cups of sugar, one cup of milk, two squares of chocolate, butter the size of an egg," may have produced fudge harder than Plymouth rock upon occasion, but never because the young cooks in quest of creamy fudge did not beat it sufficiently to leave them agreeably exhausted by the process.

Taffy Consumes Energy.

But the energy consumed in beating fudge is as nothing to the energy required to pull taffy. Even the most persistent tomboys will not banker to move furniture after a round of taffy pulling. And another advantage taffy has over fudge: they work so hard making it that they are not so apt to eat too much of it.

Taffy pulling under a good aunt's supervision should begin with the assembling of 2 cups of sugar, 2 cups of molasses, 1 cup of boiling water, 2 tablespoons of vinegar, and 2 teaspoons of butter.

These ingredients should be poured into a pan and stirred until the sugar is dissolved, then boiled to 250 degrees Fahrenheit. Meanwhile a shallow pan has been greased and into this the mixture is poured and left to cool. As soon as it can be handled the pulling begins and keeps on until the taffy is white. If the children become proficient enough at it, let them add nuts during the pulling as an added touch.

More Than 40 Kinds of Fresh Vegetables on Markets Here

Residents of New York City report pride in the fact that markets supply "about forty different kinds of fresh vegetables in the winter months." Chicago housewives can return this challenge with the answer that markets here have available more than forty different kinds of fresh vegetables, as well as an array of roots and herbs widely used for seasonings and garnishing.

Every section of the United States is represented in the offerings of the green grocers. Two kinds of lettuce, leaf and head lettuce, come from northern hothouses and southern fields, respectively. New turnips and fresh turnip greens are from the southlands, while less colorful but equally as palatable northern grown turnips of 1932 vintage can be purchased.

Potatoes from west, the east, counties to the north, and states to the south all vie for prices in the Chicago wholesale and retail food centers. Sweet potatoes from several states owe their low price to a plentiful supply rather than to any lack of quality. Onions both dry and green furnish food to taste and taste to foods.

At the head of the alphabetical list are artichokes and asparagus, beans, green and yellow wax; beets, broccoli, and Brussel sprouts. Next are cabbage from home grown supplies of last fall and from more recently harvested fields in the south, carrots, cauliflower, collards, celery, chicory, corn, and cucumbers; escarolem eggplant, dried horseradish, garlic, and green leeks.

Lima beans and peas either shelled or in the pod have almost become a winter staple, along with southern grown green and red peppers. Radishes at a price that once was low for midsummer have put color and zest on Chicago tables for winter meals. And rhubarb is no longer a spring delicacy but has already appeared this winter from hothouse growths.

From last year's crops, still well kept and welcome, merchants can offer appetite appeasers in the form of rutabagas, squash, and turnips, and Louisiana grown shallots shipped here in barrels, crates, and bunches. Spinach and tomatoes round out a list of available vegetables that rivals what one can ordinarily purchase in the flush of home grown produce marketing.

RICE IS NOTED COSMOPOLITE OF GRAIN FAMILY

Favorite Dish from Rio to Rangoon.

BY IRENE STEYSKAL.

Maize, wheat, barley, rye—almost any of its brothers, sisters, or cousins—may lay claim to the homely and more sterling cereal virtues, but for the roguish pranks it may play on the world's amateur cooks rice is indisputably the grain family's cosmopolite.

And none of your supercilious globe trotters is this wayfarer of democracy. Unrestrained by national prejudices, it takes on local flavor with an amazing alacrity in every port from Shanghai to Oporto, from Rio to Rangoon.

Golden Finger of Dawn.

When dawn lays pale gold fingers on porcelain pagodas and drops glints of copper on the Jade canal, let you breakfast in Peking sometime, to the click of chopsticks, on tea and rice and mild young bamboo shoots. And sometime, when adobe walls are white with moonlight, betake you to Juarez—to that café where dark eyes flash and red heels tap to the mad rhythms of guitars and castanets, where your dinner is a fiery dish of rice mejicano.

Between your breakfast rice and dinner rice truly a world lies—a world of difference.

Rice in Ireland.

Just what forms the cereal takes in the isle of shamrocks we are not prepared to say. But if the dessert that one of her blue eyed daughters makes with half a cup of rice and a bit of Irish alchemy is a criterion it is there that we would like to go for lunch. "Frozen rice" the dish is called, and it is made in this manner:

Cook one-half cup of carefully washed rice in a cup of water until the water is completely absorbed. Place the rice in a double boiler with a pint of milk and cook for one hour. Then add one cup of sugar, one teaspoon of vanilla, one teaspoon of salt, and a package of gelatin, which has been soaking for an hour in one-half cup of water. (Use only one of the two small packages which usually come in a carton of gelatin.) When this mixture has cooled fold in a pint of whipped cream. Place in a mold—preferably one with a funnel, or tube, center.

Must Remain on Ice.

Frozen rice must remain on ice or in the mechanical refrigerator at least four hours before serving. When ready to serve unmold and fill the centre hole with strawberry jam or crushed pineapple.

If small individual molds are used crushed pineapple or fresh strawberries may be poured over each serving.

Chuck Roast, Round Steak at Low Prices

FLAVOR OF WILD RICE APPEALS TO TRUE GOURMET

Particularly Tempting with Game.

Economical tips for week-end food shoppers—a Saturday morning radio feature—will be presented weekly by Miss Meade over station W-G-N. Tune in at 9:45 tomorrow for Miss Meade's market chat.

BY MARY MEADE.

Among all the roaring wheels and whirring turbines of modern America one remarkable industry goes steadily on in the lakes of Minnesota, as it has for hundreds, perhaps thousands, of years with calm disregard for efficiency and quiet disdain for competitors.

Yet wild rice, the product of this unique un-Americanized industry, after all, is perhaps more American than all the turbines and wheels stacked together. For many, many autumns before white men came, red men and women were harvesting this "good berry" with rush mats and birch bark baskets, and were finding it good with their wild meats.

Today in these same northern Minnesota rice fields the many times great-grandchildren of the first curious harvesters go happily forth each fall to attend to the threshing. And today, just as in olden times, feasting, dancing, and ceremonials of thanksgiving are held. From miles around each September, when the wild rice grains begin to ripen in the Minnesota lakes, Indian families can be found on the trail to their favorite waters, there to pitch wigwams on the shore and gather their thanksgiving feasts.

There is one difference, though. Nowadays they are harvesting for more than themselves. For today there is an increasing demand for wild rice for use in homes, hotels, and clubs, but since the harvest is so delicate and can be gathered only in poled boats with the aid of sticks to draw the rice over the boat bottom and others to strike off the lazy kernels, wild rice probably never will be as abundant as its oriental brother. But to the true gourmet the joys of steaming brown rice in happy combination with game, oysters, steak, or a score of other tongue tickling viands are well worth waiting and paying for.

Good Game Stuffing.

The first thought of but always alluring wild rice favorite is game stuffing. First cook the rice in the usual way—wash thoroughly, boil in salted water twenty-five minutes or until tender, then steam till dry. For game stuffing use the following recipe:

WILD RICE STUFFING FOR GAME
- 4 cups cold cooked wild rice
- 3 tablespoons melted butter
- ¼ teaspoon minced onion
- 2-3 teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon sage
- ½ teaspoon thyme
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper

Blend the ingredients and pile into the cavity of any wild game. Stitch the openings and roast as usual.

STEAK AND WILD RICE
- 2 pounds round steak
- 2 tablespoons flour
- Salt and pepper
- 3 tablespoons fat
- ½ cup tomato juice
- 4 tablespoons minced onion
- 2 cups cooked, seasoned wild rice
- 4 tablespoons minced parsley

Wipe the meat and pound thoroughly with the edge of a thick plate. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and dredge with flour. Pound again and season and flour once more. Now brown the onion in the fat, add the two tablespoons of flour. Stir in slowly one-half of the tomato juice and add salt and pepper to taste. Add the rice and the minced parsley and spread the dressing over the steak. Roll it up and fasten with skewers. Sear in a hot oven (450 degrees F.), then add the remaining tomato juice and bake in a slow oven (325 degrees F.) until tender—about two hours.

WILD RICE CROQUETTES

Wild rice croquettes are something else to provide meals with variety. Use two cups of cooked, salted rice and add one tablespoon of butter, one-quarter teaspoon white pepper, one-half teaspoon celery salt, and one-half teaspoon onion juice. Blend carefully and form into croquettes. Dip in crumbs, egg and crumbs again, and fry in deep fat (380 degrees F.) until golden brown.

PEPPERS STUFFED WITH WILD RICE

This luncheon trick is quickly done. Cut off the stem end and remove the seeds from the peppers. Season the rice and blend with half the amount of sweetbreads or other chopped meat. Add a little stock or gravy if desired and place the mixture into the peppers. Bake in a pan in which there is a little hot water. Use moderate oven (350 degrees F.) and bake till the peppers are tender.

O, FOR THE GOOD OLD MAPLE SIRUP OUR FATHERS HAD Lost Somewhere in the Shuffle of Time.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

Lost in the woods, or shuffle, somewhere, is our old time, cheery, delicious wintertime, yes and summertime, unadulterated maple sirup. Something like the same might be said for its adjunct, the wholesome maple sugar that used to so enticingly melt in the mouth of youth, the middle aged, and the aged.

On the store shelves today stand the best sellers in maple sirup brands. The imagination expands as one reads the fanciful names the manufacturers have given them. One is mentally transported to the forest scenes pictured. One can almost hear the crunching snow as the bobsled, drawn by a team of horses, slowly moves through the maple grove, stopping here and there at the various troughs to gather the sap. Or perhaps happy children are prancing around a rosy fire, over which there is hung a large kettle and in which the gathered sap is being slowly boiled down to thick, luscious maple sirup. And that's the real stuff the farmer's family gets.

But what do we get, we who live off the shelves of grocery stores? Fancy labeled bottles or cans [some of the containers themselves are quite fancy enough, for tin work] give us a maple sirup or sap, pure enough undoubtedly, made up of about, for most brands, 75 per cent cane sirup and 25 per cent maple sirup. The labels so state.

Anyhow this is the maple sirup which tops off the butter on our pancakes and our savory waffles these mornings. We get along with it as best we can, and if the appetite is particularly zestful we call it good stuff, letting imagination for some of us supply the mind with what our sense of taste fails to find.

WE CAN THANK SWISS FOR MANY OF OUR CHEESES

There is an almost infinite variety of cheese and Switzerland can lay claim to being the originator of a goodly number. The makers of Swiss cheese have shown great consideration for all palates. Flavors range from a light, creamy concoction that would be regarded as a tid-bit by the most delicate appetite, to the hardier types, whose presence is made known in no unmistakable fashion.

American makers of cheese have happily adopted the methods of their foreign contemporaries insofar as excellence of texture and flavor are concerned, but have left the manufacture of the more aromatic varieties to the originators in Switzerland, Germany and the Netherlands.

FOREIGN DIETS COMPARED WITH PLAIN AMERICAN

BY JEAN GUTHRIE.

It isn't the food but how it is prepared that indicates the racial group to which the cook belongs. This is the conclusion reached in an interesting study made recently by the Infant Welfare Society of Chicago, in which dietaries of certain foreign groups were compared with plain American meals.

The results show that the amounts of fruit, vegetables, cereals, milk and cheese, meat and fish and legumes eaten by these foreign groups correspond quite closely to the quantities eaten by American families. In fact many of the foods are identical with ours and take on the foreign accent only through the way they are prepared.

Beets in Soup.

For instance, beets are a common American vegetable, but they seem to be much less familiar when made into soup with meat stock and sour cream.

Macaroni and spaghetti are familiar to every American but the daily inclusion of macaroni in the diet and the use of many varieties of macaroni put an emphasis on it that is not found in a strictly American diet.

Navy beans are used by Americans in much the same way as pinto beans are used by Mexicans, lentils by Italians and split peas by Poles and southern Negroes.

Large quantities of greens are eaten by southern Negroes; escarolle and endive are served by Italians; and cabbage sprouts, mustard and turnip greens are used by Negroes. Greens in the Italian and Negro diet enjoy a position that cannot be claimed by spinach in the American diet.

Some Interesting Menus.

Menus and recipes recorded by families during this study are most interesting. For example:

When analyzed by nutritionists, these dietaries reveal two interesting facts: First, the diets of other races living in Chicago are as good, if not better, than an American diet in providing adequate nourishment, and second, that on the food allowance provided by the Emergency Relief commission, it is possible for housewives to supply the foods that meet the nutritional needs of their families, and at the same time to prepare them in the ways most popular with their individual nationalities.

FOOD SHOPPERS ARE REMINDED OF LOW ONION PRICES

Food specialists are reminding shoppers that onion prices, high last year because of a shortage, are exceedingly low at present.

Onions are valuable because of their mineral content and because they contain vitamins B, C and G, particularly in the raw vegetable. Many dishes are flavored with onions. The principal onion dishes are well known in addition to use of the onion in soups, sauces, stews and stuffing.

Other suggestions include onions and apples fried together, onions and tomatoes stewed together, onions stuffed and baked, onion soups, creamed onions, onions boiled and buttered, steak and onions, French fried onions or onions baked into a tomato sauce.

SEA FOOD SEASON IS HERE; MANY TEMPTING DISHES

BY PHYLLIS HAMMOND.

From now until March they will tempt us, succulent inhabitants of salt and fresh water as we pass their ice packed temporary domiciles of glass show cases. Here we view crustaceans of high degree, King Lobster sprawling his bulk and feebly waving huge pincers in his dying struggles; Sir Oyster, guarding zealously his "inners" beneath a musty shell of indeterminate color; and multiple courtiers [crabs to you] milling slowly among this mêlée.

We are familiar with most of these personages, having met them most intimately upon china platters. A distant cousin with a shelly exterior, but having a meat somewhat like a white fish is the scallop, entirely boneless and about three and one-half inches in maximum diameter.

Only the Muscle Is Eaten.

Only the muscle of the scallop, used for opening the shell, is eaten, the remainder being very soft and considered unfit for food. Another variety of this fish is the "giant," "sea," or "smooth" scallop, which grows to many times the ordinary size of a scallop. It makes an equally good Friday meal, but because of its scarcity is rather hard to purchase in most fish stores.

The scallop is at its best when dipped in egg, rolled in bread or cracker crumbs and fried. It also may be baked, but the real enjoyment of this food comes when it is served with a spicy sauce, preferably tartar.

Tartar Sauce.

For the making of a smooth tartar sauce use one cup of thick white sauce and one cup of mayonnaise, blended. Add one tablespoon of each of the following, chopped: Capers, gherkins, parsley, olive, and chive. Keep cold until ready to serve.

Cocktail sauce is also a popular accompaniment for oysters and scallops. In order to have it as strong or mild as you please, make your own with the following standard recipe: Two tablespoons of catsup, one teaspoon of grated horse radish, cayenne pepper, and a pinch of salt.

Household Hints

Cheese should be cooked at a low temperature. A high heat hardens the protein in it and makes it hard to digest and unpleasant to eat.

Whole wheat flour has value because it is rich in such food substances as iron, phosphorus, and vitamin B.

An important rule for economical buying is to know what foods are graded and what each grade represents. A housewife can tell little about the quality of eggs by looking at them, but much about the quality if she knows the grade.

POTATOES MAKE A SAVORY DISH WITH TOMATOES

- 1¼ quarts sliced potatoes
- 2 to 3 onions sliced
- About 2 cups strained tomato
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 2 tablespoons butter or bacon fat

Peel and slice the potatoes. Put a layer of potatoes in a greased baking dish. Add the onion and a sprinkle of salt, pepper, and flour; repeat for each layer. Add the tomatoes until they can be seen through the top layer. Dot with butter or bacon fat, cover the dish, and bake for 1½ hours or until done.

This recipe with whole wheat bread and butter, cabbage salad, brown sugar pudding, and milk for the children is described as a well balanced, adequate meal.

Zippy ZESTFULNESS

that's the flavor of Florida tangerines

• And the peel comes off like a glove!

FLORIDA tangerines are different — a real adventure in flavor and fun. One twist of the thumb and the peel is off. The fruit segments are as distinct as the petals of a rose — remove them one at a time, each is a mouthful of delicious delight. And Florida tangerines have all the healthful qualities of Florida oranges and Florida grapefruit. Children love to peel them — love to eat them for the same tangy, tantalizing goodness you enjoy. There's a holiday spirit in Florida tangerines — eat them and see! Don't wait — the whole family can enjoy them at today's prices.

HALT THE FLU!

Florida oranges and Florida grapefruit have an alkaline reaction — and this helps prevent colds and flu. Drink the juice three times a day — it's Nature's most glorious cocktail of health. For economy and juice, buy the small Florida oranges.

Ask for FLORIDA ORANGES • GRAPEFRUIT • TANGERINES

Here's the secret of A sunny disposition

LOOK around at your friends. Isn't it a fact that those who are happy and cheerful are folks who enjoy good health? The two go together.

Poor health reflects itself in your manner to other people. Too often, lack of personality can be traced to constipation. It may cause loss of appetite and energy. Yet it can be overcome by eating a delicious cereal.

Laboratory tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to further aid regularity. The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. ALL-BRAN also contains twice as much blood-building iron as an equal weight of beef liver.

Special cooking, flavoring and krumbling processes make Kellogg's ALL-BRAN finer, softer, more palatable. You will find it far more pleasant to enjoy a cereal in place of taking patent medicines. So much wiser too.

Two tablespoonfuls daily of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN will overcome most types of constipation. If not relieved this way, see your doctor. In the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

"When you're healthy, you're happy"

"How you feel — and how well you look — depends largely upon the food you eat. Be sure your diet is balanced — with sufficient 'bulk' to promote regularity."

FOLLY ISLAND

By Wallace Irwin

SYNOPSIS.

Bart Burgess is marooned in a catboat on Peconic bay, fifty miles from his Long Island home in Wyattville. His companion, Insalls Frederick Warren, spoiled child of a new-made fortune, known as "Nosey Ingy," rows to town for a carpenter. A girl in a canoe invites Bart over to her family's island, but her small brother says their mother would have a fit. Bart senses a family secret. Ingy sends help and taxies home. Bart learns that the Bayleys have lived on the island fifteen years, but don't mix. The father travels. He invites the girl, Alice, to visit him in Wyattville. Less than a week later Trevor Burgess, Bart's father, dies suddenly from a heart attack. Bart is left with the care of his invalid mother. The family lawyer gives Bart a letter left for him by his father, in which he confesses to being a bigamist. The Bayleys of Folly island are his second family. They know him as Matthew Bayley. He asks Bart, for his mother's sake, to guard the secret and leaves a fortune to provide for the Bayleys. Bart calls on Mrs. Bayley, posing as a lawyer, and finds her a lovely woman, not the harridan he expected. He returns two weeks later with the legacy. Bart is happy to learn from her mother that Alice isn't Matthew Bayley's daughter. But to keep her from visiting his home and seeing his father's pictures is now a problem. Lora Sackett, a distant relative and recent divorcée, drops in on Bart frequently.

INSTALLMENT XVII.

A YOUNG PRISONER.

"Bart, you like Lora a lot, don't you?"

"O, mother, she's all right." He recalled the short, snatched kiss this afternoon. Did he like it?

"I think she's setting her cap for you."

"What would you do if she got me?"

She considered the challenge. "The Linds are excellent people. Henry Lind was related to the Fairfields and Edith is my second cousin."

So like mother, sweet old dear. Unsmilingly he contemplated her. By all the rules Lora Sackett was a lady. Her slang, her tendency to dress like a model, her taste in cocktails were all blameable to Lieutenant Commander Bob Sackett, an officer but no gentleman. An alliance with the Burgesses would purify her and the Burgesses would be improved by more Fairfield and Wainwright blood. And over on Folly island a beautiful, wild young thing, unidentified in Wyattville, must take whoever came along and be grateful.

"Marry poor little Lora and reform her," said Bart.

"No," decided his mother, "I didn't mean that. Of course, I know she has picked up a lot of common habits from some of those frightful people who have come here lately. Like those Warrens." Cringing inside her pretty black dress. Then, as if to conclude an argument, "Maybe you'll meet somebody you'll like better."

"Plenty of time," said Bart.

"But you ought to settle down," she decided.

Settle down. How much farther down could he settle than here at home, steeped in the Burgess habit of mind? To marry Lora, of course, wouldn't be quite that. It was hard to imagine settling down with Lora.

When it was mother's time for bed he took her to her door. His good-night kiss was a little ashamed. He had to make up such elaborate excuses. Tomorrow would be Saturday and he didn't see how he'd help much, he said, hanging around with Aunt Augusta and the little dog Hero. Why shouldn't he stay over in New York, dine quietly at the Brook club, take in a show? If the town amused him he mightn't come back until late Sunday.

"Do try to be home for dinner, dear," she urged. "We must dine early because Mr. Prendergast has to get away in time for evening services."

Yes, Bart promised, he'd be prompt. And how he dreaded another dinner with Mr. Prendergast's milk and water jokes. But Mrs. Burgess was satisfied with her son's compliance. And how could he have told her what was weighing down on him like a cope of lead and what he was really intending to do with his Saturday? For tomorrow he was going back to Folly island.

Following the tangled course of the inlet that morning he crossed the bows of the eelboat anchored off Folly island. Capt. Hen Love was dropping his cratelike traps into the sea, but he stopped his work and raised his hand in a sort of Fascist salute. Bart saw him in a flash, his little face wrinkled impishly, so very, very knowing. Something like a wink slanted from one of his puckery eyes.

That was Capt. Hen, always lurking somewhere offshore, always knowing a lot of things, if he'd tell. Ships could sail, tugs go tooting by, but Hen Love remained floating, floating, a watcher over Folly island.

It seemed an idle task today, guarding the Bayley family. The boys were home from school—the bang of a shotgun somewhere over the hill proclaimed it. Then they all came trooping down to meet Bart, the boys and Alice; her skirt blowing around her straight, vigorous legs, she was a picture of renewed life, and the sight of her should have made him happy. But he could never quite get used to the look of them all, glad of his return. He always saw his father coming up the beach like this. They used to have a celebration when he returned.

"We've been shooting starlings," reported Teddy, shouldering his father's gun. He had a Burgess look just then, but faint, indefinite.

"I'll say they are," reported Ben, aiming a broom handle at a bush across the cove. "Bang!" Another redskin bit the dust.

"Come on up and help us shoot 'em," invited Teddy.

"O, give Mr. Burgess a chance to breathe," said Alice. Her dimple showed again. The boys went scampering away, chasing after starlings, perhaps, or wild geese.

"I'm glad you're going to stay over," said Alice. She was looking at the small bag he carried.

"Well, that's an idea." He had brought the bag hoping that they would ask him. "Matter of fact, I tucked in a toothbrush and a suit of pajamas so I could stop overnight in New York. I don't want to descend on your mother like this——"

"O, it's the very thing she wants." Her face was so animated and she was making no effort to conceal how much she liked to have him there. Her smiles were dancing again. He remembered what she had said: Daddy wouldn't like her to be sad.

"Well, we'll approach your mother tactfully," he grinned. "And I've got a lot of other things besides pajamas in this bag."

"What, for instance?"

"Pages out of architectural magazines, for instance. And I wangled some plans from an architect I know—they've been published, so he doesn't care.

"For the house, you mean?" She was very stiff now, pulling against him.

"Why, yes. Your mother asked——"

"I'll never like that house," she said tensely, "if it's made of—of gold and precious stones——"

"Alice, you're being very foolish." This was ridiculous. Here only a few minutes and already quarreling. But he softened it with a smile, "I'm going to try my best to make you like it."

"But I don't see why. It's not your house. You're not even selling it."

If he could have told her. Adorable girl, this is why. I must do all I can to keep you a prisoner here. Because you mustn't go to Wyattville and learn about my father. And you mustn't kill my mother with the knowledge of what you might know.

Wife Entitled to Evening Off, Judge Declares

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Judge Vivian Frank Gable, in Domestic Relations court, passed the judgment on a 44 year old Philadelphia wife, the mother, incidentally, of nine children. Some of these children, grown daughters, with the mother are members of a neighborhood bridge club at one of whose weekly functions the offense of staying out late was committed.

"Everything went well at home," the husband testified, "until my wife joined this women's club. She went out every Thursday night and sometimes didn't get home until 3 a. m."

The court took a hand. "A married woman has a right to some recreation, provided it is of the proper sort," the judge imposed. "I see nothing wrong with a bridge club one night a week."

The "good old days" when you caught your woman young, bowed her down with large family producing responsibilities and treated her like a prisoner surely are gone forever. The wonder is that more of the husband jailers aren't hailed before the court on charges of failure to provide a bit of recreation! It's amazing how many women still exist in this emancipated country of ours whose husbands resent the idea of recreation for them. They seem to feel they've done enough for them in providing a roof.

Yet, no woman living, no matter how touchingly sweet her disposition naturally, can survive a recreationless life without antagonism. These same husbands, consistently enough with their selfish point of view, feel the need of recreation for themselves. They have to have outside contact vacations, a certain amount of freedom of movement to carry on their work. And they manage to get it, from reports submitted to me by the justly aggrieved women.

While staying out nights until 3 a. m. isn't the ideal management of recreational hours, still the judge is right in granting immunity in the case. Our hope is that women do not take this letter of the law too literally, as there are many bridge fans at the moment against whom husbands have a justifiable complaint of neglect of duty.

Needle Guild Enjoys Talk on Costumes

This is the night when all sorts of oddly assorted celebrities will fraternize and make merry together, for this is Adlai E. Stevenson's birthday and it is in celebration of that that he and his wife are giving a costume party at the residence of her mother, Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, 1020 Lake Shore drive.

They have invited about forty of their friends for dinner and about fifty more to come in for dancing later. Those not invited to the Stevensons' dinner will dine as the guests of the Louis C. Sudlers, or the junior Carroll H. Sudlers, or Miss Margaret Hambleton, or Joseph C. Belden Jr., for all these young people are giving dinner parties before the dance.

Innocents to Meet Tonight

The Innocents, who met regularly once every fortnight during the first year of this French speaking organization that was founded by Count Ferry de Fontnouvelle, former French consul in Chicago and now consul general in New York, and less frequently but fairly often during the second year, and who this year haven't assembled at all so far, will meet tonight at the residence of the Warren C. Fairbanks, 1500 Lake Shore drive, with Miss Cornelia Fairbanks as hostess.

It undoubtedly will be an Italian as well as a French soirée tonight, for Miss Fairbanks' sister, Countess Edith Visconti and her husband, Count Ruggero Visconti de Modrone, are still here visiting the Fairbanks and will be at the party tonight, and so will the Italian consul, Dr. Castruccio.

Among others of the twenty Innocents who will be there are Robert Hall McCormick, the president; Mr. and Mrs. Eames MacVeagh, Mrs. Edward L. Hersey, and Paul Van Woolf. The Viscontis' plans are indefinite and they are undecided whether they will return to Italy or go to California to join Count Emanuele Barromeo, who went west after a visit in Chicago shortly after the first of the year.

An exhibition of the Gardner Hale Memorial paintings and water colors and paintings by Henry Billings will be opened today at the Arts club with a tea from 4 to 6 o'clock. In the absence of Mrs. Potter Palmer, Mrs. Robert R. McCormick will head the receiving line and assisting her will be Mrs. Clyde M. Carr, Mrs. Wayne Chatfield-Taylor, Mrs. Charles S. Dewey, Mrs. John H. Winterbotham, Mrs. Charles R. Lindsay Jr., Mrs. George A. Ranney, Mrs. Charles Worcester, Mrs. A. F. Callahan, Miss Lucy Hartrath, Mrs. John A. Holabird, Miss Jean Crawford Adams, and Mrs. Louise K. Boysen.

Lighthouse Aids to Plan Party

The Lighthouse Volunteer aids—that group of girls interested in the unfortunates at the Lighthouse for the Blind—are meeting at 11:30 o'clock this morning at the Drake hotel to talk about plans for their annual spring party.

Mary Hastings Bradley has promised to give one of her brilliant lectures on Africa at 7 o'clock next Tuesday evening at the Lighthouse. The aids are in charge of the plans for this affair.

Mrs. Lawrence W. Scudder evidently anticipates that her husband, the Lake Forest ping pong champion, will reach the finals or at least the semi-finals in the Illinois state ping pong tournament which opens today at the La Salle hotel, for she has planned a dinner party for tomorrow night to precede the final matches.

Battelle Wedding to Be Feb. 11

Miss Emily Chester Battelle, whose engagement to Douglas Seymour Offutt was announced just after Christmas, is going to be married very quietly Saturday, Feb. 11, in her mother's Ambassador East apartment, with just the immediate families present.

The ceremony will be performed in the morning and the bride will wear a traveling suit. Immediately afterwards the couple will leave by motor for a six weeks' wedding trip to New York, Florida, and Havana. Miss Battelle is the daughter of Mrs. Albert Chester Battelle; Mr. Offutt is the son of Mrs. Ellwood Offutt.

One of the gay parties in Lake Forest tomorrow night will be the Caxy carnival and dance to be given by the boys at Lake Forest academy with "Andy" Rebori Jr. as their general chairman.

Yesterday young Mr. Rebori reported that the school gymnasium is being fitted up to resemble an old fashioned street carnival including all sorts of side shows—magicians, sword swallowers, and fat ladies. The Caxy, in case you don't know, is the north shore prep school's year book and the proceeds from the party are to help in the publication next June of a very special number in celebration of the academy's diamond jubilee.

Members of the floor committee are George A. Strom Jr. of Lake Forest, George B. Dunbar and William S. Mole of Wheaton, and Thomas H. Smithies, Frederick Asher, and Thomas H. Kelley Jr., all of whom live in town.

Debutantes Will Give Cradle Program

The third of the series of Wednesday morning musicals being given at the Cradle in Evanston for the benefit of the home for babies waiting adoption will be given next week by the Misses Ethel Dixon and Edna Doering, society's best known "blues" singers.

An "S. R. O." sign was needed for this week's affair and the committee in charge anticipates that it will be put to use again next week when these two popular debutantes are the artistes. After the musicals a delicious buffet luncheon is served.

Many of Winnetka's socialites are Episcopalians, so whenever the women's guild and auxiliary of Christ church in that north shore town gives an affair it is sure to be a noteworthy event. Just now the women are busy with plans for a radio ball they will give on Tuesday, Feb. 14, in the parish house at which a number of radio stars will be present to provide entertainment. Mrs. Ralph Sargent and Hill Blackett are in charge of arrangements. Mr. and Mrs. William B. McIlvaine, the Rev. and Mrs. E. Ashley Gerhard, Victor Elting, and Mr. and Mrs. Sargent will receive the night of the ball.

Thursday, Oct. 19, is the date chosen for the seventh annual fashion show for the benefit of the woman's board of St. Luke's hospital. The show will be given at the Stevens hotel. Mrs. John W. Gary is president of the board.

C. P. Andrews to Drive South

Charles Prentiss Andrews is leaving today to drive Bernard F. Rogers Sr. to Florida in the latter's car. Mr. Andrews plans to be away a couple of weeks, but Mr. Rogers will stay longer in the south. Mrs. Andrews is living in Baltimore now, but whether it is a permanent or a temporary separation their friends are not sure.

Mrs. Knowlton L. Ames and her youngest son, who had the flu pretty badly, have gone to Nassau to remain until the weather at home is warm and settled.

Mrs. John W. Valentine arrived at home yesterday from ten days in New York with Mrs. Robert S. Pirie and Mrs. Herbert P. McLaughlin. Mrs. Pirie and Mrs. McLaughlin will return tomorrow.

Miss Mary Helene Day, headmistress of the Mary C. Wheeler school at Providence, will arrive tomorrow for a week's stay at the Fortnightly club. She is to be here for a tea the alumnæ and friends of the school will give at the Fortnightly next Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. John D. C. Towne of New York, who lived in Chicago until a few years ago, has been back here for two weeks and is staying at the Churchill. She is making a quiet visit and will be here a month longer.

Mrs. Vincent Healy, who has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Farley Hopkins on their citrus ranch near Phoenix while recovering from influenza, is expected home the end of this week.

Mrs. Rene Georges Le Brosi, who with Mr. Le Brosi has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Julius T. Benedict, has left to spend six weeks in Florida. Mr. and Mrs. Le Brosi are planning to make their home in Chicago for at least six months and they may decide to settle here.

Invite Mortar Board to Tea

Members of the Mortar Board have received invitations to a musical and tea next Wednesday at the residence of Mrs. Edward Roach of Highland Park. The Mortar Board, by the way, should not be confused with the national honorary society, Pi Sigma Alpha, sometimes called by the same name. The one of which we are writing is a one hundred per cent product of the University of Chicago, founded there in 1894. Mrs. Harold Ickes of Winnetka, the former Anna Hawes Wilmarth, was one of its ten charter members. Other Mortar Boarders belonging to the north shore unit are Mrs. Willoughby Walling, Mrs. Howard L. Willett, Mrs. George Lytton, Mrs. James A. Cathcart, and her sister, Mrs. Wesley M. Dixon; Mrs. Luther H. Barber and Mrs. Edward P. Farwell.

Well known patrons of art and foreign consuls in Chicago are invited to tea at 3 o'clock Sunday at the International Guild galleries, 660 North Michigan avenue, for the purpose of discussing plans for the promotion of creative art interest. Among those who have accepted invitations are Mrs. Frank G. Logan, Charles W. Hubbard, Mrs. Wentworth P. MacKenzie, Italian Consul General Guiseppe Castruccio, and Polish Consul General Tytus Zbyszewski.

Members of the Country club of Evanston and their guests will be entertained tonight by the presentation of a one man show by the author, Ottis Lucas. The title of the show is "The Light."

For the next three Tuesday mornings at 10:30 o'clock Mrs. Lyman M. Drake of 933 Lake avenue, Wilmette, is opening her home for a series of three lectures given by Mrs. Catherine C. Ferguson, traveler and lecturer. The first talk will be "Historic Gardens," the second, "Beauty in the Balkans," and the last, "Mediterranean Lands."

Sixteen of society's "literati" are patrons and patronesses for the series of six current literature lectures to be given by Llewellyn Jones on Saturday mornings at the Hotel Sherman. Among them are Margaret Ayer Barnes, Mary Hastings Bradley, Janet Ayer Fairbank, Marion Strobel Mitchell, Harriet Monroe, and Mrs. William S. Monroe. The first lecture will be at 11 o'clock tomorrow.

Engaged

MISS HELEN BARBARA KATZ.

Mrs. Henry Katz of 2048 Humboldt boulevard announces the engagement of her daughter, Helen Barbara, to Raphael Fine, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Fine of 506 Roscoe street.

Sponsor Opera

Mrs. Wilton B. Martin is a member of the executive committee of the Woman's board of the Presbyterian hospital which is sponsoring a benefit for the hospital at the Auditorium theater on Feb. 22 and 24, when Jeritza and Thomas will sing "Tosca."

The occasion marks the fiftieth anniversary of the hospital and it is the first benefit entertainment for the hospital that has been given in twenty-five years.

Some of those who have taken boxes for one of the performances are Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, Mrs. Alfred T. Carton, Mrs. C. Frederick Childs, Mrs. Albert B. Dick, Mrs. William W. Dixon, Mrs. Ernest A. Hamill, Mrs. William K. Kenly, Mrs. Edward W. Pardridge, Mrs. R. Douglas Stuart, Mrs. Robert McDougal, Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine, Mrs. Ezra J. Warner, and Mrs. Moses J. Wentworth.

Eyebrow Brush Is Handy Little Beauty Tool

It's Needed on the Dressing Table.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Have you a little eyebrow brush on your dressing table?

Funny how few women have. They're inexpensive little implements and they are grand little eyebrow and eyelash beautifying aids.

Unconsciously we do no end of damage to those eyebrows of ours by leaving powder cluttering them up. We know right well we couldn't clutter the hair on our scalps with powder particles. We'd start a scalp trouble in no time. It's to get such substance from getting down into the scalp that we brush our hair. We brush the hair to clean the scalp, to give the hair sprouting therefrom a chance to grow out luxuriously. We could do as much for our eyebrows and lashes with daily brushing.

We have become pretty fastidious about the dressing and the condition of the hair under our hats. So let's let the good work extend to the brows and lashes. Groom them with the handy little eyebrow brush. Use it after every face cleansing and powdering job. Don't encourage that none too elegant habit of wetting a finger tip and glossing it over the eyebrows.

Brush your eyebrows up in a perpendicular row first. This for the same reason the well brushed head of today is brushed up from the roots in handfulls. It starts circulation to lift the hair up this way. And brush the eyelashes! Brush them up if you want to start them on a curled career.

After you've cleaned the roots and standing hairs of the brows with the dry brush, dip it in castor oil and trim the whole line into a shapely arch. Brush the lashes, too, with the oil dipped brush. This will make them grow, if anything will. The pure castor oil will stimulate the growth of both brows and lashes.

You know, a trick that can be used with the castor oil when you get through the eyebrow and lash brushing is to dip a finger tip in it and rub this over the lid, giving an extra touch to the lashes. It gives that fresh, moist, young look that is one of the great charms of a child's eye.

MINUTE MYSTERY CAN YOU SOLVE IT?

BY H. A. RIDLEY

[Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Dr. Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by police of many cities when confronted with particularly baffling cases. This problem has been taken from his case-book covering hundreds of criminal investigations.

Try your wits on it! It takes but ONE MINUTE to read! Every fact and every clew necessary to its solution are in the story itself—and there is only one answer. How good a detective are you?

THE SEER SOLVES HIS MURDER.

A shabby, nondescript, single-breasted brown sport coat lay on the floor. The room was ransacked; papers thrown about. In the dead man's hand was clutched a button which he had snatched from the coat, leaving a ragged hole in the left side. Haroun Bey, famed Indian mystic, had undoubtedly made a grab for his assailant before he had been shot. Then the murderer, probably interrupted while searching the room, had hastily departed, forgetting the coat. Such, at least, were Prof. Fordney's deductions. Had the murderer found what he was looking for? If so, what was it?

Three people were known to have been to the seer's home that evening.

7:30—Socially prominent Ida Pettinelli, who it was learned had a score to settle with Bey because he had revealed to her husband a zealously guarded secret.

8:45—Attorney James Ross, whose name had been mentioned as the next governor. Bey had written him threatening to make public an incident that would ruin his career.

9:10—Ira Hogan. Upon the the advice of Bey he had invested heavily in a crooked scheme, backed by the mystic, losing all. Now a pauper, his health and spirit broken, he had sworn vengeance.

All three refused the police any information whatsoever, disclaiming any knowledge of the murder. Bey was alive at 7:30, the time of his first appointment. The paper concerning Ross was missing.

Without hesitancy Prof. Fordney told Inspector Kelley which of the three to arrest.

WHO WAS IT? WHY?

The "Provincial" Moves to London Flat.

BY ARTHUR MEEKER JR.

All England and America, a year ago, were chuckling over Miss Delafield's "Diary of a Provincial Lady." The author's most enthusiastic admirers agreed that she had never done anything better in the realm of pure comedy than that inimitable chronicle of the daily trials and tribulations—and almost daily triumphs over them—of a charming young Englishwoman who lived in the rural depths of Devonshire. Robert, her husband; Robin and Vicky, her children; Mademoiselle, her emotional governess; Lady B., her condescending neighbor, and a score of other droll and lifelike characters, not forgetting the Provincial Lady herself, have become household words in thousands of homes; and the delighted amusement with which the book was received was by no means lessened by the knowledge that it was largely autobiographical.

E. M. DELAFIELD.

Now she has written a sequel to it, "The Provincial Lady in London," and great will be the rejoicing amongst the countless readers here and abroad to whom a winter without a "new Delafield" would be the direst of literary calamities.

Sequels are dangerous things. Novels, like parties and quarrels and really successful love affairs, should be unique. You simply can't repeat the trick—and expect the memory of the first performance to remain green and sweet. Miss Delafield, however, is apparently the happy exception that proves the rule. If there is one characteristic of her lighter work more striking than another, it is that rare quality all humorous writers should pray on their knees they might be blessed with—were it not the only one impossible to acquire—spontaneity. Not once in the three hundred odd pages of her latest book does it desert her.

From the first entry, when the heroine announces that "life takes on entirely new aspect, owing to astonishing and unprecedented success of minute and unpretentious literary effort, published last December, and—incredibly—written by myself"—This, of course, refers to the original "Diary"—to the last, where she informs her laconic husband that she would like to go to America and take her diary with her [O, how I hope she will!], the comedy is kept rolling along at an unflagging pace.

This second volume is even more frankly autobiographical than its predecessor. Its author speaks more boldly and almost, as it were, in her own name. The Provincial Lady has become a celebrity, and Devonshire is no longer large enough to contain her. She takes a flat in London and explores fashionable Mayfair as well as the artistic circles of Bloomsbury with a keenly discerning eye. She attends a literary congress in Brussels and meets delegates from many nations. She spends a fortnight with her family at a bathing beach in Brittany, where it rains a good deal, and the water is very cold and the casino is as depressingly lifeless as continental casinos invariably are.

Against these varied backgrounds she remains her shy, satirical, delicately witty and distinguished self. Exquisitely alive to the absurdities and inconsistencies of her friends, she is no less conscious of her own. In fact, if there were a fault to be found with this most irresistible of companions, it would be that she fails to appreciate her own attractions. She frequently insists that she has been a failure at parties which one cannot help feeling were graced by her very presence. I can imagine no guest more universally welcome than the Provincial Lady.

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS. — [Special.] — Schiaparelli made a foolish little hat this winter which has become the most famous French hat of the year, and which you have seen in the states. This knitted cap flowered out right on top in petal like folds, above a stocking cap lower. Every woman who saw it wanted it, and now the spring hats in Paris millinery salons are following its lead and flowering on top. The two hats shown today will give you the idea of what I mean better than words can.

At the top of the sketch you can see a reproduction of a Reboux cap made of woolen material, which has a narrow turned up brim all around, and the round crown of which flowers on top into a narow turned out frill the middle of which is filled in with loops of the material to look like the center of a flower. This is the smartest practical hat to be seen in Paris.

Below is a dressy hat in the same flowering top silhouette, which comes from Esther Meyer. This hat is made of shiny satin, and on top it flares into three petallike folds that are held down in front by a diamond arrow. There is a narrow standup brim at the sides, which ends in a point on the forehead.

One Live Baby Puts Many a Theory to Rout

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: Having taken two or three courses in child training, read several books about it, and taught school, I thought I knew a little about bringing up a child. I soon found out when I had one of my own that practice is different from theory, and every day some problem comes up and I wonder if I am doing the right thing.

"Will you plrsdr drnf mr yout bookdryd on . . . . I'll have to write that over because I was looking at the baby trying to reach my scissors. Will you send me your booklet on 'Don't Touch.'"

There is nothing like an enterprising baby to take all the conceit out of the best informed, best read "theoretical" brand of new mother.

I sometimes think one baby is worth more in training a mother than a dozen courses in psychology and a five foot shelf of books on the subject. At least, any mother will tell you there are some subjects no book covers.

But, on second thought, I will admit that a baby and a book together make a pretty good training school. And by "book" I mean any reading on the subject that goes hand in hand with the daily care of a child.

Perhaps that is why in some of the progressive high schools certain grades are "adopting" babies so that the students' theoretical training on the subject is paralleled by the actual care of the child. At least, it will result in girls not graduating from school with the idea that they know it all!

For those mothers who feel that reading will fill the gaps in management they feel conscious of there are many suggestions we have put into leaflet form.

SURVEY SHOWS HOW MILWAUKEE GETS 6 CENT MILK

Labor, Dairy Costs Keep Chicago Price Up.

BY PAUL POTTER.

The cost of distributing and processing milk in Chicago is chiefly responsible for keeping the retail milk price at 9 cents a quart in the metropolitan area compared with a price of 6 cents a quart, which is paid by most Milwaukee consumers, according to a survey made public last night.

The survey disclosed that farmers supplying the Chicago market are paid only a fraction of 1 cent a quart more than farmers producing milk for Milwaukee. Differences in the system of collecting and distributing the milk together with labor costs, were found to account for most of the 3 cents a quart variation in the two cities.

Transportation Costs Higher.

Factors which influenced the greater costs in Chicago were found to include lower volume of sales units per delivery route, higher labor costs per unit of sale, higher transportation costs for milk from farm to city milk plant, and greater labor costs in processing.

In both markets rigid health requirements are enforced, both on producing farms and in handling the milk from country to city doorstep. Likewise, in both markets some artificial regulations are operating to maintain farmers' prices on a basis whereby they can meet the higher producing costs required under the health regulations.

As a result of a milk price war in Milwaukee last fall, when retail prices dropped to 4 cents a quart, the Wisconsin department of agriculture and markets fixed an arbitrary price that the farmers must be paid. In November, following an opinion of the attorney general that the state held such powers, these prices were set at $1.60 per hundred pounds (46½ quarts) for milk retailed as such and $1 per hundredweight for "surplus" used in other dairy products.

In Chicago, the artificial measures helping to maintain a farmer's price were found in the survey to include the refusal of the city health department to inspect any new farms since last June, the contract between dairy companies and the Pure Milk association which is used to keep out "cut rate" milk, and the contracts between the dairy companies and labor unions.

The 18,000 dairy farmers who sold milk in the Chicago area during December, 1932, averaged $1.28 per hundred pounds, net, for their base and surplus milk. From this came the cost of hauling the milk to a country cooling plant and shipping platform. Milwaukee farmers pay the cost of cooling and delivering their milk to the city pasteurizing and bottling plants.

A comparison of the operating costs in a large Chicago dairy company with those of a large Milwaukee company yesterday showed that the average delivery wagon in Milwaukee carried 22 to 25 per cent more sales units daily. Officials of the Chicago Milk Wagon Drivers' union said this is due to insistence by Chicago housewives that milk be delivered in the morning and that more miles were covered by the average wagon and by most drivers on foot than in Milwaukee.

The average 6 day week wage of drivers in the Chicago company is about $42.75 in salary and commissions. In the Milwaukee company the pay is about $29 per week. The difference in labor costs for plant operations in the two companies was almost as great.

SUN BATHERS ASK MORE FREEDOM ON MIAMI BEACH

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—The Chicago colony at Miami Beach today arose in arms and joined 500 other winter tourists from 85 cities and 22 states in a battle with the mayor and the city council for freedom in bathing attire.

Action followed recent arrests for what police termed "indecency in bathing apparel." The men discarded the tops of their suits and wore trunks only. The women dropped their straps. So the police chose to interfere.

Five hundred tourists held a meeting, signed a lengthy petition, and presented it to Mayor Frank Katzentine, requesting the city to strike out the ordinance which restricted freedom on the beaches.

Mayor Katzentine replied he was forced to carry out the city laws, but would recommend to the city council a method by which those who demanded further exposure might have their wishes gratified. Certain sections of the beach probably will be set aside for the sun bathers.

Citizenship of Convicted Harding Official Restored

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—President Hoover today restored the citizenship of Thomas W. Miller, who was alien property custodian in the Harding administration. Mr. Miller served a sentence in the Atlanta penitentiary for the misuse of government funds. While he was paroled after six months of an 18 months' sentence, his citizenship had not been restored until today's action.

TONIGHT'S GAME.
8:15 p. m.—Cochran vs. Layton.

BY FRENCH LANE.

After many years of endeavor a balkline billiard champion has mastered the art of making three cushion shots.

Welker Cochran of San Francisco, Cal., has done it, and after he had beaten the record smasher, Jay Bozeman, 50 to 40, last night, he needed but one victory to enable him to carry away the world's three cushion championship.

Cochran tackles Johnny Layton for that precious victory tonight. If he wins he steps from the balkline title ranks to the champion of the three cushion wizards of the world. If he loses, he will drop into a tie with Layton and in that event he will play it off with Layton on Monday night for the throne just vacated by Augie Kieckhefer of Chicago.

Thus Layton has to beat Cochran twice to keep the three cushion crown in the ranks of the old war horses of three cushion billiards. Cochran can win one game and become the new king, so it wasn't any wonder that he became the overwhelming favorite to capture the title after he had squelched the courageous but not quite finished Bozeman to win by the rather comfortable margin of 10 points in 41 innings.

'Twould Be Something New.

If he reaches the title Cochran will have skipped successfully over the path on which Willie Hoppe and young Jake Schaefer, two of the most noted balkline stars of all time, stumbled and fell by the wayside. Schaefer tried it a year ago and was swamped by the masters of three cushions. Hoppe tried it twice some years ago, and both times reached the finals, only to be beaten by the same red haired bulldoggish Layton whom Cochran will find standing in his title path tonight.

When Cochran turned Bozeman over his knee and gave him the spanking it was the seventh triumph he had scored in eight starts. He caught Bozeman after the California boy had shattered a couple of tournament records 24 hours earlier and who opened up this latest fight with a run of seven before Cochran got up out of his chair.

That run of seven seemed to have been Bozeman's last punch. He went scoreless in the next eight innings while Cochran followed Bozeman's run with a cluster of five in his half of the inning, came back with three more in the second round and made two more in the third to take a 10 to 7 lead. He was leading, 19 to 9, in the tenth and it began to look as if Bozeman had cracked completely.

Jay Refuses to Give Up.

Bozeman fought back, however, and when he scored a billiard in the first half of the 34th ining he took a 32 to 25 lead.

The crowd, which was pulling for Bozeman, put on the noisiest demonstration of the tournament.

Cochran apparently wasn't even worried about Bozeman's rally. He came right back and tied it up at 35 each in his half of the inning and the first shot made in that round was the most dazzling of the match. It was a hard cross table shot.

Bozeman had played safe, leaving the red ball and his cue ball at the foot of the table about two feet apart, the red one near the center of the diamond and the white near the spot. Cochran's cue ball was near the center of the head rail. He drew from the white ball to the left side rail, his ball skimmed across the table to the right side rail near the corner and went to the end rail to come back and score on the red ball.

That Staggers the Kid.

The shot had the effect of a slap in the face to Bozeman. He staggered to his chair when Cochran made it. The other three cushion wizards draped around the ringside stroked their faces, shook their heads and came to the conclusion that such a shot wasn't even in the three cushion book of rules.

Mr. Cochran apparently had discovered a new shot. He went on after that to win easily from the groggy Bozeman. He made 8 in the 35th inning and was leading, 45 to 38. He made 4 more in the 40th and his count was 49 to Bozeman's 38.

Score by innings:

BIG TEN BASKETBALL.

THE Wake sat down with paper and pencil to "dope" this Big Ten basketball race which starts its second half tomorrow night with unbeaten Ohio State at Minnesota. After a couple of hours' figuring, considering results to date, we could arrive at a three way tie between Ohio State, Michigan, and Northwestern, with ten victories and two defeats each.

DR. W. E. MEANWELL.

Yet when we looked at the totals of all teams, the result was not so convincing, for lo and behold we had placed Minnesota with one victory and eleven defeats, whereas the Gophers, in advance, had been picked as one of the contenders. Surely the Gophers will do better than that.

Other problems are how Ohio State will fare on the road, its unbeaten record so far being on the home floor; the real strength of Iowa which played well against Wisconsin and beat Purdue on the latter's floor, yet showed poorly against weak Chicago; Illinois' great defensive strength which beat Northwestern once and nearly again, yet was not as effective as expected against Ohio State, and so on and so on.

Ohio State must lose at least two games or it will run away with the title. It does not meet Northwestern nor Michigan, which looks good for the first division. It could lose to Purdue at Lafayette and Illinois at Champaign without much violence to dope. If the Hawkeyes become "hot," the Buckeyes might drop a game at Iowa City.

Northwestern to attain 10-2 must win all its games except against Purdue at Lafayette. The question marks are at Madison and the final contest at Minneapolis. Michigan has five of its remaining seven games on its home floor. Defeat at Lafayette is not unlikely. Wisconsin, despite its cyclonic start, has not particularly impressed by its scores, but Dr. Meanwell's teams usually improve. If those big fellows get to clicking, they are dangerous. Our figures of 6-6 for Wisconsin was another factor which caused us to doubt our reckoning.

With all these doubts and ifs, it looks as if this race will not be determined until possibly the final games. On the other hand, argument will cease early if Ohio State shows as well away from home as at Columbus. So after these qualifications you're welcome to take a peek at our final figures and then please forget them:

CLEARING HOUSE SEEKS HONORS IN GOLDEN GLOVES

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Eighteen boys from the Clearing House for Men, which is operated under the Illinois Federal Relief commission, have entered the Golden Gloves tournament. They will compete in the west side trials which start a week from Monday at Guyon's Paradise, Crawford and West End avenues.

Some of the boys from the Clearing House tried their luck in the Golden Gloves a year ago. Several reached the final sectional bouts. This year G. F. Price, director of special activities, predicts that several of his boxers will place high in the novice class. The entries follow:

Flyweight—J. Uriquidi and Joseph Lunnudi. Bantamweight—Earl Mandell, James McDonald, C. Patrick. Featherweight—Arthur Greer. Lightweight—Rudolph Ferdandez, Jacob Goodman, Filbert Rodriguez, and Joseph Mays. Welterweight—James Fields, Walter Martinez, Harry Saragrain, C. Crain. Middlewight—Jimmones Anatalio, William Smith. Light heavyweight — Fred Johnson, Lou Damphier.

Patrick Krend, 1809 West Huron street, is one of the 126 pounders who thinks he will finish with a gold medal for winning the novice championship. Patrick is so sure he'll whip the Chicago novices [he'll start his campaign in the west section trials] that he inclosed a snapshot of himself in fighting togs, which he said was intended for "your convenience in publication after I win the featherweight championship."

Arrangements have been completed for the erection of the ring at Guyon's Paradise. Showers also have been installed. Keeping a Golden Gloves tournament moving on schedule requires a corps of experienced helpers. The public, of course, sees the work of the judges and referees, but it does not realize the work necessary behind the scenes to keep the show going. The same "wrecking crew" which has contributed to the success of all THE TRIBUNE'S sports promotionals will be on hand this year.

The referees and judges, all leaders in their field, are sanctioned by the Illinois athletic commission and the central association of the A. A. U. Their names will be announced later.

Entries for the west section trials, both in the Open and Novice divisions of the tournament, will close next Monday. Entries for the Far South trials at the State theater in Roseland, 110th and State streets, which is a new section this year, will close Feb. 9, a week before the show opens. All boxers must get their entries in before the closing dates. None will be accepted later. This is necessary

BASEBALL! THERE'S ONLY SPORT BARGAIN

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—I wonder if this is a private argument which has been going on about the troubles of baseball or if any one can get in. If it's open I would like to strut my own idea that the baseball magnates produce the best dollar's worth of sporting entertainment to be had in the United States. Not only is the price of admission cheaper but the conditions of weather usually are much more pleasant at baseball than at football, and the game itself makes much better looking at—and what do you think of that?

In fact I am beginning to admit privately that football, with its jerky play, its constant time out, and its mysterious confusion of rules which even the players themselves do not always fully understand, would be the great American bore if it were not for the luscious little co-eds, the rackety-rax, and the preposterous young clowns who lead the bands.

Moreover—and the right minded element will not agree to this at all—disorderly conditions are commonly tolerated at football games, even at the best schools, where young and old soaks go lurching through the crowds, falling all over the ladies and making all around pests of themselves which would bring the ushers and the house cops running with a battle cry of "yo heave" if they ever began to occur at a modern major league or high minor league ball park.

And furthermore, this football of ours which is spoken of so piously as the character builder and all that, is, next to amateur tennis, the most hypocritical game we have on the American register, a psalm singing, eye rolling, sanctimonious impostor which pretends to the character of a religion, almost, but is actually a large and important department of the show business and the worst man killer of all our games, except hunting. Well, if it is not the worst man killer, spare one, then name me a worse one and name me a sport that collects more money.

I do not think that baseball or any other sport is better off for being held up as an inspiration to the young or a lesson in the game of life. That idea came into circulation along with the nonsense about the ideals of the real estate pluggers who called themselves "associates" and "organizations" and were supposed to be in business solely for the altruistic purpost of elevating the American home and improving the breed of citizen.

But there was much less hard drinking and social hell raising in the scroll-saw houses of the previous generation than in the stucco and fake timber imitations with four baths and two car garages of the last decade.

Baseball is a pretty good sort of game, but some of the orneriest tricks you ever did see are common occurrences among the amateur teams, especially in the little towns where they mob the visiting athletes and break up the contest and steal their equipment if it looks as though they can't beat them playing ball.

In the professional league sharp practice is the ideal and I would not recommend the game as a lesson in the game of life unless you want your little boy to grow up to be counselor at law, for which it would provide fine ethical preparation. You will find good ball clubs in Sing Sing and the makings of good teams in all other institutions of similar character and you might as well say that the grand old game of craps or poker is an inspiration to the young or fraught with ennobling lessons in the way to live.

But, just as a game to be played or gazed upon for fun and for better or for worse, baseball is strictly all right and in the major leagues it presents the most skillful display we have in sport. One weakness of the game as a spectacle is the fine art of the players who are so good that they make the hard ones look easy and casual.

For proof of this, suppose you get out there in a sunfield with a fly ball hit to your patrol and see how you blink and stagger around trying not to step into imaginary rat holes and expecting the ball to hit you on the nose until with great relief you hear it drop 15 feet away. Or try going to one side or the other for some of the bad hops in the infield or any of those little chores which the hired ball players turn off with such nonchalance and grace. That will show you the difference.

Maybe the magnates are charging too much for their show. If they are they will find that out in their turnstile readings and shrink the price. But, comparing their show with any of the other standard sporting spectacles and their prices with the others, I should say that nobody who pays a dollar to see a major league or double A game goes home cheated, even on an off day.

Still, if the customer hasn't got a spending dollar, but has got a quarter or 50 cents, that ought to make the magnates think. I have known artists of various kinds who demanded very high prices for writing, acting and so forth, but never made any money because nobody would meet their terms, whereas cheaper people got fairly rich working for much less—but working. Twenty thousand empty dollar seats at nothing each bring $5,000 less than the same number of seats filled with trade at a quarter apiece. Arithmetic! I murder it!

It gives me pain to hear tell of how John J. McGraw deplores the decline of initiative and aggressiveness among the modern players as one of the troubles of the game. The trouble with Mr. McGraw is a double standard, developed along with his multiple chins. He had his pick of the ball players for years, but he wouldn't let a man have an opinion of his own on any subject, and any time a player showed any initiative or fight he was likely to be fired or fined or sent away in some sulky, vindictive trade.

In theory McGraw liked fighters, but in practice he couldn't abide anything but a yes man and a spiritual rabbit. The reason why he closed his career in failure was that he finally got just about the type of team he wanted.

Or did he know what he wanted and, for that matter, do any of the magnates? They all express a hankering for the fighting type of ball club, but let an honest fight break out and they let out a yell for the judge to come and fine somebody and preserve the dignity of the grand old game against the sinister specter of rowdyism.

They ask for intelligence, too, and yet they want players too dumb to realize that when they fight among themselves the best they can get is the worst of it.

Dodgers Go Up $500, but Wilson Still Holds Out

Martinsburg, W. Va., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—The Brooklyn Dodgers and Hack Wilson still can't seem to get together on the matter of the rotund outfielder's salary for 1933. This was revealed today when Hack, interviewed at his home, stated that he had made his second rejection of the club's terms. The new proposal was reported to be $500 higher than the figure set ten days ago, which Hack also turned down.

HACK WILSON.

Wilson is of the opinion that any cut in his salary should not exceed 10 per cent of the $16,500 he received in 1932. It was understood the Dodgers made him an offer of $9,000 this year. He denied he had been offered a bonus at the end of the season. Hack will leave for Hot Springs, Ark., within the next two days for preliminary training before reporting at the Dodger camp at Miami, Fla.

Wagner Returns to Pittsburgh Club as Coach

HANS WAGNER.

The "Flying Dutchman" played his entire major league career with the Pittsburgh club. The late Barney Dreyfuss, for many years owner of the team, several times offered the veteran a coaching job but Wagner always declined.

Negotiations for getting Honus back to Forbes field were reopened recently by William E. Benswanger, new president of the club. Today, Wagner, accompanied by Mrs. Wagner, visited Benswanger's office and put his name on the dotted line.

OVERTIME.
Scoring—None.
Penalties—None.

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 2.—(AP)—The Chicago Blackhawks and Ottawa Senators tied tonight, 1 to 1, in a National Hockey league game which was as close as the score indicates.

The first goal was made by the Senators in 2:20 of the third period. Heo Kilrea recovered the puck in the corner and passed out in front to Frankie Finnigan, who drove the disk past Goalie Gardiner.

Ten minutes later Art Coulter batted in the tying goal for the Blackhawks. The sub defense man was on the scoring end of a three man attack, Tommy Cook and Paul Thompson also getting assists on the goal. Coulter slammed it home from short range, shooting as the pass from Cook reached his stick. The overtime was featureless.

Ottawa had the first scoring chance in the opening period, but Kilrea missed an open net after taking a perfect pass from Finnigan in close. After Thompson and Couture of the Hawks had been thwarted Ottawa threatened again, Finnigan feeding a pass to Weiland, whose shot forced Goalie Gardiner to sprawl out on the ice.

March Knocked Out.

Abel and March made futile rushes, but were unable to get the puck away. Forslund went through alone and Gardiner took his back hand shot from ten feet out. March broke his stick when he slashed Rockburn, but escaped a penalty. Beveridge booted out a great save from Romnes' shot. Romnes then broke away alone and passed to March. Rockburn met March with a terrific body check and the little Blackhawk was knocked out.

The Hawks had trouble breaking through, for Shields and Rockburn were checking viciously. There was a lively center ice exchange and then Gardiner stopped two successive shots from Kilrea and Weiland.

Gottselig Just Misses.

Gottselig shot for the corner of the net and Beveridge made a great save with his stick. The Hawks bore in and Gottselig and Romnes passed their way in close only to lose out to the defense.

Shortly after the second period opened, Finnigan bounced a hard shot off Gardiner's pads. Cook worked in for a hard shot and Thompson came back with another. With a great chance before him, Kilrea hit the side of the net. The Hawks broke threabreast and Beveridge cleared with his hand when McFadyen missed Mackenzie's pass at the net mouth.

Weiland missed the net by inches on Finnigan's good pass and Abel clubbed it to safety. Cook and Thompson used a double pass to get inside, but Beveridge stopped them. Touhey missed the net after Shields had made a play for him and Gottselig shot hard on the return play. Rockburn dropped McFadyen and drew the first penalty of the game. McFadyen was headed in alone and appeared to have a scoring chance before Rockburn crashed into him.

Hawks Press Advantage.

With Rockburn still in the penalty box, the Blackhawks attacked from the drop of the puck in the third period. Cook came in twice but the Ottawa defense cleared and did the same on Thompson's rush. The danger passed and the teams were at full strength again.

Then Kilrea jammed his way up right wing, followed in behind the net when Abel bodied him and passed out in front. Finnegan was barging in from the front and he banged the puck past Gardiner for the first goal of the contest. The time was 2:20.

Coulter tied up the score in 12:15 on a great play through the Ottawa defense. The play was in the Ottawa end and when the rubber went out to Cook, he shot it inside. Coulter went racing in, caught the puck in flight and rifled it into the cage. Thompson also drew an assist on the tally.

Thompson then was penalized and the Senators had the advantage. Abel put the puck over the fence, but there was no penalty. In the argument that followed Shields drew a misconduct penalty of ten minutes from Referee Rodden, a substitute being permitted. There was a noisy demonstration, programs and peanuts littering the ice.

Levinsky Puts Winston Down 3 Times; Wins

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 2.—(AP)—King Levinsky, Chicago slugger, won a ten round verdict over Unknown Winston, Hartford, Conn., after knocking him to the floor three times in the fifth round tonight.

Levinsky, who scaled 195 pounds, led Winston, who weighed 190½, all the way, tiring him with heavy right hand blows. The Chicagoan floored Winston for a count of three and two counts of nine in the fifth round. The New Englander confined his attack largely to the body, doing no particular damage.

Wesley Ramey Whips Halaiko in 10 Rounds

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

THEY'RE throwing a party for Packey McFarland at Joliet tomorrow night in celebration of his appointment to the Illinois athletic commission. If Packey makes as fine a record as a boxing commissioner as he did as a fighter, they'll be giving him another blowout four years hence, or whenever he retires from public service.

PACKEY M'FARLAND.

"I look forward to four of the happiest years of my life," McFarland said the other night in contemplating his position on the state ring board. "I love the game, and why shouldn't I? It made a man of me; gave me a start in business.

"I intend to give everybody a square deal, and that goes double for the boxers. I know their trials and hardships. Managers and other chiselers frequently cause them more trouble than their opponents in the ring.

"Another thing," Packey continued, "I don't believe in disqualifying a boy in Illinois because his manager got him into trouble in Massachusetts or Alabama. We ought to run our affairs independently."

Packey explained that his views were strictly his own and might be overruled by the other members of the board.

The new commissioner also has definite changes in mind concerning the officiating at profesional bouts.

"There probably are no better judges anywhere than in Illinois," he stated, "but it is an interesting and astonishing fact that at many bouts the fans are struck dumb by the decisions. There can be no question of the judges' integrity. If their honesty was under the slightest suspicion they never would be assigned. So it must be that they are incompetent. Some of them don't know what to look for. It seems to me we might reduce the number of bad decisions by having idle referees serve as judges. There are at least ten well qualified referees in Chicago. Three or four are all that work at any show. Why couldn't the others sit outside the ring and use their expert judgment in picking winners?"

It is doubtful if Packey's plan would eliminate questionable decisions. When judgment enters into a verdict you are certain to have conflicting opinions. I know I have been in there trying with a couple of pretty fair eyes and from time to time I am in disagreement with the official ruling. Which means only that I doubt if anyone, no matter how much technical knowledge he has of boxing, can definitely pick the winner of a bout that is close.

Magicians who have nothing up their sleeves to conceal except a bowl of goldfish, ten flags and a couple of pink elephants have proved that the hand is quicker than the eye. So it is not surprising that a judge will miss a few blows when four hands start throwing punches all over the ring.

A fight will look different on one side of the ring from the way is appears on the other. This is explained by the fact that sometimes you get a full view of a blow and sometimes your vision is blocked.

Mr. Argus ought to come close to being the perfect boxing judge.

Blue and Wax Are Released by White Sox

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Luzerne Atwell Blue, characterized by Chicago White Sox officials less than a year ago as "the best fielding first baseman in baseball," yesterday was given his unconditional release by the Comiskey organization. Being a ten year man, Blue now is at liberty to make a deal for himself with any team, major or minor, that desires his services.

The enthusiastic and high rating which Owner Lou Comiskey and others gave Blue last spring was based on the veteran first baseman's 1931 season, one of the best in his dozen years in the American league. Last year, for reasons never made clear to the baseball public, he was far below his 1931 form and was not the regular first baseman during the last two months of the season.

In his first year with the Sox—1931—Blue generally was rated the best leadoff man in the majors. He played in 155 games, made 179 hits for a total of 235 bases and an average of .304, an excellent mark for a leadoff man. Added to this, however, was the fact that Blue was walked 127 times, being second to Babe Ruth with 128 passes.

Last year Blue played in 112 games, made 93 hits for 118 bases for an average of .249. Blue's ability to gain free passage was cut in half—he walked only 64 times.

The major league career of Charley Wax, a college catcher, was rather brief. A week ago the Sox announced he had been signed. Yesterday it was announced he had been given his unconditional release along with Blue.

PHAGAN, WEINERT BOX TONIGHT IN CICERO STADIUM

Johnny Phagan, 1932 Golden Gloves welterweight champion, and Puggy Weinert of Brighton Park will meet in a six round bout at the Cicero stadium, 52d avenue and 19th street, tonight.

Phagan is undefeated as a professional, winning five out of six matches, one bout was a draw. Shortly after his knockout of Eric Campe of Germany at Soldier field last July 21, Johnny turned pro. He showed nothing out of the ordinary in his first four professional contests, but in the last two he unleashed his right and scored one round knockouts.

Weinert, a Chicago boy, has done most all of his fighting in Florida and Georgia where he lost only two bouts in 33 starts. Puggy returned several weeks ago, engaging in two matches with Solly Dukelsky, who has held Phagan to a draw. The first bout was called a draw and the second was awarded to Dukelsky. Weinert never has been knocked out and has been down only once.

Kid Irish, Benld, Ill., featherweight, and Little Pal of Indiana Harbor, Ind., are matched in the six round semi-final. Since his losing match against Jackie Sharkey at the Chicago Stadium last year, Irish has whipped Petey White and stopped Charlie Cerminaro. If he beats Pal he will seek a return bout with Sharkey.

Paul Dazzo, Chicago's leading featherweight, and Varias Milling of Los Angeles, Cal., wind up strenuous training tomorrow for their 10 round match at the Washington Boulevard arena Monday night. Milling held Johnny Pena to an eight round draw at the Chicago Stadium recently and is thought by many to be too experienced for Dazzo. Others, however, think Dazzo has finally found himself after three years of professional boxing.

Dazzo, who won the Golden Gloves bantamweight championship as Paul Leberto in 1929, first attracted attention when he knocked out Frankie Wallace of Cleveland at the Coliseum last winter. The defeat caused the N. B. A. to drop Wallace from the fifth 126 pound contender to tenth. Then Paul whipped Jackie Sharkey at the Stadium and followed with victories over Young Geno and Ross Fields. The Milling contest will be Dazzo's first windup in Chicago and his second ten round bout.

Boston, Mass, Feb. 2.—(AP)—The Detroit Red Wings, playing without Ebbie Goodfellow and Frank Carson, regular forwards, tonight put on an air-tight defense to hold the Boston Bruins to a 1 to 1 tie in a National Hockey league game.

Both scores were made in the first period. While each team was one shy, Marty Barry caught the Detroit forwards out of position and ended a brilliant solo rush with a shoulder high shot that landed in Goalie Roach's cage. About ten minutes later Stew Evans stopped Vic Ripley's rush on his blue line and swept down the right wall. He passed the width of the rink to Carl Voss as he entered Boston territory and the latter drove a long angle shot through Goalie Thompson's legs. Lineup:

AMERICANS, 5; CANADIENS, 0

New York, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Bill Brydge, portly defense player of the New York Americans, set the pace tonight as they gave one of their flashiest exhibitions of the National Hockey league season in defeating the Montreal Canadiens, 5 to 0. The result put the Americans in second place in the international division and the Canadiens at the bottom.

Brydge passed to Ronnie Martin for the opening goal and scored the second on Red Jackson's pass in a two goal flurry at the end of the first period. He had another assist on the third goal, passing to Willie Starr, and played a great defense game. Nick Wasnie and Johnny Sheppard scored the other goals with Normie Himes assisting both times.

The lineup:

AMERICANS (5).		CANADIENS (0).
Worters	G	Hainsworth
Dutton	R. D.	S. Mantha

RANGERS, 2; MAROONS, 2

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 2.—(AP)—The New York Rangers and Montreal Maroons battled through seventy minutes of rugged hockey to a 2 to 2 draw tonight. The Maroons seemed to have the game sewed up when Hooley Smith scored their second goal half way through the third period, but Butch Keeling knotted the count again less than two minutes before regular time elapsed.

so that programs may be prepared. These will be distributed without charge at the bouts.

Frequent requests have been received from boxers in the novice class asking what equipment they are supposed to provide. Each boxer should provide his own shoes, towel, trunks and athletic supporter. The gloves will be furnished by THE TRIBUNE. Professional seconds will be in the corners. However, each boxer may bring a second with him who will work in the corner. Physicians will examine each boxer before he is permitted to compete.

George Trafton, proprietor of the Randolph street gymnasium, expects to win the greatest number of Open division championships. In fact, Trafton hopes to wrest the team trophy from the Catholic Youth organization. Big George naturally likes heavyweights and it is reported he plans to enter six of the best in Chicago in that division.

MILLER DEFENDS TITLE

Davenport, Ia., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Vernon Miller, CHICAGO TRIBUNE and intercity light heavyweight Golden Gloves champion, will begin the defense of his title in the fourth annual Daily Times sectional tourney which will be held at the Davenport Coliseum Feb. 9, 10, 16 and 17.

Johnny Baltzer, flyweight champion, who was a member of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE team in the New York and German bouts, has not entered as yet but is training for the tournament.

Mexico to Be the First U. S. Davis Cup Foe

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Feb. 2.—The United States will start its Davis cup matches on June 13 against Mexico, in accordance with today's drawing of lots at the presidential palace here.

The Davis cup stood on a table in the center of the room and President Lebrun, representing the championship country, drew the first card from it, while Jean Borotra and Henri Cochet, who successfully defended the cup last fall, looked on. The North American zone coming first, the president picked Cuba. The envoy from each country, as picked, walked up to the bowl and chose the next card. Canada was picked to play Cuba. In the South American zone Chile plays Brazil on May 21, the winner playing Uruguay on June 13, the same time Argentina plays Peru.

The drawing for Europe then started. The following matches will be played on May 9, in the order given: Finland against India; Spain against England; Belgium against Austria Italy against Jugo-Slavia; Egypt against Germany; Poland against Holland; Denmark against Ireland, and Hungary against Japan. The winners of these matches will play each other on May 21.

P. G. A. OPPOSES USE OF 8 INCH CUPS FOR GOLF

The Professional Golfers' association joined the United States Golf association yesterday in its stand against the eight inch cup as proposed recently by Gene Sarazen. The new cup has been tested by a number of courses already.

"A cup of this size would be contrary to the best interests of the game," Albert R. Gates, business administrator of the P. G. A., stated. "We can't allow their use in tournaments conducted by the organization.

Iowa Athletic Chairman Out? Doesn't Deny It

Iowa City, Ia., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Dean C. C. Williams, chairman of the University of Iowa athletic board, refused tonight to confirm or deny reports that he has resigned from his position.

WALTER JESSUP.

It was reported that Dean Williams had tendered his resignation to President Walter A. Jessup, some time after Jan. 4, as the result of a disagreement over the handling of the Break-Blackmer eligibility case. He has been under fire along with Prof. Henning Larson and Prof. F. G. Higbee, members of the athletic board's eligibility committee. Prof. Larson's resignation was announced yesterday.

There has been widespread criticism of the eligibility committee regarding the ineligibility of Ed Break and Ivan Blackmer, basketball stars. Both players were ruled ineligible by the committee, but the action was later rescinded by the entire board and the cases submitted to the Western conference. The conference has since ruled them ineligible and denied them reinstatement.

JESSUP NOT INFORMED.

President Walter A. Jessup of the University of Iowa, reached in Chicago last night, said that he was not in touch with the situation, and that he did not know whether the resignation of Dean C. C. Williams as chairman of the athletic board had been submitted.

"If the resignation has been turned in, it is in the athletic file and I have been too busy to pay close attention to it," President Jessup asserted.

'C' Men Urged to Recommend Stagg Successor

E. A. [Shorty] Dygert, former University of Chicago football player, has issued a request that all members of the "C" club meet following the Notre Dame-Chicago basketball game tomorrow night to discuss the question who shall be Chicago's next football coach. The meeting will be held at the Reynolds club, 57th street and University avenue. Chicago alumni interested in the choice of the man to succeed Coach A. A. Stagg also are invited.

"I've talked to several C men," Dygert said last night, "and we agree that a Chicago alumnus should be named football coach. Only a Chicago man can understand the situation on the Midway. Apparently the new director of athletics, Thomas N. Metcalf, hasn't made his selection. It will be the purpose of our meeting to pick the alumnus we consider best fitted to coach football at Chicago and then we'll make such a recommendation to the university authorities."

Metcalf, who will succeed Stagg as athletic director on July 1, was on the Midway yesterday conferring with the Maroon coaches, including Nelson Norgren, Ned Merriam and A. A. Stagg Jr. Asked if the appointment of a football coach is imminent, Metcalf replied: "Imminent is not quite the word. I wish it were." He planned to return to Ames, Ia., this morning.

Senn High School Track Teams Beat Roosevelt

Senn High school's track teams scored a double victory over Roosevelt yesterday, the seniors winning, 67½ to 27½, and the juniors, 57½ to 18½. Eollanski's leap of 6 feet in the high jump event was the outstanding performance.

Wisconsin and Loyola Fives to Clash Tonight

Madison, Wis., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Loyola university gets its second taste of Big Ten basketball competition tomorrow night when it plays the University of Wisconsin five here. Loyola's last venture into conference circles resulted in Purdue winning an overtime game in 1930 which snapped a 34 game victory streak.

Unusual interest is attached to the game because it marks the first meeting of Wisconsin and Loyola on the basketball court. Offensively there appears to be little difference between the teams. Defensive play is expected to decide the game.

The lineup:

LOYOLA.		WISCONSIN.
Connelly	F	McDonald

PURDUE TUNES UP

Lafayette, Ind., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Purdue's basketball squad will face a formidable foe here tomorrow night when it tackles Indiana State Teachers, conquerors of Butler, 41 to 20, in the first game for the Boilermakers in more than three weeks. The game marks the final nonconference contest of the season for Purdue and will provide the final tuneup for the remainder of the Big Ten race, in which the Boilermakers are defending the championship.

IOWA FACES CREIGHTON

Iowa City, Ia., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Competition with one of the best basketball teams in the central states in a preparatory game for the approaching Western conference contests will be offered the University of Iowa basketball quintet tomorrow night when Creighton visits the Hawkeye fieldhouse.

GREENSKEEPERS MEET TO ARGUE LINKS IRRIGATION

Because of the growth of fairway irrigation greenkeepers may become coursekeepers in time, it was pointed out by Edward B. Dearie Jr., greenkeeper of the Ridgemoor Country club.

"Golfers don't consider a course first class any longer unless it has fairway irrigation," he said, "and the superior playing conditions increase the desirability of playing."

Chicago has more fairway irrigated courses than any other city in the United States, he said.

Cricket Row Stirs England and Australia

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 2.—Cricket now has become a grave matter of international importance. The cables are humming, James H. Thomas, secretary of dominions, has intervened, and relations between Great Britain and Australia are virtually at a breaking point.

At least that is the interpretation most strangers in London today would place on the quarrel between the two parts of the empire over an obscure technical point in the game called the "leg theory" on bowling.

Anybody accustomed to broken bones in football likely would regard cricket as a sport on the same hazardous plane as knitting. But the Australians, who have been hurt by bowlers on the English team now paying its quadrennial visit to the antipodes, have charged the English cricketeers with "unsportsmanlike" play.

The row has reached such a pass at present that Secretary Thomas is taking what is described as a purely personal but none the less active interest in the course of events. He has held a meeting at the dominions office with Lord Lewisham, president of the Marylebone Cricket club, which is the governing body in England; Viscount Bridgeman and Sir Kynaston Studd, ex-presidents, and Sir Stanley Jackson, club treasurer.

The action reputedly was taken because Brig. Gen. Sir Alexander Hore-Ruthven, governor of South Australia, has been swamped since his arrival in England with letters and cablegrams from Australia pressing him to do something to quench the flames of the controversy lest they become a conflagration of international ill-will.

Rustic Georgia Scene Makes Hunters Pause

BY BOB BECKER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Albany, Ga., Feb. 2.—When you spend a day on the Georgia plantations to do a little "bu'd" shooting you can expect a number of interesting and often amusing experiences which are by products of the main program.

For example, yesterday when we were hunting northwest of town not far from Clark's mill we took time out for a couple of "specialties" which were quite foreign to a hunt in the north. The first one concerned Jim, the 180 pound colored boy who was attached to our expedition.

The auto carrying our party had turned off a plantation road and was traveling along in second gear behind the galloping pointers. We were bumping along through a rolling field covered with tall grass with here and there an occasional pine tree. It was late in the afternoon and we were hoping to get into at least one more covey of quail. Suddenly Mac, one of the pointers, snapped into a point about 70 feet from the car. All of us moved to get out quickly. Then, from in front of the dog's nose, there fluttered into the air three small doves. These were not mourning doves. They were the little ground doves found only in some parts of the south.

Miller winked as we pounced on Jim for telling us such foolishness. Why, it was ridiculous! Death from eating a harmless little dove. Rot! But Jim rolled his eyes and in a high pitched whine insisted that he was right. But he finally backtracked just this much: If you didn't die from eating one of these doves you "was shuah to look on death" after your meal. And there we had to leave the argument. There is no budging some of these colored boys in their superstitions.

The second interesting specialty of the day was recorded when we found an old fashioned grist mill in the woods, where the laughing colored boys were getting their corn ground and a flock of wood ducks was having a high time on the millpond less than 100 yards from the rumbling old water wheel and millstone.

This combination was so unusual to us that we spent a little time in looking it over. The small pond dotted with moss covered cypress trees, the contented wood ducks splashing and mucking around just a few yards from a line of colored boys talking behind the mill; the old unpainted building with its big whirling stone grinder; the steady stream of hot cornmeal flowing from the mill; the system of taking in 56 pounds of corn and returning 44 pounds of ground meal which is destined for the inevitable hot corn bread of the south—here was a backwoods picture that even a quail hunter couldn't pass by without comment.

Maroons Put Track Hopes in Sprinters

Strength in the shorter races and in the specialty events is expected to give the University of Chicago an edge over Purdue in the opening track competition of the Big Ten season tonight at the Midway fieldhouse.

John Brooks, conference broad jump champion, is expected to score heavily for the Maroons in the low hurdles and the 60 yard dash. In a recent practice meet Brooks won the latter event in :06.3, closely pressed by two football men, Captain Elect Pete Zimmer and Ed Cullen, a sophomore. Capt. Ted Haydon of Chicago will match strides with Sandbach of Purdue in the high hurdles.

In the field events Chicago has a coming shot put star in Eugene Ovson, state interscholastic champion two years ago, who has bettered 45 feet despite the fact that he weighs only 166 pounds. Dick Jackson, a transfer student, has done 12 feet in the pole vault and John Roberts, an all around man, has cleared 5 feet in the high jump.

ASSOC. APPAREL HAS 1932 LOSS OF $627,389

Firm Gives Up Number of Unprofitable Units.

A consolidated loss of $627,389 in operations for the fiscal year ending Nov. 30, 1932, was reported yesterday by R. C. Stirton, president of the Associated Apparel Industries, Inc. This compared with $803,137 deficit for 1931 The company reported total debits in its summary of income and surplus which resulted in a consolidated capital deficit of $2,544,135.

In his report to the stockholders Mr Stirton said:

"It was the judgment of your directors that, in view of the general business situation, we should dispose of or liquidate units that were being operated at a loss. This policy has been followed throughout the year—certain of these units having been disposed of in their entirety, others having been liquidated to a basis in keeping with their volume of business.

Losses in Assets.

"Such action has of necessity occasioned very substantial losses in assets on the other hand, automatically stopped operating losses that were in effect in these different units during the year.

"We have in effect brought the business back to the point that it originally started from, namely the H. W Gossard company, which always has been and continues to be a successful company. During the year just passed, however, its earnings were not in any way sufficient to offset the losses sustained by other divisions."

Mr. Stirton said that expenses have been reduced and he is satisfied that the business will be operated without a loss during 1933.

Assets Put at $4,724,587.

The consolidated balance sheet shows assets of $4,724,587 of which $129,011 is cash on hand. Of the $1,031,147 accounts receivable $680,239 is pledged to the Manufacturers' Finance company. The net value of fixed assets, land, building and equipment, is given as $1,310,986.

A bankruptcy action filed against the company last fall was dismissed by Federal Judge Carpenter here, who held with the company that it was solvent.

General Cigar.

I would appreciate information on General Cigar company, Inc.—W. K.

General Cigar Company, Inc., was one of the first cigar manufacturers to mechanize its plants. This enabled it to dispense with numerous branches and put into effect may economies in operation. It was able to standardize its products and eliminate many brands, concentrating on nation-wide distribution of a few.

During the last few years when the cigar industry lost ground to cigarets the company was still in good position to obtain a larger share of available business. Operating costs were lower The company decreased prices in a successful effort to increase volume. In 1922 it produced about 7 per cent of the country's output. Today it produces about 14 per cent of total output. Profit margin is smaller and net usually depends primarily on volume of sales.

Most of the increase in sales was in five cent cigars. Despite the shift in public taste to lower priced cigars, earnings have remained comparatively stable. Smaller profit margin per unit has been offset by lower costs and increased output.

Net income for 1932 was $2,058,000, which was 5.88 times preferred dividends and equal to $3.61 per common share. Net for 1931 was $2,721,000, or $5.01 per common share, against $3,202,000, or $6.03 per common share, for 1930. Net for 1929 was $4,296,000, against $3,140,000 for 1928.

The company has consistently maintained a liquid current position. On June 30, 1932, current assets were $26,337,000 and current liabilities were $982,000. Working capital was $25,355,000, against $25,464,000 the year before.

There are outstanding 50,000 shares of 7 per cent cumulative $100 par preferred and 472,932 shares of no par common. Dividends have been paid uninterruptedly on the preferred since issuance and on the common since 1909. The latter now pays $1 a quarter.

Effective advertising and efficient management have enabled the company to report satisfactory earnings while total output of cigars has declined rapidly. Any substantial increase in earnings cannot apparently be expected until and unless an increase in cigar smoking is experienced A reversion to the habit of smoking higher priced cigars would be of substantial benefit. Current increase in production must be at the expense of other companies.

The company is well intrenched in its field. The preferred is rather high grade. The common deserves a fairly good rating.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Cotton cloths sold slowly today as mills refused to accept low bids for good quantities. Rayons were in fair demand. Fancy rayons and cottons sold in larger amounts. Silk fabrics were taken in moderate quantities. Woolens were active. Burlap was steady.

LONDON WOOL MARKET.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—(AP)—A total of 6,934 bales of wool were offered at the auction today of which 5,534 were sold. The rather small selection met with good general buying at current rates. Withdrawals were more frequent among best scoured types and all low grades owing to firm limits.

ASK RENT CUTS TO SAVE DRUG STORE CHAIN

BY AL CHASE.

A nation wide drive to cut rentals on Liggett drug stores at least $1,400,000 for one year is being conducted by realtors with landlords of the Louis K. Liggett company. This move is being taken at the suggestion of the United States District court at Philadelphia following a temporary injunction restraining the big chain concern from voluntary bankruptcy, it was announced yesterday by Frank S. Slosson of Chicago. Mr. Slosson is a member of the Liggett Landlords' National Protective committee formed by realtors to combat the growing practice of big chain concerns using bankruptcy to cancel leases.

According to J. Solis-Cohen Jr. of Philadelphia, secretary of the national committee, who is conducting a campaign among Liggett landlords, the Liggett company has agreed that if it is granted a 25 per cent reduction in rentals for at least one year it can pull through. The committee has now secured $1,100,000 of the necessary $1,400,000 and expects by Feb. 23 to have the balance lined up.

Chicago Landlords Respond.

Mr. Slosson stated yesterday that landlords of seventeen of the thirty-six Liggett stores in the Chicago area have agreed to reduce rentals one-quarter for at least one year. The Liggett company has 550 stores throughout the country, with 5,000 employes, paying $17,000,000 in wages.

During the peak the company reported sales of $69,000,000. This slipped to $50,000,000 last year. The Chicago peak was $4,700,000. This dropped to $3,000,000.

It is pointed out that this attempt to stabilize the Liggett rentals at 75 per cent of their peak values will keep the company from bankruptcy and prevent it from following the example of the United Cigar Stores company and other chain concerns which have used the bankruptcy courts and receiverships to slip out from under high schedule leases.

No Alternative But Bankruptcy.

The Liggett interests announced at the time the restraining order was issued by Judge George A. Welsh at Philadelphia, that unless their rentals were lowered at least 25 per cent there was no alternative but bankruptcy.

The company, which has a reported $100,000,000 worth of property, has for several years been using its surplus to expand. It has lost heavily through subleting space, having in many instances had to reduce subrentals without getting any reduction in its own rentals to offset this loss. Wages have been cut several times but business has fallen off considerably.

It is understood that if enough rental reductions are secured the United States District court will make the injunction permanent.

RELIANCE SHIRT COMPANY EARNS $236,217 PROFIT

Reliance Manufacturing company, one of the country's largest manufacturers of men's work shirts, operated at capacity throughout 1932 and made a profit of $236,217 for the period, according to the annual report issued yesterday.

Because of the inventory losses resulting from the further decline in prices the company's profit was below 1931, when net income amounted to $384,838.

POOR EARNINGS CUT DIVIDENDS ON BANK SHARES

BY HOWARD WOOD.

With the federal reserve board determined to force commercial member banks to lend more freely and the latter just as determined to resist this pressure, bank earnings are expected to be small during at least the first half of 1933.

Rather than make less conservative loans the commercial banks are choosing to keep in a highly liquid condition, which, of course, means lower earnings. As earnings decline dividends will be reduced and expenditures will be further curtailed.

The trend of bank stock quotations during the last few weeks has been downward in sympathy with the investing public's anticipation of a period of lower bank earnings and a high degree of bank liquidity.

Both Chicago and New York Bank Stocks Sell Lower.

In New York yesterday Guaranty Trust stock was off about 7 points from the preceding day's quotations. First National of New York was 25 points lower than the preceding day. National City was a point lower. Central Hanover was down 4½ for the day and Chase National was off ¾. In Chicago First National bank stock was 15 points lower for the day and Continental Illinois was down a point.

In financial circles there is no secret about the reason for the decline in bank stocks. As long as the federal reserve board persists in its "easy money" policy, banks will be unable to show large earnings, one important reason being that the yield on government bonds is kept so low that the return on the investment is almost negligible. And if earnings continue to be small, dividends will continue to be scaled down.

National City bank of New York, for example, in 1929, 1930 and 1931 was paying $4 per share annually. Last year dividends totaled only $2.75, and the present rate is only 50 cents quarterly, two reductions having been made in 1932.

Chase National paid $3.75 in 1931, $2.75 in 1932, and now, after two reductions in a year, is paying 50 cents quarterly.

First National of Chicago is still paying $3 quarterly, having made but one dividend reduction since 1928 when it was put on an $18 annual basis. The dividend may be reduced again when the directors meet early in March.

Continental Illinois paid $16 per share until January, 1932, when the rate was cut to $3 quarterly. Last September the rate was further reduced to $2 quarterly and this month a $1.50 quarterly payment was made.

The downward trend of bank dividends during the last few months is interpreted as proof that the banks are determined not to surrender to the federal reserve board's easy money pressure. They prefer to remain in highly liquid condition rather than try for larger earnings by making what they regard as risky loans.

$2,045,000 LOSS IN '32 REPORTED BY BUTLER BROS.

Stockholders of Butler Brothers elected three new members to the board of directors at the annual meeting yesterday. The new directors are Charles C. Haffner Jr., executive vice president of the City National Bank and Trust company, George A. Brazier and Frederick Quellmalz. The last two are merchandising officials of the company.

Frank S. Cunningham, president, told stockholders that the company incurred a deficit of $2,045,000 in 1932 after all expenses and charges. This compares with a deficit of $2,686,000 in the previous year.

"That we are making progress may be inferred from the fact that while our volume in 1932 declined 10.84 per cent, all available data indicate that the reduction in business in general was in excess of 18 per cent," Mr. Cunningham said.

The annual report reflects the capital adjustments made by the company last year. Surplus on Dec. 31 stood at $5,025,000, against $1,149,000 a year earlier. Reduction in the capital stock from $20 to $10 par value resulted in a surplus credit of $11,381,000.

The year-end balance sheet showed current assets of $18,178,000 and current liabilities of $2,410,000. Assets included cash of $2,291,000.

ILLINOIS BELL TAPS SURPLUS FOR DIVIDENDS

Passes 12 Million on to American Tel.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The Illinois Bell Telephone company tapped its surplus for $1,875,000 to pay the $12,000,000 in dividends which it passed on to the American Telephone and Telegraph company last year.

The company's annual report, released last night by F. H. Hale, president, shows net income of $10,125,000 after all charges, against $12,817,000 in the preceding year.

Interesting data on the telephone habits of subscribers in the depression year of 1932 are disclosed in the report. Phone users economized more on toll calls than on local calls. The company handled an average of 5,432,164 local calls daily during the year. This was a reduction of 7.8 per cent from the 1931 average. Toll and long distance messages handled were 17.9 per cent less than in 1931, with the daily average amounting to 181,000 calls.

Fewer Wrong Numbers.

Popular belief notwithstanding, subscribers got fewer wrong numbers last year. "During the year," President Hale said, "the percentage of originating local manual calls affected by operating errors was again reduced." No figures were given.

The severe sleet storm which descended on northern Illinois early last March cost the company more than $400,000. More than 8,000 poles were broken during the storm and 1,100 miles of wire was damaged. Temporary restoration was made within three days, Mr. Hale said.

Preparations are being made to handle the extra volume of business which the company expects during the World's Fair, Mr. Hale said. Exposition buildings are being thoroughly equipped for telephone service.

Cut Down New Building.

Expenditures for new construction were kept at a minimum last year. Gross expenditures for this purpose were $17,725,000, while the net addition to plant and equipment was only $1,531,326. Completing projects already begun accounted for most of the expenditures, Mr. Hale said.

As an offset to declining revenue, he added, the company made every effort to reduce expenses. Total operating revenue was $78,462,000, as compared with $89,276,000 in 1931. Operating expense was reduced $27,786,000 from $32,495,000 in 1931.

The year-end balance sheet showed working assets of $23,733,000 and working liabilities of $4,203,000.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 2.—Earnings for 1932 equal to 77 cents a share were reported today by National Steel corporation of Pittsburgh.

For the year to Dec. 31 net earnings were $1,662,919 after all charges and federal tax, equivalent to 77 cents a share on 2,156,832 no par common shares outstanding, while earnings for the three months ending the same date were $354,045. These figures compare with net earnings of $4,443,323 for the previous year and of $668,713 for the corresponding 1931 quarter.

Cash on hand at the year-end closely approximated $6,200,000, a 65 per cent increase over holdings of $3,755,000 at the end of the preceding year. The ratio of current assets to current liabilities doubled, from 4.7 to 1 at the beginning of the year to approximately 9.4 to 1 at the closing date.

O. K. RECEIVER'S OPERATION OF PETTIBONE CO.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday authorized Abel Davis and C. H. Eib, co-receivers in equity for the Pettibone Mulliken company, to continue operation of the company for 90 days. The receivers reported that the company showed a profit of approximately $8,000 for the quarter ended Dec. 31.

Breed Corn Like Cattle; New Types for Special Uses

BY PAUL POTTER.

As the result of the play of economic forces in recent years upon the gigantic corn industry and the industries for which corn is a basic commodity, new values will be placed upon the developing of special types of corn for special uses.

This is the gist of discussions taking place among corn breeders and buyers in a series of conferences held in Chicago this week. Many of them are predicting that corn growers in coming years will be producing products as different in characteristics as in beef or dairy cattle.

Few Exports Expected.

Officials of corn products refining companies and corn exporters belonging to the Board of Trade express little hope for the return of normal export markets for American corn in the next few years. They report that the tariff walls and monetary changes which have taken place in international trade for many years have brought corn consumption to a domestic basis.

One of the large companies refining corn now has 13 plants in foreign nations as a direct result of mounting tariffs since the world war.

As a result of a conference this week between grain merchants, Illinois seedsmen and government corn breeding experts, it was disclosed that an excess of damaged corn has come to market from Iowa and other states this winter.

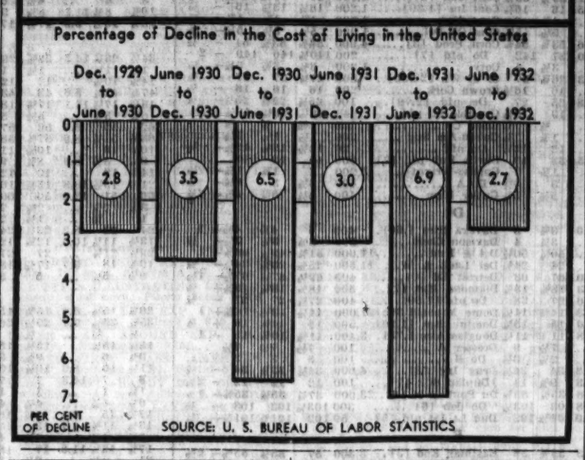
Inspections showed that much of the damage was caused by a new bacterial disease of the leaf and stalk that has developed in the last two seasons.

Display Improved Variety.

Samples of some newly developed corn resistant to this disease and to frost damage were analyzed by the inspectors of the board of trade. As a result it was found that such corn is not only heavier, but that the oil and protein content is improving.

"Corn breeders now are attempting to determine just what qualities in the corn are most valuable in commerce," declared Dr. Holbert. "We can produce corn very high in oil, in starch, in yield or in size of kernel. In other words, we can produce a race horse or a draft horse. What we seek to determine is the market demand for such types, in order that farmers can produce the kind of corn that will bring them the greatest return."

Extent of Decline in Cost of Living by Six Month Periods



U. S. Collects $39,742,000 in Stamp Taxes

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—Stock, bond and commodity markets of the country paid the federal government approximately $39,742,000 in stamp taxes last year, and of this total $2,751,000 came from the Chicago area, the treasury department announced today.

Taxes which the Chicago produce markets paid on futures sales jumped 92 per cent last year because of the higher rates imposed in the middle of the year by the revenue act of 1932, but the collections from the Chicago security markets on transfers and original issues declined despite the increased rates.

Chicago Area Divisions.

Collections of federal stamp taxes in the Chicago area last year were: For original issues of stocks and bonds, $764,693; from stock and bond transfers, $788,768, and from sales of produce from future delivery, $1,248,023. These total collections were $67,963 larger than in 1931 as the increase in the yield of the futures tax more than offset the decline in security taxes.

In the country as a whole, the revenue act of 1932 caused the yield of the security and futures taxes to increase from $34,458,303 in 1931, to $39,741,819 last year. All of this $3,283,500 increase came in the second half of the year after the new tax law went into effect. Before that time collections were running behind the 1931 totals because of the sluggishness of the markets.

The tax on original issues brought in $12,471,521 last year, compared with $10,964,169 in 1931. Of the 1932 collections $6,892,300 came from the New York stock exchange. New York paid also $22,432,948 of the $24,810,441 in taxes on stock and bond transfers which the government levied last year. The futures tax brought in $2,459,857, of which 48 per cent came from Chicago.

Tax on Cards $4,240,449.

A fourth federal stamp tax, on playing cards, brought in $4,240,449. The bulk of this sum, $2,073,451, came from the Ohio region, home of the United States Playing Card company. Only $322,346 of the total came from the Chicago area.

Chicago markets paid a slightly smaller share of the country's stamp tax bill last year than in 1931. The $2,759,859 collected in the Chicago region last year formed only 7 per cent of the total, while the $2,682,896 collected in 1931 made up 7.8 per cent of the total for that year.

Even the futures taxes in the Chicago area, which jumped from $621,718 in 1931, to $1,197,396 last year, formed only 43 per cent of the 1932 total for that tax, compared with 56 per cent in the year before. The stock transfer tax for Chicago, which dropped by more than a third last year, represented 8 per cent of the country's total. The original issue tax for the region made up 6 per cent of the country's total.

AUTO SALES IN COUNTY LAST DECEMBER GAIN 300 PCT. OVER 1931

Registration of new automobiles in Cook county during January increased more than 22 per cent over that of January, 1932, and 300 per cent over last December's total. It was the largest since July. The total number of new cars licensed during January was 3,216, compared with 2,629 for the same month of 1932 and with 804 for last December.

New passenger car registration in the United States during last year amounted to 1,095,175, representing a decrease of forty-two and a half per cent, against 1,905,680 in 1931.

EXPORTS OF U. S. TO 21 MARKETS UP IN DECEMBER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—United States exports during December were larger to 21 principal foreign markets and declined to the remaining 19, while imports were less than for the preceding month from 21 countries and larger from 19, according to detailed foreign trade figures issued today by the commerce department.

Combined shipments to all countries were valued in December at $131,877,185, or $7,493,747 less than for November, while imports valued at $97,058,870 declined $7,419,966. Corresponding figures for the year's trade showed declines of $1,611,983,770 in exports and $1,767,889,236 in imports, compared with 1931.

Most Nations Buy Less.

For the year as a whole, shipments were smaller to all countries, except Greece and Brazil and in these the increase was hardly noticeable. Imports were less from all countries, except Egypt, which sold the United States about $800,000 more than in the previous year.

Canada and the United Kingdom each bought less from this country in December than the previous month, declines of about $3,000,000 and $5,000,000, respectively, being shown. Among countries purchasing more than during November were Belgium, Denmark, Italy, The Netherlands, Mexico, China, and Japan. The latter increased its purchases during month by more than $2,000,000.

Nations Selling Less Here.

Among the principal foreign markets selling less to the United States than in November were Belgium, France, Germany, Italy, The Netherlands, Canada, and Japan.

Czecho-Slovakia, against which President Hoover yesterday increased the import duties on certain shoes, had December aggregate sales to the United States of $999,934, against $1,090,568 for November.

December exports to Soviet Russia dropped to $186,310, one of the lowest monthly figures on record and total shipments for the year to that market aggregated $12,466,249, compared with $103,486,034 in 1931.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb 2.—The senior Samuel Insull's interests in vast electric utility holdings in Great Britain are being sold, according to the Evening Standard, which asserts this afternoon that controlling interest in the 30 million dollar Edmunson's Electricity Corporation, Ltd., has passed to the Prudential Assurance company (not connected with the Prudential Insurance company of America).

The Edmunson ordinary shares until recently were in the hands of Greater London and Counties Trust, controlled by Utilities Power and Light Corporation of Chicago.

AUTO TIRE PRICE WAR STARTED; CUTS 5 TO 10%

Makers Fight Mail Order Houses.

The automobile tire "price war" that flared up again in Akron early yesterday had shifted to Chicago by nightfall, with both Sears Roebuck and Montgomery Ward announcing further reductions to meet the cut made by Firestone and other Ohio companies.

Yesterday's contest opened with a statement by J. W. Thomas, president of Firestone Tire & Rubber company, in which he said:

JOHN W. THOMAS.

"We are today issuing price lists [on special brands of tires reducing prices 5 per cent] to our dealers and are adjusting our first grade tires to bring them into proper relation."

He did not specify what the reduction would be on first grade tires, but it was reported unofficially to have been about ten per cent.

"Firestone does not make special brands of tires for mail order houses and others to distribute," Mr. Thomas' statement continued, "but does make a line of tires bearing the Firestone name comparable in quality and construction to meet these special brands tires.

Mail Order Cuts First.

"Two of the large mail order houses recently issued their spring and summer catalogs with prices approximately five per cent under our prices on these lines and so we are adjusting our first grade tires to bring them into proper relation."

Immediately thereafter R. F. Wilson, vice president and sales manager of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber company, which supplies Sears Roebuck and company with tires, issued a statement in which he said that his company hoped to avoid further price reductions, adding that mail order catalog prices affected less than three per cent of the "total renewal market."

J. D. Tew, president of Goodrich, announced:

"While it will be necessary for Goodrich to change prices in order to keep its dealers competitive, no change will be made until we have had an opportunity to study the new list announced today."

Mail Order Houses Cut.

"A decrease ranging from 5 to 15 per cent on all automobile tire prices is being made today," Sears-Roebuck officials stated. "The decrease will apply to all regular lines and all sizes."

Montgomery Ward's announcement contained no figures, but said that prices were being cut still further.

This is the first time that any major adjustment in tire prices has been made since early last fall, when prices were raised to include the new federal excise tax.

During recent weeks, however, there have been local "price wars" between dealers in Cleveland and other cities.

These dealer battles were stopped by orders from the big tire manufacturing companies in Akron. Now the companies themselves have started their own war.

AM. REINSURANCE COMPANY ASSETS TOTAL $7,207,607

The American Re-Insurance company has reported total assets of $7,207,607 and surplus of $1,859,420 as of Dec. 31, 1932, after deduction of a voluntary reserve of $500,000 and a contingency reserve of $1,632,901 sufficient to write all securities down to actual market values as of Dec. 31, 1932.

This compares with total assets of $7,641,670 as of Dec. 31, 1931, and surplus of $1,264,998 if the writing down of all securities to actual market values as of that date is assumed.

David Selznick Resigns as R. K. O. Vice President

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—David Selznick today announced his immediate resignation as executive vice president, and production chief of the R. K. O. motion picture studio here. He declined to give an explanation for his resignation. Radio-R. K. O. studio has recently been mentioned here and in New York in connection with negotiations for merger with another major film corporation in the near future.

Predict New Cigaret Price Cut as Attack on 10-Cent Brands

New York, Feb. 2.—A new slash to $5.40 a thousand in the wholesale price of standard brand cigarets manufactured by the big four companies—American Tobacco, P. Lorillard & Co., Liggett & Myers, and R. J. Reynolds—is imminent, according to sources usually well informed regarding the cigaret manufacturing industry. Formal announcement to dealers is expected within a comparatively short time.

Coming on the heels of the Jan. 1 cut by the American Tobacco company to $5 a thousand, which was met by the other three major operators, an additional slash now is interpreted that the big four not only is intent upon driving the cheaper 10 cent brands from the large volume market, but is planning to make a concerted effort to recapture a fair part of the cigaret business lost to the "roll your own smoker."

When the extra dividends on American Tobacco stocks were dropped at the last dividend meeting of the American Tobacco directors the financial community began to speculate on what would be done with the money thus saved.

In some quarters which maintain a close watch on the affairs of the big companies it was suggested that the action anticipated heavy expenditures to meet increased competition and that these expenditures would take the form of more intensive advertising.

Reserve Banks Stop Selling of Federal Bonds

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 3.—Federal reserve banks brought their open market operations to a practical standstill last week to avoid adding to the drain on member bank excess reserves.

Federal reserve board reports, made public today, show that during the last week the banks' aggregate holdings of government securities actually increased by $304,000, but this slight change was due to the treasury department's Feb. 1 refinancing rather than to any open market activity on the part of the banks.

Protect Excess Reserves.

The system apparently ceased the selling of governments, which had been carried on to the extent of $88,000,000 in the preceding three weeks, in order to protect the excess reserves of the member banks. An outward movement of gold amounting to $8,000,000 last week and a $41,000,000 unseasonal increase in currency demands both put strains on the excess reserves last week. Total reserves fell 75 million dollars last week.

When they commenced selling governments four weeks ago the banks made it clear that they would not allow their operations to depress the excess reserves, which are looked upon as reservoirs of credit to be preserved for the coming of improved business. Selling in the open market, therefore, probably is at an end until the outflow of gold and of money into circulation ceases.

During the last two weeks $18,000,000 in gold has been lost by this country and the American gold holdings have fallen from $4,566,000,000 to $4,548,000,000 because of the repurchase of war debt gold by Great Britain.

Meanwhile, banking disturbances have caused an abnormal increase of $63,000,000 in demands for money for circulation in the last three weeks. Since both of these demands must be met out of excess reserves, the federal reserve banks, apparently, do not want to call on the reserves to absorb also governments dumped on the market by the system itself.

OUTSTANDING CASH RISES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 2.—Money in circulation increased 41 million dollars, monetary gold stocks of the country were down 8 million dollars, and member bank reserve balances were off 75 million dollars, the statement of the federal reserve system, published today, showed.

The twelve federal reserve banks combined showed a drop of $3,527,000 in their gold holdings, a rise of $24,304,000 in their note circulation and a decline of $47,505,000 in their deposits. The ratio of reserves to deposit and note liabilities advanced to 65.6 per cent against 65.4 per cent last week.

Member bank borrowings from the system rose $3,992,000, while the system's holdings of bills bought in the open market were virtually unchanged. Total reserve bank credit outstanding advanced $3,000,000.

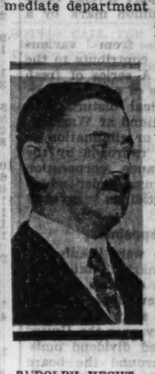
FRAUD CHARGED IN R. F. C. LOANS TO BONDING FIRM

Rep. Fish Urges Quiz of "Rotten Mess."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—An immediate department of justice investigation of a "rotten mess" involving Rudolph S. Hecht, New Orleans banker and political ally of Senator Huey Long of Louisiana, was demanded in the house of representatives today by Representative Hamilton Fish Jr. [Rep., N. Y.].



RUDOLPH HECHT.

The New York congressman urged that the federal agents be sent to look into the part Mr. Hecht played in obtaining a Reconstruction Finance corporation loan for his New Orleans insurance company just prior to its failure.

Mr. Hecht is chairman of the R. F. C. advisory board in the Louisiana city and, at the same time, Representative Fish asserted, is vice president of the Union Indemnity company, now failed, to which the loan was made. Likewise, according to the New York congressman, Mr. Hecht is president of the Hibernia National Bank of New Orleans, to which, Mr. Fish alleged, the insurance company loan was diverted.

Hints of Prosecution.

"I am convinced, from a partial investigation," said Representative Fish, "that the loans made to the Union Indemnity company, and its affiliates, should be immediately investigated, not only by the Reconstruction Finance corporation, but also by the department of justice.

"The loans of the R. F. C. must be above suspicion, and no opportunity afforded the 'insiders' of corporations about to fail to recoup their personal losses at the expense of the federal government."

Mr. Fish originally made his charges during hearings before the house banking and currency committee. His motive in making the attack was challenged at that time by Representative Henry Steagall [Dem., Ala.], close political friend of Senator Long, on the ground that it was directed at the Louisiana kingfish for political reasons.

Inserting his charges into the record later in the day, Mr. Fish denied that he intended to involve Senator Long.

Loans of Four Millions.

"The Reconstruction Finance corporation," he declared, "has made loans to the Union Indemnity company and the Union Title Guaranty company, its affiliate, amounting to approximately $4,000,000. The last loan, amounting to $970,000, was made on Dec. 29, 1932, and the Union Indemnity company failed on Jan. 6, 1933, and the Union Title Guaranty company on Jan. 7, 1933."

"The records disclose," he continued, "the fact that Mr. Rudolph S. Hecht was chairman of the advisory committee for the Reconstruction Finance corporation at New Orleans, to pass on the loans and collateral for the loans. It appears that the same Mr. Hecht is a director of the Union Indemnity company which failed shortly after receiving a loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation. It now develops that one or more of the loans made to the Union Indemnity company or its holding company, was turned over to the Hibernia Bank and Trust company of New Orleans, of which Mr. Rudolph S. Hecht is president.

"In addition it is alleged that the security given for loans included bonds of the Union Indemnity company, now defunct."

Charges Guilty Knowledge.

"As director of the Union Indemnity company," Mr. Fish asserted, "Mr. Hecht was in a position to know that it was insolvent and on the verge of bankruptcy at the time the loans were made by the Reconstruction Finance corporation, yet he approved the loans. The mere fact that the loans were not used for the purpose intended by the R. F. C. is obtaining federal funds under misrepresentation of facts which amounts to fraud.

"I do not wish to do any injustice to Mr. Hecht, but I demand that pending full investigation of what appears on the face of it to be fraudulent practice, that he should be compelled to resign as chairman of the advisory committee of the Reconstruction Finance corporation."

Mr. Fish introduced a resolution calling for an investigation by the department of justice into the failure of corporations within 90 days of obtaining a loan from the R. F. C.

New Orleans Bankers Meet.

New Orleans, La., Feb., 2—Randolph S. Hecht made no statement in reply to Mr. Fish's charges before the house banking committee today.

Following the hearing before the house banking committee in Washington, and after criticism had been directed at Mr. Hecht and Senator Long by Congresman Fish and others, New Orleans bankers held a meeting in one of the larger banks, but no statement had been issued by them up to a late hour tonight.

R. W. Wettstyne New Head of the Junior Traffic Club

Russell W. Wettstyne of Marshall Field and company, was elected president of the Junior Traffic club at the Palmer house last night. E. H. Randall, of the Santa Fé railroad, was elected vice president, and Harry J. Phillips, of the Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee railroad, treasurer. J. E. Paulan, of the Acme Steel company.

BUYING CHECKS PRICE DECLINE IN STOCK MARKET

Sales of Shares Again Pass Million Mark.

BY FRED HARVEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 2.—Operations on the New York Stock exchange again leaned heavily to the selling side. At their worst the industrial averages were at new lows for the year but enough buying developed in the after noon, chiefly in the form of short covering, to restore a part of the early losses.

Most of the utilities approximated their December support levels. Sales again topped the million mark by a substantial margin.

News dispatches from various sources continued to contribute to the popular pessimism. A series of fresh dividend adjustments of adverse character, foreign political disturbances and the growing demand at Washington for curtailment or elimination of financial aid to the railroads by the Reconstruction Finance corporation were in chief headings under which the unfavorable tidings grouped themselves.

Traders Disappointed.

Many traders also were keenly disappointed over the market's failure to stand up in the face of news developments of the last few days, particularly its refusal to snap back after the first selling flurry over the United States Steel preferred dividend omission. Talk heard around the board rooms indicates that an impression is gaining ground that the much discussed "spring rise," if it is to come at all, must make its start from a lower base than was generally expected.

In addition to the budget of general "bearish" news there were special items to influence selling in different groups. A report that the United States senate had voted to discontinue the subsidy for aviation companies caused heavy liquidation in the airplane stocks, United Aicraft, which had been a pool favorite for months, breaking some three points before it met with any sort of support.

News that the New York state senate was considering the advisability of investigating gas rates in this state with a view to downward revision reacted against the utility group, with Consolidated Gas, the big New York concern, leading the decline.

Rubber Stocks.

Unfavorable speculation on the fate of the dividend of the American Telephone company, which is to be up for action Feb. 15, made that blue chip utility a favorite selling target and the price was driven below 100, leaving only two common shares on the board above the "century" mark for the time being—Homestake Mining and Norfolk and Western railroad.

Activity in the motor group was featured by further weakness in Auburn, General Motors, and Chrysler the last named recording a new low for the year on dividend uncertainty

UNLOAD LONG COTTON; SOUTH A GOOD BUYER; NET LOSSES ARE SMALL

Selling of cotton was fairly active during the greater part of the day with general liquidation on especially in March delivery. Weakness in stocks influenced selling for a time, while the lowering of prices brought in new buying of volume that absorbed offerings and made a good rally which was helped by the late strength in stocks. The range was narrow, less than 10 points, with foreign offerings absorbed and the market seemed to have a better tone and a little more investment buying at the last. At the close futures in Chicago were 1 point higher. Spots in New Orleans dropped 5 points to 5.75c, with New York unchanged at 5.90c; Galveston, 5.80c, and Houston, 5.70c.

WHEAT PRICES UNSTEADY; CLOSE SLIGHTLY OFF

WHEAT PRICES IN GOLD

Wheat prices in world's market converted into United States funds at rates of exchange when they closed:

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

An undertone of uneasiness prevailed in the wheat market yesterday with sufficient selling of futures developing on the weakness in stocks to fully offset a further rally in the Canadian exchange rate, reports of a liberal export business in Manitobas and strong Liverpool cables.

Speculative interest was at a minimum the greater part of the day and there was an absence of the big spreading operations between the local and Winnipeg markets so much in evidence on Wednesday. At no time were wheat prices in Chicago more than a fraction above the finish of the previous day, with the close at net losses of ¼c. May finished at 47⅛@47¼c, July at 47⅜@47½c, and September at 48⅜c.

Winnipeg Wheat Stronger.

Further buying by exporters to remove hedges against export sales was in evidence at Winnipeg, but the business was under the total of 2,500,000 bu on Wednesday. The seaboard estimated sales at 500,000 bu, but this was regarded as well below the actual total. The Canadian market finished ¾@⅞c higher in Canadian funds, with May at 47¼c, and was ⅝c higher at 39¾c in American, gaining ¾c on the Chicago market for the day. Liverpool finished ⅝@⅞c higher, with May in the English market ⅝c over Chicago at the time it closed, against ¼c per bu discount on Wednesday. Buenos Aires was firm early, but reacted and closed ⅛c lower.

On all the minor upturns yesterday there was selling of wheat by commission houses which pit observers regarded as hedging operations.

According to those who should be in a position to know, the farm board holdings of wheat futures are still intact, but there has been a reduction in the amount of cash wheat which it had on hand recently. The latter is now said to be around 1,500,000 bu, or about half of its recent supply.

Corn Has Narrow Range.

Corn futures held within a range of ⅜c, with little attention paid to an advance of ¾c in the Buenos Aires market early. Trade was mainly of a local character with the finish unchanged to ⅛c lower. May closed at 25¾c, July 27⅛c, and September 28⅝c.

New Argentine corn for deferred shipment was reported as offered in Liverpool yesterday at a price around 1c per bu less than was being asked for old crop American. Buenos Aires finished ¼c higher, with March at 30⅛c, or 4¾c over Chicago May.

July oats sold at a new low for the season and May equaled the old low as the result of scattered liquidation. Trade was not large and the close was at net losses of ⅛@¼c. May was 16⅜c and July 16¾c at the last. Rye was off ⅛@⅜c, with May finishing at 33¾c, and July at 33⅛c. May barley closed at 27c, or ¼c under Wednesday's finish.

RAIL SURCHARGES HELPING TRUCKS, SHIPPER ASSERTS

I. C. C. Hearing on Food Rate Opens Here

An assertion that motor trucks have made great inroads in the railroads' business as a result of the surcharges on freight put into effect on Jan. 4, 1932, was made by Frank B. Townsend, a member of the Minneapolis Traffic association in an interstate commerce commission hearing at the Sherman hotel yesterday.

This hearing, which has been held in Washington, is being conducted in Chicago to permit grain, feed, and food products representatives to present their arguments as to why surcharges on certain of these lines should be discontinued after March 31.

The railroads on Dec. 10 filed a petition with the interstate commerce commission asking permission to continue the surcharges after March 31 with the provision that each road be permitted to retain in its own treasury the excess charges. Under the present order all surcharges collected are put into a pool to be loaned to needy roads. Their arguments were presented at the Washington hearing.

Truck Shipments up 150 Per Cent.

Mr. Townsend, in his testimony, which is being taken by Commissioners Claude R. Porter and William E Lee, and Examiner G. H. Mattingly, told of conditions in the Twin Cities. He stated that since the surcharges were put into effect truck movement in the Minneapolis district has increased 150 per cent. About 46 per cent of the livestock movement to St. Paul stockyards is now handled by trucks, he said.

Mr. Townsend asserted that 95 per cent of the flaxseed of the country is grown in the northwest, but under existing freight rates this region will lose the manufacture of linseed products because of the low rates for water shipments to Buffalo and elsewhere. He also stated that under existing rates the cities of the northwest may lose barley malting industry.

Cites Increase of Imports.

During his testimony he pointed out that the United States imports of barley malt have increased greatly in the last few years, while exports have melted away.

Earlier C. A. Lahey, vice president of the Quaker Oats company told of the effects of the surcharges on the revenues of his company in an argument against present rate structure. "The price level of all foods consumed by the human race has gone so low that cereal manufacturers to maintain their business must meet the lowest general price range known to industry," he said.

Surcharges now in effect vary from 6 cents to 12 cents per ton on certain products, 1 cent per 100 pounds on others, and 2 cents per 100 pounds on others. There are no surcharges on wheat, corn, oats, etc.

Mr. Porter expects the Chicago hearing to conclude today. The commission's decision must be taken shortly.

Colder Weather Helps the Hog Market.

Choice grades of cattle forged ahead again yesterday with more zest than shown previously this week. Top sales reached $7.25, within 10c of the highest mark since middle of December. No cattle sold above $6.75 during the first three days of this week and the top on Monday was $6.70. While the "upper crust" of steers maintained a strong to 25c higher position all day, other classes were more inclined to fluctuate, with the close a "catch as catch can" affair. Not all buyers were willing to follow at the full strength and waited until the "edge" was off the market for the rank and file.

Instances of slight declines were uncovered later in the poorer grades of cows and the plainer classes of steers selling at $4.50 and below. This evidence of weakness brought warnings out to the country to load lightly for next week. Members of the trade agree that the market would soon lose the small advance in prices were receipts to increase.

The top for the day at $7.25 was paid by Cudahy Brothers for a load of 1,066 lb long yearlings. The bulk of all beef steers sold at $4.25@6.00, showing 25@50c advance compared with a week ago.

Hog Range Narrow.

Slightly colder weather and the highest wholesale pork markets in recent weeks contributed most to the activity in yesterday's hog market. Prices declined 5@15c when available supplies exceeded expectations, but all interests were eager for tonnage, and buying converged in the medium and heavy weights. The range of prices was unusually narrow, with the top and average only 15c apart, at $3.50 and $3.35, respectively.

Additional gains in pork prices brought loins to a top of 8c, equaling the highest since November. The better outlet increased the buying orders held by smaller local packers toward the close, and a good clearance for all classes was made. While eastern demand is low for this time of year, it is a little ahead of a week ago, due to the steady rise in prices in the east the last few days. Top sales at far eastern points reached $4.05, the first time they have touched $4.00 since the latter part of November.

Lambs Reach $6.00.

It was an uphill fight in the sheep house to put top grades of lambs back up to the $6.00 line yesterday, but the majority of the good grades of 90 lb averages and lighter weights finally moved over the scales on a steady to 10c higher basis. A few heavy lambs showed 15c gain. City butchers bought several hundred 80@90 lb averages at the top. Prime 94 lb averages sold at $5.65.

Little change was reported in the wholesale market for dressed lamb carcasses, but the small available receipts enabled sellers to raise live costs a trifle. The seven markets during the first four days of this week received 185,000 head. This total was smaller than any corresponding period in four years.
